

Tax Referral
How a favorable vote Tuesday will affect pocket books of Oregonians. See page 2.

The News-Review

Indians In Action
Roseburg's Indians face the Thurston Colts tonight at Finlay Field. Story on page 5.

Soviets Block Traffic On Berlin Autobahn

Army Sergeant Kills Self After Disclosure He Sold Secrets To Soviet Union

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Demands for a sweeping review of U. S. security procedures appeared today to follow disclosures that a high-ranking Army sergeant sold secrets to the Russians for an estimated $60,000.

The Defense Department said Thursday night that Sgt. I.C. Jack Edward Dunlap, 35, an employee of the super-secret National Security Agency (NSA), peddled classified materials to Red agents for more than two years, but killed himself when his lavish spending gave him away.

Adenauer Quits As Chancellor Of W. Germany

BONN (UPI)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, for 14 years head of the West German government, today formally tendered his resignation to President Heinrich Lübke.

Adenauer, 87, travelled from his chancellery to the presidential palace next door at mid-morning to report to Lübke on his trip to Berlin Thursday and to hand in his resignation.

Photographers called on short notice took pictures of Adenauer handing Lübke a large white envelope. Only a half hour later were reporters told the envelope contained Adenauer's resignation.

According to a schedule agreed several days ago, Lübke will announce to parliament Tuesday he has accepted Adenauer's resignation, but asked him to remain on as caretaker until a successor is elected.

Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard already has been elected by the two parties forming the government coalition to form the new government.

Lübke is to send Erhard's nomination to the parliament Wednesday. The lower house will vote on the nomination without debate.

As the Christian Democrats, which Adenauer and Erhard lead, and their partners, the Free Democrats, together have a majority, Erhard's election is a sure thing.

The opposition Social Democrats have said they will vote against Erhard, but will respect his election. In the words of party leader, West Berlin Lord Mayor Willy Brandt, the Social Democrats "will give Erhard a fair chance."

Daniel D. Olin, who was formerly stationed in Roseburg attached to the Umpqua National Forest, has been promoted to the Washington, D.C. office of the U.S. Forest Service. He will be in the Division of Land Adjustments access procurement branch.

Olin has been in the Pacific Northwest Regional office in Portland since 1960. He was transferred there from Roseburg at that time. Before that, he had worked in the Siskiyou National Forest and the Willamette National Forest.

Bookmakers were betting on Butler, a London firm posted odds of 2 to 1 on Butler, with Hailsham second favorite at 9 to 4.

The Daily Mirror, another newspaper that usually supports Labor, said "it is a struggle without precedent in the history of British politics — a gloves-off battle."

Bookmakers were betting on Butler, a London firm posted odds of 2 to 1 on Butler, with Hailsham second favorite at 9 to 4.

The Daily Mirror, another newspaper that usually supports Labor, said "it is a struggle without precedent in the history of British politics — a gloves-off battle."

Bookmakers were betting on Butler, a London firm posted odds of 2 to 1 on Butler, with Hailsham second favorite at 9 to 4.

The Daily Mirror, another newspaper that usually supports Labor, said "it is a struggle without precedent in the history of British politics — a gloves-off battle."

Bookmakers were betting on Butler, a London firm posted odds of 2 to 1 on Butler, with Hailsham second favorite at 9 to 4.

The Daily Mirror, another newspaper that usually supports Labor, said "it is a struggle without precedent in the history of British politics — a gloves-off battle."

Bookmakers were betting on Butler, a London firm posted odds of 2 to 1 on Butler, with Hailsham second favorite at 9 to 4.

Conservative Party Seeks Replacement For Prime Minister

BLACKPOOL, England (UPI)—The Conservative party sought a new leader today to replace Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who announced Thursday that he will resign. Acting Prime Minister R. A. Butler and Science Minister Lord Hailsham were the favorites.

Macmillan's announcement stunned the party convention, meeting in this seaside resort to work out a campaign program for the general elections it must fight against Labor in the next 12 months.

Butler, who nearly became prime minister in 1957, when Macmillan was chosen by the party to replace Anthony Eden, was considered the top contender. As deputy premier, he is in charge of the government while Macmillan recuperates from the prostate gland operation that forced his decision to quit.

But Hailsham, the disheveled, shaggy orator with a vast following among the party rank and file, made a determined bid for the post Thursday night by announcing he would give up his peerage and seek election in the House of Commons.

The premiership in this century has been reserved for commoners and Hailsham, who will be known once again as Mr. Quintin Hogg, had to resign from the House of Lords to be eligible.

His announcement, however, was a sensation at the party conference, which had given Hailsham a stormy ovation on his arrival here Wednesday.

"He has split the party right down the middle," one official said. "There's no certainty now what will happen."

"The knives are out," headlines the pro-Labor London Daily Herald.

The Daily Mirror, another newspaper that usually supports Labor, said "it is a struggle without precedent in the history of British politics — a gloves-off battle."

Bookmakers were betting on Butler, a London firm posted odds of 2 to 1 on Butler, with Hailsham second favorite at 9 to 4.

The Daily Mirror, another newspaper that usually supports Labor, said "it is a struggle without precedent in the history of British politics — a gloves-off battle."

Bookmakers were betting on Butler, a London firm posted odds of 2 to 1 on Butler, with Hailsham second favorite at 9 to 4.

The Daily Mirror, another newspaper that usually supports Labor, said "it is a struggle without precedent in the history of British politics — a gloves-off battle."

Bookmakers were betting on Butler, a London firm posted odds of 2 to 1 on Butler, with Hailsham second favorite at 9 to 4.

The Weather

AIRPORT RECORDS

Partly cloudy with showers this afternoon. Mostly cloudy with occasional rain Saturday.

Highest temp. last 24 hours 75

Lowest temp. last 24 hours 53

Highest temp. any Oct. (58) 91

Lowest temp. any Oct. (54) 26

Precip. last 24 hours .17

Normal Oct. precip. 3.02

Precip. from Sept. 1 1.78

Precip. from Oct. 1 .36

Sunset tonight, 6:38 p.m. PDT

Sunrise tomorrow, 7:23 a.m. PDT

PLAY BALL

With United Fund

Goal Score To Date

$69,936 $29,963

CUSTOMS OFFICIALS at the International Bridge are shown at Laredo, Tex., with the largest heroin seizure ever made on the Mexican border. The smuggled shipment of almost pure heroin is valued at more than $33 million on the retail underworld market. Shown in the back seat of an automobile, with the heroin as it was packed underneath and in the springs. Shown displaying the heroin, from left to right, are Peter Parker, Herman Scheer and James E. Ragsdale. The 66 packets of the drug were taken from the car of a Montreal, Canada, couple on the Mexican border. (UPI Telephoto) classified materials to Red agents for more than two years, but killed himself when his lavish spending gave him away.

Dunlap's breach of U. S. security was the second case at NSA in three years. In 1960 NSA mathematicians Bernon F. Mitchell and William H. Martin fled to the Soviet Union by way of Mexico and Cuba.

NSA deals with high-level military intelligence, particularly codes and ciphers of this country and foreign powers. Its work is perhaps the most secret of all government agencies.

Pentagon Says No Access

The Pentagon insisted that Dunlap, who was originally assigned to NSA headquarters at Ft. George G. Meade, Md., in April 1958 as a driver, did not have access to top secret U. S. codes and ciphers.

Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, said Dunlap had told his wife he received between $30,000 and $40,000 during the first two years of his dealings with Red spies. Informers sources put Dunlap's total take at $60,000, however.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, who received a confidential report on the incident, said he was "shocked that such a thing as this could have occurred in this agency."

Russell said the incident "reveals a glaring weakness in our personnel policy." He said his committee would await the results of a complete investigation being conducted by the Army's Counter-Intelligence Corps before deciding whether to take any action on its own.

Pentagon officials would not comment on whether the FBI or other government agencies have established the identity of Dunlap's Soviet contacts.

Father Of Five

Dunlap, a native of Bogalusa, La., was married and the father of five. He joined the Army in 1952 and was "relieved" of his NSA duties "several weeks" before his suicide last July 23, according to the Defense Department.

His body was found in his new yellow Cadillac about a mile from his home in Glen Burnie, Md., early on the morning of July 23. He had run a hose from the exhaust of the car through the front window.

Police said it was Dunlap's second suicide attempt. On June 16, he took an overdose of sleeping pills at a motel near Ft. Meade. He was found about 2:30 p.m. that day by a friend, Robert Tester of Glen Burnie. Tester took him to the base hospital where he was treated and released.

Asked about the case, the White House said through Press Secretary Pierre Salinger that the Defense Department "has indicated that various government agencies have investigated and will continue to investigate the matter."

At that point, witnesses said, Dale Coady, a customer, protested and made a lunge at the robber. It was then that the man pointed his gun at the ceiling and fired. The bullet went through the ceiling and the floor of an empty apartment being remodeled above the tavern.

State police and Bob Palmer, manager of the cafe, adjacent to the tavern, found the slug on the floor. The robber added Coady's change on the bar to his loot and after warning the customers that "if anyone sticks his head out the door in the next five minutes, he'll get it blown off," he departed. Someone ventured out the door said he ran north. It was believed he had a car parked nearby.

State police, Douglas County sheriff's officers and Reedsport City Police set up roadblocks. The man was described by witnesses as about 5 feet, 9 inches tall, wearing a dark cap, dark jacket, blue jeans-type pants and glasses with black hornrim. Some witnesses said he had sandy hair.

Roadblocks were set up covering all the exits from the area. Louis Fox, owner of the tavern, was reportedly away on a hunting trip.

GRANTS PASS (UPI)—Vave M. Franklin, 48, Grants Pass, was dead on arrival at Josephine General Hospital here late Thursday.

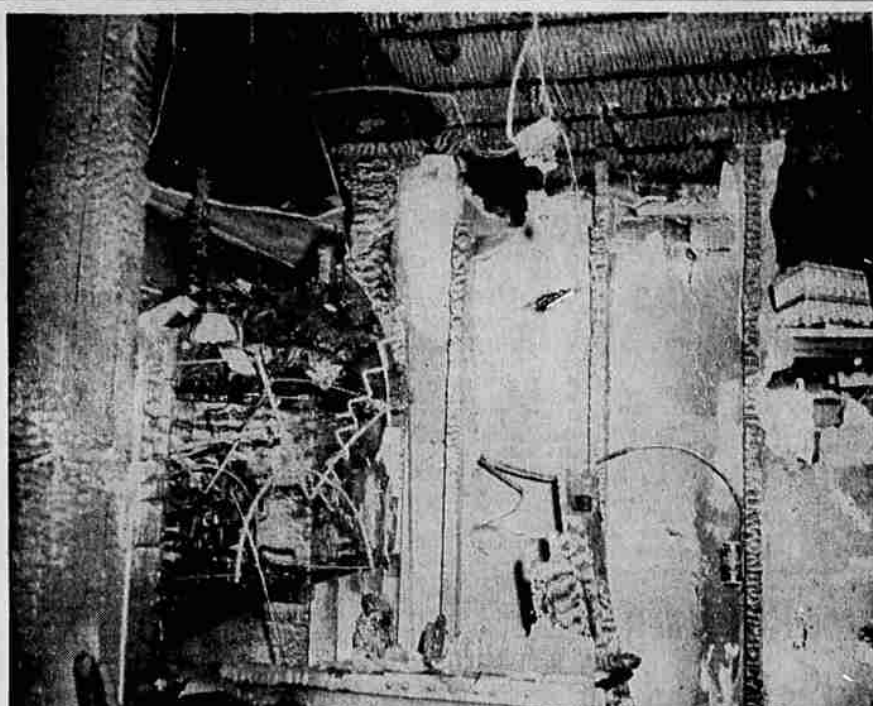

Authorities said Franklin choked to death while eating at his home. He was manager of the Mayflower Trucking Co., of Grants Pass and Medford.

PORTLAND (UPI)—Oregon's pheasant and quail season opens Saturday at 8 a.m., with prospects good in most parts of the state.

One exception to the Saturday opener is Malheur county, where the season will open Oct. 26.

PORTLAND (UPI)—Oregon's pheasant and quail season opens Saturday at 8 a.m., with prospects good in most parts of the state.

One exception to the Saturday opener is Malheur county, where the season will open Oct. 26.

ORIGIN OF FIRE, which swept beneath the Singer Sewing Center and Karl's Shoe Store and caused smoke damage to an adjacent store, was believed to be centered around the basement area pictured here beneath the Singer Center. Four firemen were injured combating the blaze which was discovered about 2:15 this morning. There was no immediate estimate of the damage, and insurance adjusters were on the scene Friday morning. (News-Review photo)

Four Firemen Injured In Blaze Early Today

By BILL SPARKS

News-Review Staff Writer

Fire roared beneath two downtown Roseburg businesses early this morning, causing heavy damage to both firms; additional damage to an adjacent business and injuring four firemen.

The fire, the cause of which is under investigation, broke out beneath the Singer Sewing Center and Karl's Shoe Store on SE Jackson Street near the SE Oak Avenue intersection early this morning and was discovered about 2:15 a.m.

Managers of the two firms estimated their inventories and the figures totaled in the neighborhood of $150,000. It was impossible, however, to give any accurate figure on the amount of damage done to that inventory. Considerable smoke and heat damage was done to the 88c Store adjacent to Singer Sewing Center. Manager Tommy Craig said it was doubtful the 88c Store would be open for business this weekend.

Fireman Oral Wescott suffered burns and cuts to his hands and burns around the face when he and two other firemen were struck by a sheet of fire that came pouring up the stairs from the basement of the Singer Center. Firemen Glenn Burgess and Robert Huff also received burns around the face and Burgess received an injured knee.

Fireman Overcome

Another city fireman, Rex Jeffries, was overcome by smoke while combating the blaze in the Karl's Shoes section of the building. All four were reported in good condition later in the morning.

Karl's manager Lloyd Hastings and Singer manager R. G. Phillips, Jr., were both high in praise for the efforts of the city firemen.

"You can really appreciate the kind of work those guys are capable of doing when you see them in action on something like this," Phillips said.

A sideglint to the fire was the theft of $75 from the safe in the Singer Center. City police are investigating the burglary and checking for possible connections between the fire and the burglary.

Fire Chief Leroy Siebold said present indications are the fire started in the basement beneath the Singer section of the building. He said the fire was an extremely hot one by the time the fire department arrived on the scene.

The fire worked its way along the ceiling of the basement, causing heavy heat damage to both stores, as well as heat and smoke damage to the adjacent 88c store. It then boiled up through the stairwell into the Singer Center and worked its way up a wall into the Karl's Store.

Karl's Closed

Hastings said Karl's will be closed for an undetermined time while they check damage this weekend and check into the structural damage to the building.

Phillips said Singer salesmen will be on the road today and the store will feature home delivery to anyone calling in. "We'll be operating on the same basis we did following the blast," he said. The majority of the new stock for the Singer Center was in crates in the basement and apparently came through the fire undamaged, he noted.

The stock in the upstairs display section of the Singer Center received damage. Included in the list of damaged merchandise were sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, typewriters, office equipment, notions, etc.

At Karl's Shoe Store, many boxes of shoes were burned and shoes on open display were damaged by being discolored by smoke, Hastings said.

MIAMI (UPI)—Long-lived hurricane Flora, which killed an estimated 3,700 persons in a violent slash across the Caribbean, was expected to begin dying today in the cold Atlantic Ocean.

"Some decrease in highest winds near the center should begin today as the hurricane passes over colder waters," said the Miami Weather Bureau.

The 12-day old tropical storm, boasting top 115 mile per hour winds, buffeted Bermuda with gale winds Thursday night during its race towards the open Atlantic.

The latest advisory (6 a.m. EDT) was issued by the Washington Weather Bureau and located Flora near latitude 35.0 north, longitude 56.0 west, and moving northeast at 25 miles per hour.

Damage estimates from the season's sixth tropical twister were incomplete, but ran as high as $500 million. Hardest hit were Haiti and Cuba.

ed for an undetermined time while they check damage this weekend and check into the structural damage to the building.

Phillips said Singer salesmen will be on the road today and the store will feature home delivery to anyone calling in. "We'll be operating on the same basis we did following the blast," he said. The majority of the new stock for the Singer Center was in crates in the basement and apparently came through the fire undamaged, he noted.

The stock in the upstairs display section of the Singer Center received damage. Included in the list of damaged merchandise were sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, typewriters, office equipment, notions, etc.

At Karl's Shoe Store, many boxes of shoes were burned and shoes on open display were damaged by being discolored by smoke, Hastings said.

MIAMI (UPI)—Long-lived hurricane Flora, which killed an estimated 3,700 persons in a violent slash across the Caribbean, was expected to begin dying today in the cold Atlantic Ocean.

"Some decrease in highest winds near the center should begin today as the hurricane passes over colder waters," said the Miami Weather Bureau.

The 12-day old tropical storm, boasting top 115 mile per hour winds, buffeted Bermuda with gale winds Thursday night during its race towards the open Atlantic.

The latest advisory (6 a.m. EDT) was issued by the Washington Weather Bureau and located Flora near latitude 35.0 north, longitude 56.0 west, and moving northeast at 25 miles per hour.

Damage estimates from the season's sixth tropical twister were incomplete, but ran as high as $500 million. Hardest hit were Haiti and Cuba.

MIAMI (UPI)—Long-lived hurricane Flora, which killed an estimated 3,700 persons in a violent slash across the Caribbean, was expected to begin dying today in the cold Atlantic Ocean.

"Some decrease in highest winds near the center should begin today as the hurricane passes over colder waters," said the Miami Weather Bureau.

The 12-day old tropical storm, boasting top 115 mile per hour winds, buffeted Bermuda with gale winds Thursday night during its race towards the open Atlantic.

The latest advisory (6 a.m. EDT) was issued by the Washington Weather Bureau and located Flora near latitude 35.0 north, longitude 56.0 west, and moving northeast at 25 miles per hour.

Damage estimates from the season's sixth tropical twister were incomplete, but ran as high as $500 million. Hardest hit were Haiti and Cuba.

MIAMI (UPI)—Long-lived hurricane Flora, which killed an estimated 3,700 persons in a violent slash across the Caribbean, was expected to begin dying today in the cold Atlantic Ocean.

"Some decrease in highest winds near the center should begin today as the hurricane passes over colder waters," said the Miami Weather Bureau.

The 12-day old tropical storm, boasting top 115 mile per hour winds, buffeted Bermuda with gale winds Thursday night during its race towards the open Atlantic.

The latest advisory (6 a.m. EDT) was issued by the Washington Weather Bureau and located Flora near latitude 35.0 north, longitude 56.0 west, and moving northeast at 25 miles per hour.

Damage estimates from the season's sixth tropical twister were incomplete, but ran as high as $500 million. Hardest hit were Haiti and Cuba.

Convoy Held; Showdown Set By Polk

BERLIN (UPI) — Russian armored vehicles partially blocked the super-highway in and out of Berlin today, halting two U. S. Army military convoys in a dispute over clearance procedures.

Civilian traffic between West Berlin and West Germany was allowed to move over the autobahn with little difficulty.

But the Russians placed armored personnel carriers across the highway to block the passage of the American convoys, and vowed they would stay there until the new East-West controversy is settled.

(In Washington, the United States promptly protested the latest Soviet action. Secretary of State Dean Rusk summoned Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin to the State Department to lodge the protest, indicating that the United States considered the new incident as more serious than other recent ones which normally have been settled at lower echelons.)

A U. S. Army convoy carrying 61 men has been held at Russia's Babelsberg checkpoint, a mile outside Berlin since about 4 a.m. today. A second convoy from West Berlin joined it about 9 a.m.

One convoy rolled from West Berlin to West Germany today without incident before the highway was blocked.

The army said the holdup of the Berlin-bound convoys, which started at 9 a.m. Thursday at the West German end of the autobahn and continued today at Babelsberg is the "result of a unilateral Soviet attempt to change established procedure for clearing U.S. convoy traffic on the autobahn."

It condemned the blocking of traffic as "a wholly unilateral act of the Soviets."

Maj. Gen. James H. Polk, U.S. commander in Berlin, was prepared for a full-scale showdown with the Soviets to protect American access rights along the vital highway between Berlin and the West, informed sources said.

The situation was considered the most serious in Berlin since U.S. and Russian tanks stood muzzle to muzzle along the Berlin wall in October, 1961.

The two other convoys stopped Thursday by the Russians were permitted to continue their trip into West Germany.

The convoys were blocked because the United States refused to accede to Soviet demands to have its soldiers get out of the trucks and jeeps and stand beside the highway while Soviet guards counted them.

The Army insisted the Soviets have no right to do this and said the soldiers could be counted in the vehicles, as is the usual procedure.

The Army spokesman indicated that the Soviets' total blockade of the highway would not be lifted as long as the controversy over the processing of the convoys remained unresolved.

The five convoys involved totaled more than 500 men and more than 80 vehicles.

Diplomats felt the stopping may have been intended as a probe of Western intentions following the nuclear test ban treaty and the general relaxation of tensions in the cold war.

The diplomats said the Soviets may have been under the impression that Allied troops were under orders to avoid access route incidents as part of the new "spirit of Moscow" that followed the treaty signing.

If this was the Soviet intent, the Army immediately made it clear it will not back down in its determination to keep troops and vehicles rolling over Berlin's access routes as often as it chooses.

MIAMI (UPI)—Long-lived hurricane Flora, which killed an estimated 3,700 persons in a violent slash across the Caribbean, was expected to begin dying today in the cold Atlantic Ocean.

"Some decrease in highest winds near the center should begin today as the hurricane passes over colder waters," said the Miami Weather Bureau.

The 12-day old tropical storm, boasting top 115 mile per hour winds, buffeted Bermuda with gale winds Thursday night during its race towards the open Atlantic.

The latest advisory (6 a.m. EDT) was issued by the Washington Weather Bureau and located Flora near latitude 35.0 north, longitude 56.0 west, and moving northeast at 25 miles per hour.

Damage estimates from the season's sixth tropical twister were incomplete, but ran as high as $500 million. Hardest hit were Haiti and Cuba.

MIAMI (UPI)—Long-lived hurricane Flora, which killed an estimated 3,700 persons in a violent slash across the Caribbean, was expected to begin dying today in the cold Atlantic Ocean.

"Some decrease in highest winds near the center should begin today as the hurricane passes over colder waters," said the Miami Weather Bureau.

The 12-day old tropical storm, boasting top 115 mile per hour winds, buffeted Bermuda with gale winds Thursday night during its race towards the open Atlantic.

The latest advisory (6 a.m. EDT) was issued by the Washington Weather Bureau and located Flora near latitude 35.0 north, longitude 56.0 west, and moving northeast at 25 miles per hour.

Damage estimates from the season's sixth tropical twister were incomplete, but ran as high as $500 million. Hardest hit were Haiti and Cuba.

Rescue Workers Seek Victims Of Italian Landslide Tragedy

BELLUNO, Italy (UPI) — Rescue workers searched through 25 miles of mud today for the thousands of bodies believed buried in "one huge coffin" by a speeding wave of water and debris.

An estimated 4,000 persons were killed late Wednesday night when a landslide plunged into the Vajont Dam reservoir, sending millions of tons of water cascading over the lip of the 875-foot dam in a 390-foot wall of water that crushed everything in its path.

In four minutes of death, the tranquil Piave River gorge was transformed into a 25-mile valley of death. Nearly a dozen villages and towns above and below the dam, one of the world's highest, were wiped out. Where once houses and churches stood, today there was nothing.

Shortly after midnight today, bodies had been recovered. Workers doubted they would find any more survivors.

Face Grim Task

The rescuers had another grim task. The water swept a number of green containers of deadly potassium cyanide down the river valley. The cyanide could poison the river and kill anyone who drinks the water.

Longarone, the largest town hit by the flood, had 4,700 inhabitants. Then the water burst over the edge of the dam and wiped out the town in a few seconds of terror.

The wall of water did its work with terrible thoroughness. Of the 4,700 residents of Longarone, officials estimated 3,200 died. They said 99 per cent of the people in Pirago and Fae — villages of less than 200 inhabitants each — were killed. Castellavazzo, a village of about the same size, lost 50 per cent of its people.

Flora Is Expected To Dwindle Today

MIAMI (UPI)—Long-lived hurricane Flora, which killed an estimated 3,700 persons in a violent slash across the Caribbean, was expected to begin dying today in the cold Atlantic Ocean.

"Some decrease in highest winds near the center should begin today as the hurricane passes over colder waters," said the Miami Weather Bureau.

The 12-day old tropical storm, boasting top 115 mile per hour winds, buffeted Bermuda with gale winds Thursday night during its race towards the open Atlantic.

The latest advisory (6 a.m. EDT) was issued by the Washington Weather Bureau and located Flora near latitude 35.0 north, longitude 56.0 west, and moving northeast at 25 miles per hour.

Damage estimates from the season's sixth tropical twister were incomplete, but ran as high as $500 million. Hardest hit were Haiti and Cuba.

MIAMI (UPI)—Long-lived hurricane Flora, which killed an estimated 3,700 persons in a violent slash across the Caribbean, was expected to begin dying today in the cold Atlantic Ocean.

"Some decrease in highest winds near the center should begin today as the hurricane passes over colder waters," said the Miami Weather Bureau.

The 12-day old tropical storm, boasting top 115 mile per hour winds, buffeted Bermuda with gale winds Thursday night during its race towards the open Atlantic.

The latest advisory (6 a.m. EDT) was issued by the Washington Weather Bureau and located Flora near latitude 35.0 north, longitude 56.0 west, and moving northeast at 25 miles per hour.

Damage estimates from the season's sixth tropical twister were incomplete, but ran as high as $500 million. Hardest hit were Haiti and Cuba.

MIAMI (UPI)—Long-lived hurricane Flora, which killed an estimated 3,700 persons in a violent slash across the Caribbean, was expected to begin dying today in the cold Atlantic Ocean.

"Some decrease in highest winds near the center should begin today as the hurricane passes over colder waters," said the Miami Weather Bureau.

The 12-day old tropical storm, boasting top 115 mile per hour winds, buffeted Bermuda with gale winds Thursday night during its race towards the open Atlantic.

The latest advisory (6 a.m. EDT) was issued by the Washington Weather Bureau and located Flora near latitude 35.0 north, longitude 56.0 west, and moving northeast at 25 miles per hour.

Damage estimates from the season's sixth tropical twister were incomplete, but ran as high as $500 million. Hardest hit were Haiti and Cuba.</