Silver Wedding Is Celebrated

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Anttonen honored them at an open house from the hours of two to four o'clock Sunday afternoon on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. The affair was held at the Anttonen home at 1848 Linnell Ave. in Green.

The two sons, Gary and John, and the latter's new bride, Donna, were all attending college. Gary at Stanford University in California, and the newlyweds at University of Oregon in Eugene, so after making preliminary plans, they arranged for friends to attend to the carrying out of arrangements. Those assisting with this, and also helping to serve the guests, were Mrs. Kenneth Luderma, Mrs. Robert Breen, Mrs. Jack Brookshaw, Mrs. William Welch, Mrs. John Miller and Mrs. Don Bourassa.

The rooms were charmingly decorated with large arrangements of begonia and chrysanthemums. The refreshment table was covered with a beautiful lace cloth, a handmade gift from Mrs. Dora Haigh of Longview, Wash., a longtime friend of the family. Centering the table was the lovely white tiered cake trimmed with pink roses and silver leaves, and topped with a large silver bell in a wreath of silver and tulle. Another feature of the decor was the money tree laden with its gifts of silver for the anniversary. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received by the couple.

For her anniversary Mrs. Anttonen chose a white brocade satin afternoon dress with cranberry accessories. Her pink carnation corsage was a gift from her husband.

Dear Abby!

Mother Is A Referee!

— By ABIGAIL VANBUREN —

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a mother who won't let her 12-year-old boy fight his own battles? This mother runs outside every time she hears a disagreement in which her son is involved. My son is part of the neighborhood group of about 12 boys who play together. We have taught our son to be respectful to adults, so when this mother runs out and tells the other boys to quit picking on her son, no kid is going to talk back to her and tell her it's usually her kid who starts it. I am only one of the mothers who doesn't know how to handle this. Can you help us?

ONE MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: One of your mothers who is friendly with this woman should tell her that she is hurting her son while trying to help him. Boys must learn to resolve differences among themselves. It is part of growing up. Psychiatrists' couches are bathed with the sweat of men whose mothers ran interference for them.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is marrying a girl we all liked very much until she started planning the wedding. She said she didn't want any of those old-fashioned songs, like "I Love You Truly" or "Because" played at her wedding. She wants songs that "mean something" to her and our son. It seems they met and fell in love to a jazz song called "WHAT KIND OF FOOL AM I?" And that, Dear Abby, is what she wants the church organist to play at our son's wedding. I told my son if they play "WHAT KIND OF FOOL AM I?" in church they will have to get married without me. Am I wrong?

GROOM'S MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: I think you are probably assuming that the bride plans to walk down the aisle to "WHAT KIND OF FOOL AM I?" She probably has in mind a melody of their favorite songs as a prelude to such ceremonial music as the traditional Lohengrin, P.S. If this is not the plan, see if you can't negotiate it as a compromise.

DEAR ABBY: In the apartment building where I live is a couple with a little boy. The husband is a professional man and his wife is a nice appearing woman, but she is letting that little boy slowly starve to death. He is so thin I could cry. Isn't there some way a nurse could be sent to that home to tell that mother to feed her child? I saw the husband in the hall one day and I tried to tell him that his son looked like he needed vitamins, but he didn't seem interested. There should be a law against letting a child grow so thin. He is a very active child, and I've never seen a doctor go into that apartment so I don't think the boy is sickly. Please don't think me a busybody. I just had to tell somebody. Is there anything I can do?

A NEIGHBOR
DEAR NEIGHBOR: I think it's safe to assume that the parents are as concerned about their son's health as you are. A child who appears "thin" is not necessarily slowly starving to death. Your intentions are good, but any suggestions would be considered meddling.
