

Early Mailing Urged As P.O. Braces For Big Yule Season

Faced with the certainty that Christmas 1963 will set an all-time record for mailings of Christmas cards and gifts, Roseburg Postmaster Robert Snider today requested local residents' cooperation in his annual "Mail Early For Christmas" campaign.

The postmaster said, "Here are the things to watch to be sure that every Christmas card and gift package will be delivered before Christmas Eve.

"First, check over your Christmas card and gift list very carefully—be certain each address is complete with full name, street and number, city, state and zone or ZIP code number.

"Second, stock up soon on sturdy packing materials for your gift packages, including heavy wrapping paper, corrugated cartons, strong cord and paper adhesive tape.

"Third, buy your postage stamps now. Be sure to use the colorful new five-cent Christmas Tree stamps on your cards.

"Fourth, procure free labels from your post office which read "All For Local Delivery" and "All For Out-Of-Town Delivery," so that you can sort your Christmas cards into two groups, with addresses all facing one way, thus insuring fast delivery.

"Fifth, be sure that your full name and address is on all of your Christmas card envelopes and shipping labels and be doubly sure to include your ZIP Code number in your return address."

The postmaster especially requests that residents schedule mail by Dec. 10. Those for their Christmas mailings so that local destinations should be all of cards and gift packages mailed at least a week before going to most distant points are Christmas, Snider said.

Barry Denies Friendship With 2 Bigtime Hoods

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater described as "trash" today a book which said he was a friend of two big-time hoodlums who have been murdered.

The Las Vegas (Nev.) Review Journal, in a front-page story Friday, identified the book as "The Green Felt Jungle" by Ed Reid and Ovid Demaris, to be published by Trident Press of New York Dec. 13. Reid worked on a series of Brooklyn Eagle, N.Y., stories that exposed a $20 million gambling empire in New York and won for the newspaper a Pulitzer Prize in 1951. "The Green Felt Jungle" is about gambling in Las Vegas.

The book charges that gambling in Las Vegas is controlled by organized crime syndicates. It has quotes saying that Goldwater was a friend for many years of Gus Greenbaum, manager of the Riviera Casino, and Willie Bioff, a convicted extortionist. Both maintained homes at Phoenix, Ariz., Goldwater's home town.

"Looking Into" Libel Goldwater told a news conference here the book's allegations "wouldn't have any effect on a presidential campaign" if he decides to seek the Republican nomination. "It's trash and the American people won't want to have anything to do with it. In fact, it might even be libelous. We're looking into that."

Goldwater said he had never been a "personal friend" of Bioff, but that he had known him under the name of "Al Nelson" and that "Al Nelson" had contributed to his campaign fund years ago. He said that much later Bioff introduced himself to Goldwater under his real name.

Goldwater said he had known Greenbaum when Greenbaum ran a grocery in Phoenix before moving to Las Vegas. The Las Vegas Review-Journal quoted the book as saying: "In 1953 Bioff found an even more unlikely friend: The junior senator from Arizona, Barry Goldwater. The two men were often seen together and Goldwater personally chauffeured Bioff in his private plane all over the southwest to attend various parties.

"When questioned by reporters, Goldwater became indignant, protesting that he had no idea that his friend, one William Nelson, was the notorious Willie Bioff.

"Later the senator changed his story. Bioff, he said, was helping him in his study of American labor, giving him a special insight into union racketeering. To this day, Goldwater is still pleading that he did not know Nelson was Bioff."

Alabama Campus Rocked By Blast

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—A pre-dawn explosion heard throughout the city today ripped a hole in the pavement of a street 100 yards from Negro Vivian Malone's dormitory at the University of Alabama. No one was injured.

Police said they did not know what type of explosive caused the blast or if it was connected with the integration of the university earlier this year.

A hole about four inches deep, one foot long and six inches wide was torn in the pavement in front of Mary Burke Dormitory East. Miss Malone, one of two Negroes admitted to the university last June, resides in Mary Burke Dorm West. The two dorms are connected by a narrow walkway.

Several National Guardsmen joined local and county police in the investigation.

Police said the blast occurred at about 3:15 a.m. CST (4:15 a.m. EST) but because there were no witnesses and little damage was caused, they did not find the location until after 4 a.m.

Although it was heard over a wide area, the explosion did little damage and no windows were broken in nearby buildings.

Boon Or Boondoggle? Legislators Ponder Fate Of Boardman Project

SALEM (UPI) — Is the Boardman project the beginning of a great industrial complex in the sandy wastelands of northeastern Oregon, or is it one of the biggest boondoggles in Oregon history?

Lawmakers pondered that question today after being told they would have to pungle up $522,000 in addition to the $900,000 they have already authorized for the project.

In a special message, Gov. Mark Hatfield asked the legislature to pass emergency legislation to clear legal entanglements holding up completion of the project.

"Without such legislation this project may fail," Hatfield warned.

The governor's emergency bill was rushed to the Ways and Means Committee, which was told that if the legal cloud was not cleared, the Boeing Co. wouldn't honor the 77-year lease it signed July 1.

That would leave Oregon with 34,000 acres, for which it already has paid $753,000. There was no indication lawmakers would rush in at once to pull the Boardman chestnuts out of the fire. Further hearings were scheduled.

Secretary of State Howell Appleby Jr. termed the project "like jumping out of an airplane—once you jump, it's too late to change your mind."

"We're past the point of no return. I wish we had never started."

But Sam Mallicoat, state planning and development director who has mothered the project since it was launched three years ago, said "Boardman has the potential of becoming a tremendous industrial complex."

Boeing has refused to activate the lease because common school lands, which have special legal status, became involved. Plan Complicated The bill proposed by the governor involves a complicated series of legal maneuvers designed to clear any possible legal cloud. The plan:

—Borrow $1 million from the public employees retirement fund and the industrial accident fund.

—Pay the Navy $522,000 cash for clear title to land once owned by the service.

—Pay $385,000 to buy the school lands in the tract.

—Pay $92,000 for added expenses.

—Have the common school fund buy the $1 million loan.

—Have $50,000 a year of the $60,000 annual rental fee go to the School Fund to repay the loan.

—Keep the extra $10,000 as a "cushion" to pay for insurance (there still are unexploded bombs on the land) and operation, which will come to about $2,000 a year, and set aside the remaining $8000 to pay taxes to Morrow County.

The state has guaranteed the county it would not take the land off the tax rolls. But under questioning, it was brought out there was no guarantee the annual tax bill might not surpass the total amount of rent collected.
