African Group Eyes Algeria-Morocco Border Row In Pea ce Machinery Test

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — The 32-nation Organization of African Unity (OAU) took up the border dispute between Algeria and Morocco today in the first major test of its peace-keeping machinery.

Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie is presiding over the opening session of the special OAU foreign ministers conference, which is expected to last three or four days.

Algeria is represented at the meeting by Foreign Minister Abdel Aziz Bouteflika and Morocco by Foreign Minister Ahmed Reda Guedira.

Both nations have indicated they do not intend to yield on their claims to the disputed strip of Sahara Desert which is believed to have valuable iron ore and other mineral deposits.

Fighting broke out Oct. 8 and finally ended more than two days after a Nov. 3 cease-fire agreed upon by Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella and Moroccan King Hassan II Oct. 30 in a conference at Bamako, Mali.

Troops of both countries are reported dug in along the border.

Moroccan sources have claimed that outside aid has been pouring into Algeria, including troops and technicians from the United Arab Republic (U.A.R.), Communist China, Cuba and Bulgaria.

Observers said some African leaders fear that arms shipments and other aid to Algeria may trigger similar aid to Morocco from the United States, France, or other Western nations, thus setting off an arms race in North Africa.

Informed sources said King Hassan does not expect the foreign ministers conference to solve the dispute, which he considers too complex to be settled in the brief meeting.

He expects the OAU to establish a conciliation commission to study the border issue and recommend a solution, the sources said.

Yoncalla Council Okays Licenses

The Yoncalla City Council at a recent special meeting approved alcoholic beverage licenses for the O and M Tavern, The Detour, and a package license to Dale Bassett for the Yoncalla Shopping Center.

Repairs for the pump on the Chevrolet fire truck were authorized.

At the regular meeting Nov. 13, routine business matters were handled and the council also voted to install two new street lights—one in the alley back of the City Hall and one across the street in front of the fire house.

Permission was granted June Bowman to purchase a tea wagon for use at the hall.

The council plans to invite Frank Kauble, state deputy fire marshal, to talk to area residents about the steps necessary to organize a rural fire district. The date will be announced later.

Plans are going ahead for installing the meter for electricity that is being used by the kindergarten group that meets in the City Hall basement, Mrs. Karl Hummel, correspondent, reports.

The case of Ledbetter, also accused in connection with the check, was disposed of earlier. Bail on Snelling was set at $2,500.

The Grand Jury also returned a secret indictment, on which bail was set by Judge Charles S. Woodrich at $1,000.

Sutherlin Board Is Commended

A complete review of Sutherlin School District policies has kept the Sutherlin Board on a busy schedule since July of this year.

Normally, the board meets regularly only once each month on the second Tuesday at 7:30 in the district office at 110 E. Central Ave. However, due to the time needed by members of the board to make a complete policy review, the board has been averaging three meetings per month.

The Sutherlin board was informed this week in a letter from Roy Dancer, director of professional services for the Oregon Education Association, that they are "way ahead of most school districts in viewing personnel policies as joint responsibilities of staff and board." Dancer indicated that personnel policies, as they have been developed by the Sutherlin board, will be utilized in informing other districts throughout the state.

The Sutherlin School District policy review is nearly completed—only three sections remaining for review by the board, according to Ray Mullen, superintendent. Each board member, each school building, the district office and the public library will have a completed up-to-date copy of the district policy manual when it is completed.

Solons Schedule Meet On Bill To Avert New Boardman Crisis

SALEM (UPI) —Legislative leaders apparently agreed at a closed-door meeting today to rush through an emergency bill to avert another crisis in the development of the Boardman Space-Age Industrial Park.

Newsmen were told simply that Gov. Mark Hatfield would submit a special message to both the House and Senate at 1 p.m. today.

Members of the governor's staff, attorneys for Boeing, and the House and Senate majority and minority leaders met for more than an hour this morning in the Board of Control room.

Newsmen were not allowed to enter.

After the meeting, it was announced there would be a special message.

Legislative leaders apparently ruled that newsmen could not see the message until it was delivered to the House and Senate.

Copies In Hand

Travis Cross, Hatfield's press secretary, had typed copies of the message in his hand, but said he had not been authorized to release them.

It appeared that Boeing has demanded "corrective legislation" to clear up some legal questions.

Sam Mallicoat, planning and development director, said a bill correcting the faults would be submitted to the special session. He would not give details.

Attending the closed-door session were Boeing attorney Grant Anderson; planning and development legal advisor Eugene Marsh; Loren Hicks of the governor's legal staff; Warne Nunn, Hatfield's executive assistant; Senate President Ben Musa; Senate Minority Leader Anthony Yturri; House Speaker Clarence Barton, and House Minority Leader F. F. Montgomery.

Montgomery left the meeting early. He said he could not explain what went on, but added he did not know why the meeting was closed to newsmen.

The state for years has been working to create a giant industrial park in northeastern Oregon, which has been leased to Boeing for research and development work.

Cold Snap Sends Mercury Skidding

By United Press International

A cold snap sent temperatures tumbling below freezing as far south as central Florida today. Records were set across the deep South.

Scattered snow flurries continued through the northern Appalachians but most of the north enjoyed mild, fall weather.

The sudden cold snap killed late bean and squash crops in extreme northern Florida. The frost warning service at Lakeland said the states citrus fruits were not damaged by the cold, which "probably added some color and sweetness."

Tallahasee, Fla., recorded 23 degrees, the lowest ever reported so early in the season. Other record temperatures for the date were Cross City, Fla., 23; Key West, Fla., 56; Augusta Ga., 23; Miami, Fla., 45; and Columbia, S.C., 26.

The lowest temperature in the nation today was 21 degrees at Crossville, Tenn.

Payroll Developers Find Industry, Job Potential

A wealth of industry potential and job producing opportunity is available in the Roseburg area.

This was the consensus of the Payroll Development Committee of the Roseburg (area) Chamber of Commerce, which met Thursday to discuss payroll-adding opportunities and how to assist in their development.

Six local firms have been saluted as the "payroll builder" of the month, the current salute being Roseburg Skyways.

The opinion was that, while it is too early to be able to point to any major payroll increases, the committee has high hopes that its efforts to help local industry grow will bear fruit.

It was stated that the committee has learned about the many problems faced by every small industry. The industry salutes are intended to inform the public of the small firms operating in the area. This publicity should help local firms in marketing their products.

The committee decided not to offer a salute for the month of December, because of the many promotions connected with the Christmas and holiday season, which might tend to divide the interest.

However, research will be completed on several small firms with a definite selection to be announced for January. Continued support for promoting Roseburg Skyways and its charter airplane service was agreed to. Also, follow-throughs will be made on other industries saluted to offer chamber assistance where possible.

Development of an industrial park is also a prime target of the committee. It was voted to step up promotion toward this effort and have data ready for consideration at the next meeting Dec. 12.

Rotarians Hear Recreation Talk

Roseburg Chamber of Commerce Manager Harold Reaume told the Roseburg Rotary Club at its meeting Thursday that people who say there's nothing to do in Douglas County just aren't looking for "the adventures available in their leisure time."

He said scores of people "yearn for eternal life but don't know what to do on a Sunday afternoon."

Reaume, who gave a similar talk before the Roseburg Lions Thursday night, said generally what these people mean is that the county doesn't have major league baseball or Broadway spectaculars. Despite these spectator activities in the metropolitan areas, similar objections are heard there, he said.

From the spectator standpoint, he reeled off a long list of events, ranging from movies to wrestling and the annual Douglas County Fair.

In addition, he said, there are a great number of participating activities. He noted that The News-Review every month carries reports on more than 100 organizations. In addition, bowling, tennis, rifle and shotgun shooting, hiking, etc. are available. The county also has one of the best libraries in the Northwest.

Reaume also called for a revival of the lost art of conversation. "We need an arrangement for casual visiting," he continued.

He pointed out that the time available to broaden our understanding and friendships is little enough.

"There is plenty to do in this county," he concluded.
