

SIAC Organizational Structure Draws Fiscal Office Criticism

SALEM (UPI)—Organization of the State Industrial Accident Commission (SIAC) was criticized in a scathing report issued Friday by the Legislative Fiscal Office.

Questioning by legislators after the report was read brought out the commission was thinking of going back to the reorganization plan that was junked when two new commissioners were appointed by the governor.

—That the Finance and Administration Department was aware of the old reorganization was not working, and is not convinced the present plan is working well, either.

—A charge by Callahan that the old reorganization plan "was the brainchild of commissioners Sidney B. Lewis and Emily P. Logan," who were fired in June by Gov. Mark Hatfield.

—That while new commissioners Charles Gill Jr. and Wilfred Jordan were appointed on June 25, and abandoned the former reorganization program the following day, both insisted they had "several days to study the problem before being sworn in."

'Particulars' Demanded
When Callahan challenged some conclusions drawn by the report, House Speaker Clarence Barton, D-Coquille, ordered the commissioners to prepare a "bill of particulars" of any inaccuracies.

The legislative committee also directed the Finance and Administration Department to review "the former and present organizational structure" of SIAC and present "the department's present opinion regarding the necessity for future change."

Penwell's report noted a survey, completed in April, 1962, which led to reorganization, cost $50,367, and pointed to net annual savings of $180,724.

Plan Was Resisted
Penwell also noted "the reorganization was subject to intense internal resistance . . . in several instances, major deficiencies in the organizational plan became known, but no positive action was taken to correct them."

Farm Groups Oppose Russ Wheat Export

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Grange, the nation's two largest farm organizations, said today they were opposed at present to exports of government-subsidized wheat to the Soviet Union.

Spokesmen for the two groups added, however, that the issue of possible wheat sales to Russia will be reviewed by Farm Bureau and Grange members this fall.

Under present regulations, exports of subsidized crops to Russia is not permitted. And, at present, all wheat exports are subsidized with government payments covering the gap between the American support price and the lower world market price.

Russia's recent purchases of wheat from Canada and Australia have produced speculation about possible sales of American wheat to the Soviet Union.

Some congressmen from wheat states have called for a change in government policy to allow for such sales at the same subsidized export price used on all foreign sales of American wheat.

Administration farm officials said that no wheat sales proposals had been received from the Soviet Union. But there have been rumors of feelers in private trade circles.

Canyonville Audit Report Is Heard

The Canyonville City Council accepted the auditors report, closed two streets to log truck traffic, set aside a plot of ground for a memorial and contemplated a change in nominating city officers at its meeting this week.

Mrs. R. E. Proctor, correspondent, said the council is considering petition filing for city office in the hope that citizens interested in one aspect or another of city government would file a petition for that office. In other years, the city has used the caucus method of selecting nominees. City attorney James Richmond is to advise the council on the legality of changing the system of selection, and the change will be published.

Should Richmond advise against a change, the annual caucus meeting will be held at the regular meeting of the council at 8 p.m. Oct. 21.

The council voted to close Hill drive north from First Street and Fairchild west from Leland to log truck traffic. These streets will be posted. The report of auditors Walpole, Hanberg and Co. of Roseburg was accepted by the council.

The Canyonville Volunteer Fire Dept., with William Abel as spokesman, asked for a plot of city ground near the City Hall upon which to erect a memorial to deceased fire department members, most recent of whom would be Moses Pritchett and Norman Hanson.

Lionism's Role In World Unity Is Cited By Speaker At Club's Anniversary Event

Lionism's place in bringing about world unity was expounded upon by Curtis D. Lovill of Gardiner, Maine, immediate past president of Lions International, who addressed some 250 persons from over the state Friday night at the Elks Club.

The occasion was the 35th anniversary of the Roseburg Lions when charter members, Don Helliwell, Bruce Elliott and Ford Singleton of Roseburg, and A. L. Hahn, charter president, now of Eugene, were honored. Recognition was made of the club's community achievements during a 1 1/2 time.

People of the world are one when they "work and pray together," Lovill told the large gathering, and cited experiences of his world travels as International president during the year ending in June to bear out this contention.

Keep Faith
He stressed the importance of keeping faith to bring about a world of understanding, whether the people be black or yellow or white, and regardless of religion or creed.

In a heart rendering talk, Lovill told of attending a 40th anniversary of a Montreal Lions club. He was asked to make the announcement that the club had raised $10,000 selling fruit cakes at Christmas to buy $5,000 worth of tractors to be shipped to India, and another $5,000 for sewing machines to be shipped to Pakistan. When he visited these countries later he saw the evidence of their use and expressed a feeling of pride in the honor of making these announcements.

He stated he had heard prior to visiting South America that Americans or other nationalities were not accepted there, but in Venezuela he found one district governor for Lions was a Jew from Germany. He had been a target of Nazi attacks during the war, and had been stripped, beaten and left to die, but survived and carried on though his body was badly mutilated. The other district governor of that nation was a former Boston Italian boy.

He described a clinic in that nation built with funds raised by Lions for the care of the sick and needy, and which they had him dedicate.

Lions in Rio de Janeiro, rushed to completion a music stand shell, in their cultural promotion efforts, so that Lovill, as International president could dedicate it on his arrival.

In Iran, old Persia, he had an audience with the shah and they discussed the growth of Lionism in that nation where the number of clubs last year was boosted from 60 to 100.

The shah asked him when Lions International was going to start printing its literature in Persian, as well as in other languages. Lovill promised to take the matter up with the board at its meeting last April in Tokyo. As a result the Persian language became the tenth in which the literature is transcribed.

Tells Of Visits
Lovill stated he visited about half of the 500-plus nations which have Lions. Everywhere he found the same spirit and desire of working together to bring about a unified world in its thinking, and he was given an outstanding welcome wherever he went.

Lions from as far away as LaGrande, Pendleton and Hood River and many from the Willamette Valley and Portland attended the anniversary occasion of the Roseburg Lions. Many of them planned to go on to Grants Pass today for the state board meeting, when Lovill also will be the speaker.

Past presidents of the Roseburg Club in attendance were introduced and recognized. The current president is Thomas Pargeter, who presided. Past presidents still in the club and introduced are Loyd Hastings, Frank Von Borstel, B. A. Saar, A. G. McLain, Glenn B. Clute, Bruce Tuck, George Foster, Albert McBee, Dr. James E. Campbell, Forrest Losee, Thomas C. Hartfield, Helliwell, J. P. Motschenbacher, Elliott, and Phil Harth.

District Governor Ken Rutledge of District 36-E made special award presentations to old members for 10, 15, 25, 30 and 35 year members.

Proposal For Zone Change Would Effect Mobile Homes

A public hearing on a proposed zoning change within the City of Winston will be conducted by the Winston City Planning Commission Tuesday at 8 p. m.

H. J. Kieve, city recorder, said the hearing will be held in the Council Chambers in the city hall at Winston.

The proposed zoning change would be effected by amending Ordinance No. 66. It would provide that all house trailers authorized to be parked or used in the city would have at least 360 square feet of living area in the interior. They would have to be hooked up to the sanitary sewer or septic tank.

The change would also provide that an eight-foot slab the full length of the trailer be poured or laid as an entrance area and that the trailer would be set on blocks with six inches of base rock. The trailer would have to be fully skirted with exterior materials and painted or otherwise commercially finished.

Trailers would be limited to one trailer on each building lot as defined by the building code, and location of the trailer would have to comply with setbacks as established by ordinances of the city.

The proposal would allow trailers to be parked or installed in the city in a zone including all that area lying east of Pacific Highway No. 99 business route, and in the business area on the west side of Pacific Highway No. 99.

Kieve said all property owners and residents of the City of Winston are invited to attend the Tuesday meeting to discuss with the Planning Commission the proposed zone change.
