

Johnson Leads World Tribute To John F. Kennedy

Roseburg Man Is Listed Among 10 Oregon Deaths

A Roseburg man, Norman Prang Rohde, 28, of 589 NE Brooklyn St., is listed among 10 persons killed in accidents during the weekend in Oregon. Seven were traffic fatalities, two shooting deaths and a drowning.

Five persons were injured in the traffic accident which took Rohde's life, including his wife and two daughters. The accident occurred at 4:25 p.m. Sunday three miles north of Myrtle Creek on Highway Interstate 5, state police said.

A car operated by Fred Richard Brown, 63, of 2046 SW Austin Road, Roseburg, was traveling north along a two-lane section of highway and crossed into the southbound lanes colliding with the car operated by Rohde, who was southbound, police report.

Mrs. Rohde suffered multiple lacerations and fractures. Her condition was reported as fair at Mercy Hospital. A daughter, Elizabeth Ann, 9, suffered minor lacerations and was fair. Kim Marie Rohde, 7, also had minor lacerations and her condition was good.

A passenger with Brown, Mrs. Pairlee Steele, 70, was taken to Douglas Community Hospital in serious condition. Brown was reported in satisfactory condition with head lacerations. The injured were taken to hospitals by ambulance, and the vehicles removed by wreckers.

Rohde's body has been taken to Ganz Mortuary at Myrtle Creek, and services are pending.

In other accidents three members of a Portland family were killed early today when their car skidded on rain-slickened U.S. Highway 50 and slid into the path of an oncoming truck near Hood River.

The victims were the Rev. Ruthie Lee Drake, 52, pastor of the Church of the Living God; her husband, William, 67, and their daughter, Shirley Ann, 14.

A passenger in the car, Patricia Ann Bates, 9, also of Portland, was hospitalized here with a broken collarbone and shock.

State Police said Mrs. Drake was driving and apparently became confused when the highway made a slight curve around a construction barrier. She applied the brakes and the car skidded into front of an east-bound Standard Battery, Inc. truck driven by Richard Shearer, 32, Portland. He was uninjured.

Airman 3. C. Everett Miller, 19, Gurnee, Ill., was killed when his car hit a utility pole northeast of Portland in Multnomah County Sunday night.

Mrs. Mary Ward, 63, Talent, was killed when her car struck the back of a truck on Interstate 53, one mile north of Grants Pass Sunday.

John Lansing, 38, Merrill, was struck and killed by a car on State Highway 63, 18 miles west of Klamath Falls Saturday.

Phil Petersen, 17, Eugene, drowned in the Fern Ridge Reservoir when his canoe capsized Saturday. The body of Petersen, a senior and star athlete at Wilamette High School, was not immediately recovered.

Martin Alexander, 14, McMinnville, was accidentally shot and killed when a rifle held by a companion discharged. The accident occurred in a garage Saturday.

Jack Fine, 40, a member of a prominent Harney County ranching family, accidentally shot and killed himself while seated in his truck near Burns Saturday.

In addition, James Cotton, 21, Highway 99 near Corning, Calif., Coos Bay, was killed when a Saturday. He was a sailor star car he was driving collided head-on with a truck on U. S. San Francisco.

WHAT WAS LEFT of two automobiles after they collided head-on Sunday at 4:25 p.m. three miles north of Myrtle Creek is shown above. Norman Prang Rohde, Roseburg, killed in the accident, and his wife and two daughters, all injured, were occupants of the top vehicle. Fred Richard Brown, 2046 SW Austin Rd., Roseburg, driver of the lower automobile, was injured, and a passenger, Pairlee Steele, Winston is critical condition at a local hospital with multiple fractures and contusions. She suffered a cardiac and respiratory arrest Sunday night but was holding her own today, her physician reports. (Charles Kash pictures)

Kennedy's Widow Faces Her Final Ordeal Today

(Continued from Page 1) Kennedy's widow, Jacqueline, Caroline, 5, and John Jr., who became 3 today. They waited at the White House as she went to the Capitol to attend the ceremony of removing the casket from the Rotunda.

An estimated quarter of a million persons had filed in to pay homage over the 18 hours the slain President lay in state there.

This morning — for the third time — Mrs. Kennedy paid her third visit to the coffin in the Rotunda. She and her brothers-in-law knelt briefly at one end of the coffin — as she had twice Sunday. She did not kiss the casket today as she had on the two previous occasions.

The widow of the nation's 35th President bore heroically the burden of her grief, but found it difficult to surrender his earthly remains.

She has not been able to separate herself from him. Twice Sunday she went to the Capitol Rotunda where his body lay in state to kiss his flag-shrouded coffin.

Mrs. Kennedy walked ahead of kings, chiefs of state and former presidents today on the last march she made with the man who made her the First Lady of the land.

From the moment the President fell in her arms Friday, shot by an assassin, she has held back the sobs, much the way the fallen Chief did when he had to bear in public the heavy grief of the loss of their infant son last August.

Going into Seclusion After today's rites she is expected to go into seclusion where she can mourn alone and unobserved.

Cherishing history and knowing their place in it, Mrs. Kennedy took her children, John Jr. and Caroline, to the Capitol Sunday to fix in their memories the national homage paid to their father.

They rode behind the horse-drawn caisson and the riderless black horse to the sound of muffled drums. They saw the crowds, the uniforms, the flags and the sorrow.

The 34-year-old widow must have remembered the previous joyous trip to the Capitol in the inaugural parade not quite three years ago.

Today is John-John's third birthday. Instead of a celebration for the little boy, it will be a national day of mourning for his father.

Mrs. Kennedy walked behind the casket of her slain husband in a funeral procession from the White House to St. Matthews' Cathedral, six blocks away. For a widowed First Lady to walk behind the caisson in a funeral procession to her husband is unprecedented.

Goes to Arlington From the church she went to Arlington National Cemetery for the burial of the man she married 10 years ago.

This afternoon at the White House she planned to meet the heads of state and potentates, the greatest array of dignitaries ever to pay solemn homage to a dead American president. Among them will be President Charles de Gaulle of France, who once said "the only thing he wanted to take back from America was Jacqueline Kennedy."

To the admiration of millions, she has shown strength and determination. She has remembered others in her sorrow. She has been doing what must be done — packing up to leave the White House.

She has considerably offered her help to her successor, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, in the job which won her personal acclaim. On Jan. 20, 1961, inauguration day, the world rejoiced with her. Today the world weeps with her.

Final Journey For Kennedy Follows Inauguration Route He Took 34 Months Ago

By BRUCE AGNEW WASHINGTON (UPI) — The body of slain President Kennedy began its last journey through the capital at 10:48 a.m., EST.

It was a sombre retracing of the route Kennedy had followed in triumph after his inauguration 34 months ago.

A crowd of 20,000 jammed the Capitol Plaza, bareheaded and silent, as the coffin of the 35th President of the United States was carried down the long Capitol steps by its uniformed bearers.

Waiting at the bottom were Kennedy's widow, Jacqueline, her face hidden by a black veil, and his two brothers, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The band began to play, "Hail to the Chief." The young Chief, the dead Chief. The crowd stood silent in a hushed city.

"Hail To Chief" Many of them had waited in line all night in hopes of passing through the Rotunda under the Capitol dome where the President lay in state only to be turned away when time ran out.

"Hail to the Chief" ended, and the band began a hymn—"Oh God of Loveliness." The bearers carried the coffin down the stairway, flanked by a color guard. A lone sailor carrying the President's colors followed behind.

The caisson was placed atop its caisson, a piece of military equipment older than Kennedy was. It was the same caisson which carried the body of Franklin D. Roosevelt through the same saddened Washington streets 18 years before.

Last Procession Starts At the foot of the marble stairs, across from Kennedy's widow and brothers, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the commandant of the Coast Guard stood at attention.

Then, with muffled drums throbbing, John Fitzgerald Kennedy was borne on his last procession through the capital of the nation he had led.

Behind the caisson, a walking soldier led the black, riderless horse with boots reversed in the stirrups which traditionally follows the body of a fallen leader. As it did Sunday, the black horse jerked its head against its bridle, and drummed its hooves on the pavement in nervous distress.

The caisson left the Capitol grounds and, at 11:10 a.m., turned sharply onto Pennsylvania Avenue.

The crowds packed densely along the cortege route were dressed warmly against the chill weather. Many had shivered through the night, waiting.

Three clergymen marched slowly in front of the horse-drawn caisson, leading it toward the cathedral, where Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston waited to perform the final funeral rite.

The great government buildings along Pennsylvania Avenue cast long shadows, so that the caisson passed from light to dark, and then to light again, as it moved past the watchers. In the sunshine, the wooden spokes of the wheels glistened as if wet.

As the procession moved toward the White House, the great of the nation and the world already were assembling.

World Leaders Wait Waiting at the White House were French President Charles de Gaulle, Britain's Prince Philip, and the other world leaders who would follow on foot as Mrs. Kennedy walked behind the coffin of her husband from his home to the cathedral.

Others gathered at the cathedral. Former President Harry S. Truman arrived at 11:30 a.m. His daughter Margaret had to help him up the steps.

Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of Theodore Roosevelt who had succeeded to the presidency when William McKinley was assassinated in 1901 entered the still incomplete cathedral, a 65-year-old church drab on the outside but a glittering jewel within.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his wife were there just a few minutes before former Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon.

An Arab diplomat arrived in flowing desert robes—black and white, the colors of mourning.

There was a delegation of House members, also Alabama Gov. George Wallace, his bitter disputes with Kennedy forgotten.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt, AFL-CIO President George Meany, astronaut John Glenn, the Rev. Billy Graham, world leaders and diplomats, filling two by two to the church—physical evidence that a world mourned.

Mrs. Kennedy followed her husband's body from the Capitol to the White House in a black limousine. But she wanted to go the rest of the way on foot.

At the White House, she left the car, was met by State Department protocol chief Angier Biddle Duke, and escorted to the side of the columns in front of the north portico. The navy choir sang a hymn.

Third Birthday Anniversary Caroline and John Jr. were taken to the limousine by Secret Service agents. It was the third birthday anniversary of the little boy whose daddy called him, "John-John." Caroline will be six on Wednesday.

The procession moved off toward the cathedral. The widow of the President marched firmly and resolutely. To her right, Robert Kennedy. To her left, Sen. Edward Kennedy.

The procession moved slowly down the curved White House driveway toward the northwest gate. This time they walked to the wall of bagpipes.

Behind the Kennedy family—on foot—came the mighty of the world.

De Gaulle marched solemnly, wearing the olive drab uniform of a French marshal. At one point he removed his hat and carried it. He walked straight and stiff, looking down at his feet.

Queen Frederika of Greece was one of the marching mourners. Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, with brilliant green

Page 2 The News-Review — Mon., Nov. 25, 1963

Nation Pays Final Tribute To Kennedy

(Continued From Page 1) stroyed in his youth an "eternal flame" will burn at the head of his grave. It is reminiscent of the eternal light which burns under the Arc de Triomphe in Paris. Another burns in Gettysburg in memory of Civil War soldiers.

This one was lighted on this brilliantly sunny afternoon by Mrs. Kennedy.

Then the flag was presented to the widow, President Johnson escorted her to the waiting limousine.

Conducts Mass The pontifical requiem Mass, preceding burial on a grassy slope in Arlington National Cemetery, was conducted in the 65-year-old St. Matthew's Cathedral by Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, the friend and pastor who had performed the Kennedy's marriage ceremony in 1953 and baptized their children, Caroline and John Jr.

Caroline will be 6 on Wednesday. The slain President's beloved "John-John" was 3 today — the day of his father's funeral.

The last journey for the man who always will be remembered by his countrymen as the jaunty and buoyant and deeply dedicated JFK began at 10:48 a.m. EST.

That was when his flag-draped casket left the great Rotunda of the Capitol where three other martyred presidents also had lain in state. It was drawn by seven gray horses to the White House and thence to St. Matthews.

Widow Follows Casket The slain President was followed all the way on his last journey by his lovely 34-year-old widow, who three times had knelt in prayer beneath the Capitol dome beside his casket.

Flanked by her brothers-in-law, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, she walked the six blocks from the White House to the old brick cathedral with its 200-foot-high copper-covered dome. She walked erectly, firmly, resolutely.

A church bell tolled, a choir on the grass outside the White House sang hymns, drums played a soft tattoo.

Caroline and John Jr. rode to the old red-brick church in a car. When they joined their mother, John-John, bewildered by the solemnity, cried for a moment.

His mother spoke softly to him, and his tears stopped. All along the way from the White House to the cathedral and in the streets around the cathedral tens of thousands of Americans stood in silence.

No words came from these countrymen of the man who died at a sniper's hands on Friday. Only an occasional sob. Among those in the vast and glittering cathedral, with its magnificent red-and-white marble altar, was a woman who had been weeping for Jacqueline.

She was Mrs. Eisenhower, whose eyes were wet and red. A moment before the Mass began, Mrs. Kennedy took her children by the hand and led them to where Cardinal Cushing stood to greet them.

As the eight service men bore the casket into the cathedral, they remove their hats. The cardinal, in the resplendent robes of his office, sprinkled holy water on the still flag-covered coffin.

Behind Mrs. Kennedy in the cathedral sat the leaders of Congress and the Cabinet and the chiefs of state from other lands.

Mrs. Rose Kennedy, the President's mother, and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, Jacqueline's mother, heard the magnificent words uttered by Cardinal Cushing.

No flowers were on the altar. Luigi Vena, a Boston tenor who sang at the Kennedy's wedding, came here to sing the Ave Maria at his funeral.

Echoing under the great vault of the church came the words "Requiescat in pace" — Rest in peace.

The "Rest in Peace" Mass for America's first Roman Catholic President was offered in the presence of 1,200 persons who had come from near and far to make a final gesture of love or respect.

"Life is not taken away . . . life is but changed," intoned white-haired Cardinal Cushing, as he offered the ancient Catholic prayer for the departed:

"Be merciful, we beseech Thee, O Lord, to the soul of thy servant, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, whom you have just called out of this world . . . He put his hope and trust in You: Do not then let him undergo the pains of hell, but bring him to happiness without end."

By the side of the grief-numbered young widow was Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the late President's brother and closest to him of all in the closely knit Kennedy family.

Among the mourners were such diverse world leaders as Prince Philip of Britain; Anastas I. Mikoyan, first deputy premier of Russia; President Charles de Gaulle of France; Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany; King Baudouin of Belgium; President Eamon De Valera of Ireland; and Sir Alec Douglas-Home new prime minister of Britain.

One of Kennedy's favorite hymns, the Ave Maria, was sung before the Mass by Luigi Vena, a Boston tenor who also sang at the late President's wedding.

The cathedral choir then sang the ancient funeral hymn "Libera Me" (which begins with the words, "Deliver me, oh Lord, from everlasting death . . .") in a new setting by the Italian composer Perosi.

The service conducted by Cardinal Cushing was what is known technically as a "low" Mass, which means that it was the simplest type of Mass, spoken rather than sung, with a single priest officiating rather than the three who would have been required had the family chosen a Solemn High Mass.

There was no eulogy. Insofar as the service itself went, the deceased son of the church before the altar might have been an unknown laborer rather than the President of the United States.

The emphasis of the service was strongly focused on the Christian conviction that death is not the end, but the beginning of a larger, eternal life.

Nation's New President Plans To Receive Many Of World's Great Leaders

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson led his fellow citizens and the mighty of the earth today in mourning a fallen comrade, John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

The new Chief Executive of the United States, ramrod-straight, his face etched with sadness, joined with millions around the world in paying his last respects to the slain President.

But within hours after the last, sad rites for his former chief, Johnson must take up anew the great burdens of the office so suddenly thrust upon him.

He planned a reception for the many foreign heads of state attending the funeral, the greatest number ever to gather in the United States for any reason. It was expected that some of the pressing international problems facing the new administration would be touched upon, if only briefly.

Setting Fast Pace Johnson, working at a breath-taking pace since his elevation to the presidency in Dallas Friday, also was expected to confer with aides and high officials throughout the day.

He goes before a joint session of Congress Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. EST to outline his concept of the presidency and to plead once again for national unity. Congressional leaders pledged him bipartisan cooperation Friday night.

Johnson already was receiving suggestions as to his conduct of foreign policy. Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, ranking Republican member, joined Sunday in urging him to arrange an informal "exploratory" meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The President's third day in office began at 10 a.m. Sunday at his home in the Spring Valley section of Washington. He received a briefing from Director John A. McCone of the Central Intelligence Agency and McGeorge Bundy, President Kennedy's special assistant for national security.

Attends Church An hour later he attended services at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, joining members of the congregation for coffee afterward. Then at 12:40 p.m. he went to the White House to join the cortege escorting President Kennedy's body to the Capitol.

Back at his makeshift executive offices in the old State Department building near the White House, he conferred with Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and received a firsthand report on the situation in South Vietnam. With him were Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, Undersecretary of State George W. Ball and Bundy.

He left his office at 7 p.m. The days and hours of Lyndon Baines Johnson had just begun.

est number ever to gather in the United States for any reason. It was expected that some of the pressing international problems facing the new administration would be touched upon, if only briefly.

Setting Fast Pace Johnson, working at a breath-taking pace since his elevation to the presidency in Dallas Friday, also was expected to confer with aides and high officials throughout the day.

He goes before a joint session of Congress Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. EST to outline his concept of the presidency and to plead once again for national unity. Congressional leaders pledged him bipartisan cooperation Friday night.

Johnson already was receiving suggestions as to his conduct of foreign policy. Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, ranking Republican member, joined Sunday in urging him to arrange an informal "exploratory" meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The President's third day in office began at 10 a.m. Sunday at his home in the Spring Valley section of Washington. He received a briefing from Director John A. McCone of the Central Intelligence Agency and McGeorge Bundy, President Kennedy's special assistant for national security.

Attends Church An hour later he attended services at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, joining members of the congregation for coffee afterward. Then at 12:40 p.m. he went to the White House to join the cortege escorting President Kennedy's body to the Capitol.

Back at his makeshift executive offices in the old State Department building near the White House, he conferred with Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and received a firsthand report on the situation in South Vietnam. With him were Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, Undersecretary of State George W. Ball and Bundy.

He left his office at 7 p.m. The days and hours of Lyndon Baines Johnson had just begun.

Firemen Reset Plans To Burn Old Church

The Roseburg City Fire Department postponed its scheduled burning of the former Church of Christ building at the west end of Oak St. Bridge Sunday because of the assassination of the President of the United States.

The building will be burned Sunday, Dec. 1, with the firemen participating in practice drills. Saturday's scheduled smoke training drills at the site went ahead as scheduled.

The Weather AIRPORT RECORDS

Mostly fair today and tonight, increasing cloudiness Tuesday. Little change in temperature. Highest temp. last 24 hours 57 Lowest temp. last 24 hours 41 Highest temp. any Nov. (55) 73 Lowest temp. any Nov. (55) 15 Precip. last 24 hours 0.0 Normal Nov. precip. 4.46 Precip. from Sept. 1 9.76 Precip. from Nov. 1 6.24 Sunset tonight, 4:42 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow, 7:20 a.m.

Mostly fair today and tonight, increasing cloudiness Tuesday. Little change in temperature. Highest temp. last 24 hours 57 Lowest temp. last 24 hours 41 Highest temp. any Nov. (55) 73 Lowest temp. any Nov. (55) 15 Precip. last 24 hours 0.0 Normal Nov. precip. 4.46 Precip. from Sept. 1 9.76 Precip. from Nov. 1 6.24 Sunset tonight, 4:42 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow, 7:20 a.m.

Mostly fair today and tonight, increasing cloudiness Tuesday. Little change in temperature. Highest temp. last 24 hours 57 Lowest temp. last 24 hours 41 Highest temp. any Nov. (55) 73 Lowest temp. any Nov. (55) 15 Precip. last 24 hours 0.0 Normal Nov. precip. 4.46 Precip. from Sept. 1 9.76 Precip. from Nov. 1 6.24 Sunset tonight, 4:42 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow, 7:20 a.m.

Mostly fair today and tonight, increasing cloudiness Tuesday. Little change in temperature. Highest temp. last 24 hours 57 Lowest temp. last 24 hours 41 Highest temp. any Nov. (55) 73 Lowest temp. any Nov. (55) 15 Precip. last 24 hours 0.0 Normal Nov. precip. 4.46 Precip. from Sept. 1 9.76 Precip. from Nov. 1 6.24 Sunset tonight, 4:42 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow, 7:20 a.m.

Mostly fair today and tonight, increasing cloudiness Tuesday. Little change in temperature. Highest temp. last 24 hours 57 Lowest temp. last 24 hours 41 Highest temp. any Nov. (55) 73 Lowest temp. any Nov. (55) 15 Precip. last 24 hours 0.0 Normal Nov. precip. 4.46 Precip. from Sept. 1 9.76 Precip. from Nov. 1 6.24 Sunset tonight, 4:42 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow, 7:20 a.m.

Mostly fair today and tonight, increasing cloudiness Tuesday. Little change in temperature. Highest temp. last 24 hours 57 Lowest temp. last 24 hours 41 Highest temp. any Nov. (55) 73 Lowest temp. any Nov. (55) 15 Precip. last 24 hours 0.0 Normal Nov. precip. 4.46 Precip. from Sept. 1 9.76 Precip. from Nov. 1 6.24 Sunset tonight, 4:42 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow, 7:20 a.m.

Mostly fair today and tonight, increasing cloudiness Tuesday. Little change in temperature. Highest temp. last 24 hours 57 Lowest temp. last 24 hours 41 Highest temp. any Nov. (55) 73 Lowest temp. any Nov. (55) 15 Precip. last 24 hours 0.0 Normal Nov. precip. 4.46 Precip. from Sept. 1 9.76 Precip. from Nov. 1 6.24 Sunset tonight, 4:42 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow, 7:20 a.m.

Mostly fair today and tonight, increasing cloudiness Tuesday. Little change in temperature. Highest temp. last 24 hours 57 Lowest temp. last 24 hours 41 Highest temp. any Nov. (55) 73 Lowest temp. any Nov. (55) 15 Precip. last 24 hours 0.0 Normal Nov. precip. 4.46 Precip. from Sept. 1 9.76 Precip. from Nov. 1 6.24 Sunset tonight, 4:42 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow, 7:20 a.m.

Mostly fair today and tonight, increasing cloudiness Tuesday. Little change in temperature. Highest temp. last 24 hours 57 Lowest temp. last 24 hours 41 Highest temp. any Nov. (55) 73 Lowest temp. any Nov. (55) 15 Precip. last 24 hours 0.0 Normal Nov. precip. 4.46 Precip. from Sept. 1 9.76 Precip. from Nov. 1 6.24 Sunset tonight, 4:42 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow, 7:20 a.m.

Mostly fair today and tonight, increasing cloudiness Tuesday. Little change in temperature. Highest temp. last 24 hours 57 Lowest temp. last 24 hours 41 Highest temp. any Nov. (55) 73 Lowest temp. any Nov. (55) 15 Precip. last 24 hours 0.0 Normal Nov. precip. 4.46 Precip. from Sept. 1 9.76 Precip. from Nov. 1 6.24 Sunset tonight, 4:42 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow, 7:20 a.m.

Mostly fair today and tonight, increasing cloudiness Tuesday. Little change in temperature. Highest temp. last 24 hours 57 Lowest temp. last 24 hours 41 Highest temp. any Nov. (55) 73 Lowest temp. any Nov. (55) 15 Precip. last 24 hours 0.0 Normal Nov. precip. 4.46 Precip. from Sept. 1 9.76 Precip. from Nov. 1 6.24 Sunset tonight, 4:42 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow, 7:20 a.m.

Mostly fair today and tonight, increasing cloudiness Tuesday. Little change in temperature. Highest temp. last 24 hours 57 Lowest temp. last 24 hours 41 Highest temp. any Nov. (55) 73 Lowest temp. any Nov. (55) 15 Precip. last 24 hours 0.0 Normal Nov. precip. 4.46 Precip. from Sept. 1 9.76 Precip. from Nov. 1 6.24 Sunset tonight, 4:42 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow, 7:20 a.m.

Mostly fair today and tonight, increasing cloudiness Tuesday. Little change in temperature. Highest temp. last 24 hours 57 Lowest temp. last 24 hours 41 Highest temp. any Nov. (55) 73 Lowest temp. any Nov. (55) 15 Precip. last 24 hours 0.0 Normal Nov. precip. 4.46 Precip. from Sept. 1 9.76 Precip. from Nov. 1 6.24 Sunset tonight, 4:42 p.m. Sunrise tomorrow, 7:20 a.m.

Surroundings of Peaceful Beauty The beauty of our new facilities provide a quiet, comforting atmosphere in time of sorrow Wilson's Chapel of the Roses 965 West Harvard Ph. 673-4455

Isaac Vaughn Isaac (Ike) Vaughn, 75, a resident of Roseburg died Sunday at a local hospital following a short illness. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Wilson's Chapel of the Roses.

NEED OIL? Call 673-8356 South End Fuel Co. STANDARD HEATING OILS

Does BLADDER IRRITATION MAKE YOU NERVOUS? Atter 21, common kidney or bladder irritations affect twice as many women as men and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent, burning or itching urination both day and night. Occasionally, you may lose sleep and suffer from headaches, backaches and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, CYS-TEX usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by quickly irritating germs in strong, acid urine and by anesthetic pain relief. Get CYS-TEX at drugstore. Feel better fast.

Advertisement for Ken Bailey Insurance Agency, featuring Safeco Insurance and contact information: 830 S.E. Rose, Roseburg Ph. 673-4428.