

State Industry Leader Defends Tax Measure

The general manager of the Association of Oregon Industries urged approval of the tax referral measure and defended the present state tax bill in a talk here Monday.

Ivan Congleton was speaker at a meeting attended by AOI members and business leaders of the Roseburg area.

Others present from the AOI (which represents employer groups around the state) were Charles Ogle, assistant to the AOI president and Douglas Heider, director of the Oregon Retail Council. Also attending were State Sen. Al Flegel and State Rep. Sid Leiken.

Congleton said AOI felt little would be gained by calling a special legislative session to settle the question of tax increases to balance Oregon's budget, which will be put before the voter Oct. 15. Legislators would probably accomplish little more than they did in the last session, he indicated.

Budget Explained
The general fund budget for the next biennium is $494 million, a $60 million increase over the previous biennium's budget. Part of this stems from the fact that $33 million in surplus from the previous budgets was used to balance the last budget. This has to be made up in this budget.

Congleton said this could have been avoided by cutting the budget back — mainly in the educational field — broadening the minimum tax base from 1 to 1 1/2 per cent and passing a cigarette tax. These are some of the steps AOI is supporting. His main contention is that if a special session is called, it will hit the businessman in the belt with more corporate and business taxes.

He said AOI foresees what was coming and advocated to legislators a number of bills including those he said would have headed off the increase in the budget.

Effects Cited
The speaker warned that defeat of the referral measure could result in a speed-up of withholding tax and estimated tax returns, an increase in insurance company taxes and an increase in wine and beer taxes. He discussed each one of these items. For instance, it was stated an increase in alcoholic taxes would just about put the only winery in Oregon out of business, and an increase in insurance company taxes would greatly hinder infant companies just starting in Oregon.

Congleton expressed fear that the referral measure might be defeated as result of a possible bad image created by the legislature or because Oregonians might not know what is in the tax bill.

Rejection of the measure would mean that each department under the general fund might have to be cut by as much as 25 per cent.

If the entire cut were to be taken from the education program (which represents 62 per cent of the general fund), the education outlay would be cut by one-third. The speaker pointed out that the latter possibility is not feasible.

Council Fathers Approve Debate On Document

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Ecumenical Council gave "nearly unanimous" preliminary approval today to a document that could mark a great step toward Christian unity.

During a three-hour session, about 2,300 Roman Catholic prelates ruled that the proposal "de ecclesia"—about the church—was fit for further debate.

Authoritative sources said the council "will now begin a point-by-point discussion." The Latin debate may go on for weeks before there is a final vote.

The document goes a long way towards espousing the cherished Protestant doctrine of "the priesthood of all believers."

There was no immediate official communiqué or press briefing. Official details of today's session probably will be given out later in the afternoon.

The first working session of the council Monday made it clear, officials informed said, that the draft enjoyed predominant support, especially from the "liberals" who are bent on a far-reaching renewal of the church to help make Christian unity possible.

The long "De Ecclesia" document includes sections on the nature of the church, the powers of bishops and their relationship to the Pope in the government of the church, and the role of laymen in Catholic life.

An authoritative source said the draft stresses that there is in common, rather than the differences, between the Pope and other bishops, between ordained clergymen and laymen, and between Catholic and non-Catholic Christians.

It defines the church in biblical language as "the people of God" and says that all of the people of God are united in a basic equality.

Although the document clearly reiterates the traditional Catholic teaching that Christ conferred special powers upon the apostles (and their successors, the bishops of today), it emphasizes that "those who stand out in power as ministers serve their brothers."

Home Welcomes Russia's Renunciation Of War, Serves Warning On Red China

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI) — British Foreign Secretary Lord Home today welcomed Russia's renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy and warned Communist China that a nuclear conflict would annihilate it.

Home, in a policy speech to the General Assembly, told the new countries of Asia and Africa to drop their cry of "neo-colonialism" unless they want to lose investment capital from the developed countries.

"A few more cases like that of Indonesia and the supply of capital will dry up," Home said in a brief reference to the seizure of British investments in Indonesia following the London-backed formation of the new federation of Malaysia.

Home said there were signs that herald "a new chapter of co-operation" between East and West.

"Mr. Khrushchev has time and again in recent months declared on behalf of the Soviet government that to interpret Communist doctrine in terms of world war is wrong and is folly," he said. "So strongly has he — to use the wrong metaphor — struck his guns that he and his Soviet colleagues have been ready to split the Communist world in half rather than compromise."

California Man To Address County Teacher Meeting
A man regarded as one of America's best speakers on modern education has been scheduled as the featured speaker at the annual Douglas County Teachers' Conference, which will be held in Roseburg Nov. 12.

Douglas County Supt. of Schools Kenneth F. Barneburg said that Frank O. McIntyre, director of public relations for the California Teachers' Association, southern section, will give the principle address at the annual conference.

The conference will be held at the community building of the Douglas County Fairgrounds. A new feature this year will be displays of educational materials by several manufacturers and dealers. School boards and the general public will be invited to view these displays during the evening.

McIntyre has given more than 1,000 speeches during the past four years throughout the nation. He is editor of three professional publications and is recognized as a leader in sales and public relations.

He has been guest lecturer at more than 60 colleges and universities throughout America. "Local school people are delighted that McIntyre is making this Roseburg appearance," Barneburg said.

Petty Larceny Charge Holds Spokane Couple
Roseburg City Police have taken into custody a Spokane, Wash., couple on a petty larceny charge in connection with the alleged theft of a coffee pot and towel from a local motel.

Taken into custody and booked at the county jail under $100 bail each were Lyman Edward Cade and his wife, Lucille M. Cade, both 40.

Mrs. Leon Hughes of the Tower Motel reported to the city police Monday morning the items were missing when the couple moved out that morning.

Police in search of the couple found their car parked on a curb uptown, and had the car impounded by a local towing service. The couple was then located, interrogated by police, then were taken to the car where Lyman made a search of the luggage. The missing items were located in the car, police said, so the pair was arrested and jailed.

The couple reported they were traveling and that they had had trouble with the landlady the night before because she had contended the television set was too loud.

"On paper, Communist theory may include the use of force but the national interest of the Soviet Union cannot endorse it."

"China at present may think that from a nuclear holocaust she would inherit the earth. But she will learn as she gains nuclear knowledge that all her millions would not save her from annihilation if nuclear war were to break. China, too, in her turn, will be compelled to drop force from her national program if she wishes to survive."

Sees Some Value
The lean and balding British leader said he could see some value in Russia's proposal for an 18-nation disarmament summit conference in Moscow next year if preliminary talks showed a possibility of agreement on:

—Refusal of countries having nuclear weapons to give them, or the secret of making them, to countries that do not have them.

—Stationing of observers in NATO and Warsaw pact countries as a guard against surprise attack.

—Progress on the first stage of general disarmament, including abolition of some nuclear delivery vehicles.

Year-Old Republic Of Algeria Is Facing Threat Of Civil War

PARIS (UPI) — The year-old republic of Algeria teeters on the edge of civil war today.

For the second time in 12 months "strongman" President Ahmed Ben Bella is fighting to retain his hold.

At stake are his one-party, one-man rule and his dream of making Algeria a left-leaning "peoples' republic."

The newest challenge to Ben Bella exploded Sunday when thousands of Berber tribesmen in the rugged Kabyle Mountains east of Algiers staged a demonstration against the Ben Bella regime.

The revolt was centered in the Kabyle capital of Tizou-Ouzou. Its two main leaders are Hocine Ait Ahmed, a dissident member of Ben Bella's one-party parliament and Col. Mohand Ou El Hadj, former commander of the Seventh Military District.

Hunting Rifles Reported Stolen
Theft of two more hunting rifles have been reported to local police agencies.

Albert A. Hachler, 304 W. Susan St., Roseburg, reported a Model 70 Winchester 30.06 rifle with scope was taken from his garage sometime Saturday night. He told city police he did not report it earlier as he thought he may have misplaced the gun.

Merle J. Maloney, Rt. 3, Box 1525, reported to the sheriff's department the theft of an 8mm German hunting rifle from his home.

Earlier Gerald S. Thomason, 385 W. Center St., had reported theft of a 30.06 military rifle stolen from his parked car in front of his home.

When the war ended last year, the bulk of the so-called "National Liberation Army" which had sat it out for years in the safety of neighboring Tunisia and Morocco without firing a shot, moved in and took over.

Took Best Jobs
It grabbed control of the country and it seized the best jobs. The guerrillas of the Kabyle Mountains who bore the brunt of the fighting still harbor a deep grudge over this. One year ago Ben Bella and his supporters had to fight a brief but bitter civil war before winning control.

The Berbers bowed to superior force, but they never really yielded.

The dissidents are believed to have between 8,000 and 10,000 troops — many of them veterans of the revolutionary period who battled bravely for years against the French.

Against them Ben Bella has far stronger forces and the bulk of the army's heavy tanks and guns. The anti-Ben Bella groups cannot hope to whip him in a stand-up fight. But they can take again to their mountains and wage another guerrilla struggle as they did against the French. It would be difficult for Ben Bella to defeat them there.

The big threat today is of a new center of guerrilla resistance that would serve as a constant menace to Ben Bella's rule.

The Berbers were among the fiercest fighters against the French in Algeria's seven-year war of independence. They fought bitterly in their mountain strongholds and the French never really subdued them.

THE LINCOLN CONTINENTAL incorporates significant increases in interior spaciousness and luggage capacity for 1964. While continuing its classic styling theme, the 1964 Continental is increased three-inches in over-all length and wheelbase. The Continental roof is 5.4 inches wider in 1964, providing the car with a new styling flair in addition to increased head room in both front and rear seats. The car has a longer profile and is enriched with a new grille, extensive new body sheet metal and exterior ornamentation. The luggage capacity has been increased by 15 per cent. New models are now on display at Mock Motors in Roseburg.

First showings: the 1964 Lincoln Continental. Discover the greater spaciousness behind its classic profile.

When you inspect the new Continental you will discover why more than half the people who buy in our price range choose the Continental.

Notice the greater passenger room.

Come in, and inspect the new Continental yourself. Its profile is only three inches longer than in 1961-2-3. Yet you will find a roomier rear compartment, with four inches more leg room and 2.5 inches more knee room than in 1963. This makes for twice the knee room of the 1961 and 1962 Continental. And the luggage compartment is 15% larger, for a total increase of 33% over 1961-2.

But with all this added space, the Continental retains all the qualities that set it apart from every other automobile:

1. Timeless styling is a prime reason the Continental retains so high a value.
2. The Continental is available in just two models: the sedan and the convertible. There are no lower priced models, because there is no compromise of its standards to offer lesser versions.
3. Both the sedan and the convertible have four doors opening at the center for the easiest entrance. Continental offers the only American four-door convertible.
4. The unusual rigidity of integral construction contributes to its unequalled ride.

5. Within, virtually every luxury is included as standard equipment.
6. The Continental also includes full power auxiliaries as standard equipment.
7. The Continental is built at Wixom, Michigan, in a special plant which sets the world's highest standards of precision automotive engineering.
8. No other car is so thoroughly tested. Every Continental must pass 189 road performance tests in addition to thousands of examinations and inspections during manufacture.
9. The Continental is uniquely free from maintenance. It is constructed to last.

Before you decide on your next automobile, drive the Continental. It is the world's finest automobile. Please call us, and we will be happy to arrange a demonstration at your convenience.
