Standy Firm, Lady!

— By ABIGAIL VANBUREN —

DEAR ABBY: You have no idea how much courage it takes to write this, but I have to tell somebody. I have, probably, one of the best husbands on earth. We've been married 23 years and have three children of whom we are very proud. We have a home in the suburbs. My husband is an average wage-earner. We have two cars. We neither smoke nor drink nor spend foolishly. I've always let my husband be the head of the family. He is loving and good, but a strict disciplinarian with the children. He has always been a little on the jealous side, so not wishing to provoke him, I have never gone in for any outside activities. No volunteer work. Not even a PTA meeting without him. I once read that a cake decorating class was starting and I said I'd like to go. He was so violently opposed that I never mentioned it again. The only people we see are his business friends and their wives. I am a friendly person and not unattractive. Now, the problem: Last year, while grocery shopping, I became friendly with a widower (neighbor) and I soon looked forward to "running into him" at the store. He asked to buy my coffee, once, then again, and before long it was a standing date. I hate to admit it, but this was the high point of my day. We did nothing wrong, even though I know how much I could care for this charming man if I let myself. I know he feels the same for me. I would never do anything to hurt my family. But I can see how a respectable married woman can "fall in love" with another man. If this could happen to me, it could happen to anyone. I keep asking myself, why?

FIGHTING IT
DEAR "FIGHTING IT": Keep fighting it. Couples don't "fall" in love. They walk into it with their eyes wide open. Mutual interest must be cultivated to become love. Then finally all reason is drained away and the CAN APPLY, BUT...

BONN (UPI)—East Germans who lost their property when they fled to the West can apply for compensation, the West German Refugee Ministry announced today. But it won't do them any good, the ministry added, because no such compensation will be paid.

End Play Is Point Gainer

By OSWALD JACOBY

Prof. Nathan Divinsky of the University of British Columbia is an enthusiast for both chess and bridge. We have corresponded for a couple of years on the mathematical aspects of bridge.

me a hand which illustrates a rather unusual end play. The contract was a prosaic two hearts and Dr. Divinsky managed to make an overtrick which meant quite a lot because the game was duplicate.

West started proceedings for the defense by playing king, ace and another spade. Dummy's queen held the third trick whereupon the Professor cashed the king of hearts and came to his own hand with the ace. A club lead was won by Dummy's king and East was thrown in the lead with a heart. East made his best play of a diamond and the jack, king and ace were played. A trump lead from dummy forced West to make his third discard. He had already jettisoned a club and a diamond and now he discarded his last low club. He still held the 13th spade as an out card, but Dr. D. took care of that by playing his own last trump. West could not afford to unguard the ten of diamonds or throw the ace of clubs so that spade had to go. Now the end play was ready. A club lead put West in and he had to lead away from his ten of diamonds.
