Pope Leads Tribute To His Predecessor

ATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI today led the cardinals and bishops of the Roman Catholic Church in a moving tribute to his predecessor, Pope John XXIII, as a man sent by God to give new life to the church and light to the world.

At a colorful ceremony in St. Peter's Basilica attended by all of the fathers of the Ecumenical Council, Pope Paul said Mass in commemoration of the election of John XXIII as pontiff in 1958.

While Pope Paul listened from the papal throne in front of the great altar, Leo Josef Cardinal Suenens of Belgium delivered an address extolling John XXIII as a man of humble goodness who "opened a new era for the church."

Council fathers had anticipated that Suenens' speech would include a plea to expedite the work of the council, which has tended to become bogged down in protracted debate. But the advance word to this effect proved wrong.

Suenens spoke solely about John XXIII and his enormous impact on history.

"John XXIII was a man surprisingly natural and at the same time supernatural," Suenens said. "He lived in the presence of God with the simplicity of one who takes a walk through the street of his native town."

"John's spontaneous, forthright, ever-alert goodness was like a ray of sunshine which dispels the fog, which melts the ice . . . He had confidence in the power of the love of Christ burning in a human heart."

He had confidence in the power of the love of Christ burning in a human heart. "John XXIII could reveal God to men, perhaps better than others more brilliant or more scholarly, because for so many years he was the faithful witness of the God who loves men."

Because of today's ceremony, the usual general session of the Ecumenical Council was suspended. But the council will resume work Tuesday.

Jury Acquits John C. Diehl

John C. Diehl, 67, Reedsport, was acquitted of a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, by a jury at the close of a five-day trial Friday.

The jury returned its unanimous verdict of innocent after less than 50 minutes of deliberation to conclude the lengthy trial.

The Grand Jury indictment accused Diehl of contributing to the delinquency of a 12-year-old girl on Aug. 31, 1962. An earlier indictment on another charge was dismissed by Judge Charles S. Woodrich, on motion of the defense attorney.

Circuit Court Judge Don H. Ganders tried the case against Diehl, which started Monday of last week with selection of a jury. Legal discussions took up a good deal of the first day, and a trip to Reedsport to view the Diehl house on Tuesday took up much of the second day.

Numerous witnesses, including five small girls, the oldest 13, took the stand. Diehl testified in his own defense and denied the charges.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Thomas Odell was prosecuting attorney and Dudley Walton was attorney for the defense.

Supreme Court Rejects Appeal From Order For Desegregation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court rejected today an appeal of the Mobile County (Ala.) School Board from an order requiring a start on public school desegregation this fall.

Earlier the board asked Judge Hugo L. Black to block the order pending appeal, on the ground it would seriously disrupt the education of the county's 75,000 school children.

Black refused to do so on Aug. 16. He said the board has known for nine years that it was running its school system in an unconstitutional manner but has done nothing about it.

The Mobile decision was the first directed towards Alabama public schools below college level since the Supreme Court's famous school desegregation ruling of 1954.

In other actions before taking a two-week recess, the court today:

—Agreed to hear the case of German-born Angelika L. Schneider who is fighting to regain her U.S. citizenship lost while living with her husband in their native land for more than three years. Mrs. Schneider is challenging the law which calls for denaturalization of a foreign-born American citizen who lives for three years or more in a country where he or she was previously a national.

Her appeal contended the law unfairly discriminates against naturalized citizens by imposing conditions not applied to native-born U.S. citizens.

—Accepted for hearing a government appeal from an adverse antitrust ruling. A federal district court decision had ruled against the Justice Department's claim that acquisition of the Hazel-Glass Co. by Continental Can Co. Inc., was illegal.

—Granted a hearing to John Coleman, an Alabama Negro sentenced to death for the fatal shooting of a white man in 1961. Coleman's petition said he had been denied opportunity to present evidence that Negroes were systematically excluded from the grand jury and trial jury which indicted and convicted him.

—Refused an appeal by Darrell Devere Poulson who has been sentenced to death for the rape-murder of an 11-year-old girl in Utah.

Tuesday Rehearsals Slated For 'Messiah'

Rehearsals for the annual presentation of "The Messiah" will continue this week, but on Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the Roseburg High School Choral Room, rather than on Monday, according to Director Robert E. Rhoin.

The change is necessitated by a conflict with the scheduled Community Concert at the high school. The Tuesday rehearsal arrangement will remain in effect for the following two weeks due to other conflicts, according to Rhoin.

New singers are still being recruited, and former members of the chorus are being urged to attend the scheduled rehearsals. Performance of the work is planned for Sunday, Dec. 8.
