Dear Abby!

Oahs And Ahs!

— By ABIGAIL VANBUREN —

DEAR ABBY: I am one waitress who always waits on teen-agers right away because I want to get rid of them. They are surly, and all they leave behind is a messy table.

DOESN'T LIKE TEENS

DEAR ABBY: Put me down as a waitress who enjoys waiting on teen-agers. I find that, like any other minority group, they behave extra nice because they do not want to reflect unfavorably on the group they represent. Give me teen-agers any time!

LIKES TEEN-AGERS

DEAR ABBY: My partner and I own a small diner near a high school. We had so much trouble with the kids stealing things and breaking up the place that we put a sign in our window, "WE DO NOT SOLICIT TEEN-AGE BUSINESS." A committee of parents came in and told us we were breaking the law to discriminate that way. They took down the sign and invited a few of the committee to come in and watch through the kitchen door, which had a glass window in it. After they saw what went on they told us to go ahead and put the sign back up.

PREFERS ADULTS

DEAR ABBY: For my part I hope I never have to wait on the teen-age crowd again. For one year I waited on tables where a lot of teen-agers hung out and I have had enough of them, thank you. They order a cup of coffee and expect you to keep it filled for an hour. They hold on to one booth no matter how many people are waiting to sit down. And when they leave, their table and the floor around it are a disgrace. Dozens of paper napkins, cigarette butts and spilled sugar. And they leave only an empty bottle of ketchup on the table.

SICK OF KIDS

DEAR ABBY: I don't mind having one or even two teen-agers in my drug store. But when three or more come in together, they spell trouble, and I never take my eye off them until they are out the door.

PROPRIETOR

DEAR ABBY: I run a hamburger joint and I couldn't stay in business without the kids. I love them. There are good and bad, but I found out if you treat them right they will treat you right, too. So what if they do make a little noise? I'd rather have them in here yelling and screaming than to have some old pussies who open their mouths only to complain about something. Kids don't gripe if the service is a little slow. And I've never known a teen-ager to send anything back to the kitchen.

NO COMPLAINTS

DEAR ABBY: It is strange that when teen-agers come into my place during the daytime, dressed in Bermudas and jeans, they act rowdy and eat like pigs! But these same teen-agers will come in at night, dressed up in suits and pretty dresses, and they behave like ladies and gentlemen. I like to serve them in the evenings, but not during the day!

Maison Reports Busy Year For State Police

SALEM (UPI) — Oregon State Police traveled 13.4 million miles during fiscal 1962-63, made 101,019 traffic arrests, and issued 109,675 traffic warnings, Supt. H. G. Maison revealed today in his annual report to the governor.

"The department had a busy year," Maison noted.

"In addition to regular police duties its members were called upon to assist in the suppression of a riot over the Labor Day weekend, and to restore order and prevent further violence at the scene of a labor dispute. "The Columbus Day storm severely taxed our resources in the western portion of the state and tested, in particular, the communications system."

Maison said "tragedy struck on CLAIMS POTATO RECORD "FUNTINGTON, England (UPI) — Farmer John Cooke, who claimed a world record last year when he grew 350 pounds of potatoes from six plants, said recently he has grown 391 pounds from another six plants this year.

Nov. 8, 1962" when patrolman Ralph D. Bates was killed by a gunman while on patrol duty near Arlington." Maison said he was the 12th state police officer to meet violent death in this manner since the state police was organized.

During the year state police recovered 625 stolen vehicles, made 5,753 criminal arrests, and investigated 4,097 criminal complaints.

Large Volume Mailers Show Most Interest In ZIP Code

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is an open letter to a California editor who asked about the progress of the Post Office Department's new ZIP code program. He said he did not believe many people were using it.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dear 92827: I'm afraid we're being out-numbered. I checked with 20260 (the Post Office Department) and they claim they are getting more public cooperation than they had expected when they assigned everyone in the country a five-digit postal zone number back in July.

As a matter of fact, they feel the response has been so favorable they are trying to speed up development of a machine which would sort ZIP-coded mail without mortal aid.

As they expected when they announced the ZIP code program, most of the early enthusiasts for it is coming from the large-volume mailers such as insurance companies, magazine publishers, mail order houses and big companies that do regular billing.

At the outset the department announced that it expected cooperation from about 79 per cent of the 25,000 large firms that account for about half of the nation's mail volume.

More than 80 per cent of these firms that have been surveyed since the program started have reported that they are already using ZIP code or are converting their mailing lists so they can.

As for letters to "Aunt Minnie"—there is no official survey to indicate how many personal letters contain the ZIP code, either in the return address or in the mailing address.

One official at 20260 made a "guesstimate" of around 20 per cent for the mailing addresses and a little higher than that on the return address.

The department expects those percentages to climb after the Christmas mailings because most people update their correspondence lists after the annual influx of Christmas cards.

And anyway it is the large mailers that the department is immediately concerned with. If the larger mailer has your number he can use his automatic equipment to pre-sort his mailings and save the department a lot of work.

Using your ZIP code number is essentially something the department wants you to do now so you will be in the habit of doing it when they complete development of a machine that will read these numbers and automatically sort the mail.

Originally, development of this machine was expected to take about five years. Now they think it may be in use before that. The real area where the department feels it is making progress beyond expectations is in public awareness of the ZIP code.
