Performance Classes Set For County Horse Show

Competitive games and performance classes requiring skill by both horse and rider will be featured at the annual fall horse show of the Douglas County Sheriff's Posse.

Over 200 entries from many parts of the state are expected for the show which will be held at the Fairgrounds Saturday and Sunday.

C. (Tolly) Tollefson, chairman, said the two-day event will be the largest show of its type ever staged in Roseburg. Thirty events are scheduled for participants in junior and senior divisions.

Tollefson said preparations at the Fairgrounds are nearly completed. All activities will be held in the Pavilion Building which provides one of the best indoor arenas in the state. It can accommodate 350 persons in the permanent seating section, plus several hundred more in bleachers on the other side.

The new barns, where 300 head of horses can be quartered, are the most modern in the state, Tollefson pointed out. Additional outdoor lighting has recently been established between the Fairgrounds office and the barns which will increase the convenience for persons coming into the Fairgrounds at night.

Top award of the show will be a barrel racing saddle for high point maker in the senior division and silver buckles to the senior runner-up and junior division high point winner. Trophies are at stake in all individual events, along with ribbons for the top four places. Award presentations will be made at about 4 p.m. Sunday.

Three show performances are scheduled with the opener at 6:30 p.m. Saturday. Two shows Sunday will include a morning round of competition and the final performance at 1 p.m.

Tollefson said the Roseburg event is approved by the Oregon Horseman's Association and the Western Horsemen of Oregon. Electric eye timers will be used to determine winners in racing competitions. Bill Jones and Ike Garrett have been named judges. Bob Johnson is announcer and Jess Fowler, arena director.

A fast-moving show is planned featuring such events as pole bending, bareback relay, flag race, Texas barrel, Western stock horse, trailhorse, scurry and many others.

Sutherlin Youths Injured In Crash

Four Sutherlin area young folks suffered injuries in an auto collision on W. Harvard Ave. at W. Madrone St. at the west end of the Washington Avenue Bridge about 11:35 a.m. Thursday, city police report.

The injured, all treated at Mercy Hospital and released, were Gerald Eugene Tucker, 22, the driver; Thomas A. Hollamon, 24; Ronald S. Linton, 22, and Louis Linton, 20.

Police said the other car involved was operated by Alice Althea Chapman, of 375 W. Riverside Dr., Roseburg. She had stopped at the stop sign on Madrone, and started to pull across Harvard onto the Oak Avenue Bridge.

She told officers she saw the other car westbound, but thought she had plenty of time to get across. Her car was struck on the left side by the other car. Tucker told officers he did not see the Chapman car in time to stop. Both vehicles had to be towed from the scene. Hospital attendants assisted the four men into the hospital for treatment.
