

It's Confounding For Pessimists, But The Economy Picture Is Rosy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. economy is barreling along today at a pace that would confound some of the pessimists of a few weeks ago.

If there is a recession in the immediate future, it seems to be well hidden in the charts—the documents with the wavy lines and long columns of numbers which are pieced together by economists searching for clues to the future.

Right now, just about everything seems to be coming up optimism.

President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers keynoted the happy theme this week by estimating the gross national product (GNP) — the total estimated value of all goods and services — at $388.5 billion for the three-month period ended in September. It was the biggest quarterly jump in 21 months.

And there are reasons to feel that the forces that fashioned the healthy third quarter will continue pumping vigor into the economy for the remainder of the year and on into 1964.

Recession Talk Fading

The recession talk that was prevalent as recently as two weeks ago is starting to fade away. The administration still feels that President Kennedy's $11 billion tax cut is vitally needed, but there is less emphasis on its role as an anti-recession device in 1964.

The third quarter GNP rocketed to a new high mainly because of spirited consumer and business spending.

Government studies indicate that continued rising incomes, will help maintain the consumer spending spree for the remainder of 1963.

Two important contributions also are expected from the recently enacted military pay increase and the second stage of a federal civilian pay raise. Actually, the civilian increase won't go into effect until early next year. But economists reason that the consumer-assisted by a charge-a-plates, credit cards and human nature — will be spending it in advance during the Christmas season.

Business spending for new plants and equipment also shows sign of staying up, on the basis of industry plans outlined six months ago. It probably will not jump as high as the third quarter but it is expected to continue playing a vital role in propping up the economy.

What about next year?

Two Favorable Signs

There are two favorable signs that are causing some of the limb-climbers to predict a healthy 1964.

The auto industry opened its new model year this month with sales reports that suggest a boom year for car sellers. The first 10 days of the month exceeded the corresponding 10 days in October of last year which the industry at that time felt was "tremendous."

The auto industry is one of the main arteries in the economy. When it is in a robust state, some of its vitality is channeled off to all of the other business sectors.

Although there is still no advance information on next year's business spending plans, the feeling is that the news will be good. Rising profits and consumer incomes are expected to keep business in a mood to dish out more capital for expansion.

The more conservative economists, who see the trends as "mixed," usually point to three other elements of the economy which are less optimistic.

One is the high unemployment rate still hounding the nation. Retail sales also slipped in September, and industrial production just about held even after dropping in August for the first time this year.

Fourth Hand Bid Is Good Bet

Every bid in bridge is in the nature of a bet. In my newest book, "Oswald Jacoby on Gambling," the bridge chapter discusses the odds for and against various bids.

In discussing fourth hand bids it points out that any time you think you have the best hand at the table it is a good bet to open the bidding in fourth position. You won't win every one of these bets, but you will win more than you lose.

When you have a doubtful fourth hand opening a most frequent consideration is the spade suit. If you have spades you are going to be hard for your opponents to compete successfully.

Thus, South's fourth hand opening is a good bet because he has spades. North's jump to four spades is not a good bid as the cards lie. East and West can take the first four tricks, but West has to make some opening lead and this West chose to open his singleton diamond. This enabled South to run off 10 tricks and make his contract.

South's bet would have been worse if East and West had found a way to get into the bidding. They can make five odd in either hearts or clubs, but West did not feel like sticking his neck out at the two level and East surely couldn't afford to act after the four spade bid.
