

President Continues Pressure For Cuts In Federal Spending

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI)—President Johnson today made a secret run-down of world trouble spots with John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The President then called in Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman and other advisers for a conference on his week-end summit parley at the LBJ Ranch with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

Erhard was flying to Houston to spend the night. He was due at the ranch Saturday.

Rising early, Johnson conferred with his intelligence chief at breakfast in the ranch house. McCone arrived about midnight at the ranch and spent the night there.

The President has been particularly concerned over fighting on the Mediterranean Republic of Cyprus between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

Herter Joins Discussion

Undersecretary of State George Ball, named Thursday to head a government committee on ways to trim waste from the foreign aid program and make it work more efficiently, joined the conference.

Also present were Christian A. Herter, the President's representative for foreign trade negotiations and McGeorge Bundy, special assistant on national security matters.

The morning conference was expected to continue later after a barbecue lunch at the ranch for the press corps covering the Texas White House.

Mrs. Johnson took on the role of guide for a 40-minute tour of the ranch for the reporters and photographers.

Rusk, Freeman and other officials flew to Austin this morning from Washington and rode helicopters to the LBJ Ranch, 65 miles from the state capital.

The President and Erhard were expected to spend considerable time on economic issues during their four scheduled formal sessions.

The President was continuing to apply economic pressure on the executive branch of the government.

Johnson set up a seven-member committee of policy-level federal officials to undertake a fast, intensive review of foreign aid programs. He ordered the committee to report back to him by Jan. 15 with recommendations on how to eliminate waste, red tape, inefficiency and superfluous personnel.

"My action in appointing this committee, far from reflecting any lack of conviction in the necessity for foreign assistance, demonstrates my strong determination that those programs be so administered as to yield the greatest benefit to our country and the free world," Johnson said in a special statement issued from the Texas White House.

Ball Heads Committee

The study committee will be headed by Undersecretary of State George W. Ball. Members included Budget Director Kermit Gordon, Peace Corps Director R. Sargent Shriver and David E. Bell, head of the Agency for International Development (AID).

In other economy moves, Johnson sent a memorandum Wednesday to agency and department heads calling for a halt in the growth of federal employment. He urged more efficient use of workers and simplification of procedures. He also was re-evaluating defense spending.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk topped the list of high-ranking conferees today at the LBJ ranch which bustled with preparations for Erhard and his party who arrive here Saturday. The Erhard party will spend tonight in Houston. The President will greet them Saturday morning at Bergstrom Air Force Base outside Austin, Tex.

Other Officials Arrive

Arriving with Rusk today were Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman, Ball, former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, who now serves as the President's representative for foreign trade negotiations, and McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the President for national security matters. Their presence here primarily concerned the Erhard talks which will take place in the Johnson ranch house.

Other Johnson conferees scheduled today include Central Intelligence Director John A. McCone, here for a detailed intelligence briefing for the Chief Executive, and Thomas C. Mann, assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs.

Theodore C. Sorensen, special counsel and speech adviser to the President, was expected to set up headquarters on the Johnson ranch today to work on the State of the Union message which the Chief Executive will deliver to a joint session of Congress Jan. 8.

Israel Announces Agenda For Visit Of Pope Paul VI

The pontiff is scheduled to arrive from Jordan at the town of Megiddo, 18 miles southeast of Haifa, on the morning of Jan. 5. Israeli President Zalman Shazar, Premier Levi Eshkol, other Israeli ministers and five senior members of the diplomatic corps will meet the Pope at Megiddo.

Shazar is to welcome the Pope in Hebrew, presenting him with a special medallion struck in his honor. Pope Paul is to be driven to Nazareth to pray at the Grotto of the Annunciation—reputedly the site where the forthcoming birth of Jesus Christ to His mother Mary.

From Nazareth, the Pope will proceed to Mount Tabor, stopping there at the Basilica of the Transfiguration where, according to the Bible, Jesus was revealed to three of His disciples as the Son of God.

The Pope and his party will then proceed to Tabgha to tour the Church of the Loaves and Fishes and will go on to visit Capernaum, in whose synagogue Christ is said to have taught.

Pope Paul will dine and rest on the Mount of Beatitudes, traditional site of the Sermon on the Mount and Jesus' selection of His apostles.

He will then go to Jerusalem, where he will visit the room of the Last Supper on Mount Zion and see the Abbey of Dormition. The final stop will be at Mandelbaum Gate, separating Israeli-held Jerusalem from the old city, which lies in Jordan. The Pope will take leave of the same dignitaries who greeted him at the start of the visit and then return into Jordan.

Five Autos Hit Near Canyonville

Five automobiles were involved in an accident on Interstate Highway 5 near Canyonville about 1:10 p.m. Thursday, resulting in some damage to the cars and minor injury to one person.

Big Carrier Contaminated By Russian Test Fallout

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nuclear-powered supercarrier Enterprise—the world's largest ship—was contaminated by radioactive fallout from Russia's 1961 atomic tests in the atmosphere, but there was "no real danger to health."

A Navy doctor, Lt. Cmdr. Lewis H. Seaton, reported on the Enterprise's "problems" in an article abstracted in the current Navy Medical News Letter.

In commenting on the doctor's report, the Navy said that the background radiation levels aboard the Enterprise were similar to increases detected at various times by the Navy's radiological defense laboratory in San Francisco following atmospheric testing.

Seaton said that rainstorms washed fallout from the sky contaminating some external areas of the Enterprise with 10 to 20 times the amount of allowable radiation for the nuclear power plant compartment.

The Enterprise was at the Newport News, Va., shipyard at the time, the Navy said, adding that no other ships had reported such increases in radiation. Apparently this was because the Enterprise, being nuclear-powered and heavily equipped with radiation sources for medical, radar and other purposes, has intensive monitoring programs. Conventionally powered ships do not.

Seaton said that concerted efforts were necessary to keep the fallout from entering the ship through ventilating systems and on workmen's feet. Machinery spaces and galleys were "hardest hit," he said.

The condition went on for about a month.

Whenever radiation limits were exceeded, contaminated areas were cleaned up by specially trained personnel. Contamination levels stayed within tolerable limits and "there was no real danger to health."

U. S. Will Delay Maritime Suits

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department has agreed to hold up eight suits against marine port authorities involving possible fines totaling more than $12 million. Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said today.

Magnuson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, said Deputy Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach had advised him that the suits would be held in abeyance until the House acts on Magnuson's bill to remove the basis for the suits.

The suits were filed by the government under a law providing penalties up to $1,000 a day for port agreements put into effect without the approval of the Federal Maritime Commission.

Magnuson said many such agreements had been put into effect before the maritime agency had required prior approval and port authorities have complained that the suits would result in "tremendous inequities."

The eight pending suits and the possible fines involve: —Cargill, Inc., and the Port of Seattle, $1,433,000. —Matson Navigation Co. and City of Portland, Ore. $1,713,000. —Pacific Molasses Co. in Portland, $1,762,000.

Peckham Back For Christmas British Press Asks Sea Disaster Probe

In answer to his family's prayers, William Peckham, 42, former director of the Douglas County Family Guidance Clinic, was home for the Christmas holidays, but the future appeared fraught with uncertainty.

Peckham returned to Roseburg shortly before the holidays from New Orleans, La., where he was found after having been missing for more than a month.

He disappeared from his home early in November after leaving his home on Whistler's Park Road at 11 a.m. one morning to go to work at the Douglas County Courthouse.

On Dec. 11, more than a month later, New Orleans police reported to Roseburg police they had picked Peckham up on a routine check of out-of-state cars.

Mrs. Peckham and a brother flew to New Orleans immediately. They returned to Pasadena, Calif., where psychiatric counseling was started for Peckham. The former marriage counselor will return to Pasadena for further treatment after the holidays.

Mrs. Peckham said her husband was emotionally disturbed and was suffering from a lack of confidence.

She said the future of the family here is uncertain, but it appeared likely they will move to Pasadena also. Peckham expects to have employment there.

Meanwhile, Dr. James K. Gray, Douglas County health officer, said his department would probably begin recruitment soon to bring in a replacement for Peckham in the family counseling clinic. Hugh Byrkit from the county Welfare Department will continue directing the clinic until a replacement is secured.

LONDON (UPI)—The British press and Labor party opposition demanded a government inquiry today into the fire which burned the Greek cruise liner Lakonia at sea and took as many as 155 lives.

The demand came because the ship sailed from Southampton and most of the passengers were Britons on a Christmas cruise into African waters.

Some have charged that the Lakonia crew panicked and misbehaved. The captain of the Lakonia and other passengers praised the crew.

Capt. Mateos Zarbis, Greek skipper of the Lakonia, reached Madrid from the Canary Islands today on his way back home to Athens and told newsmen that more lives might have been saved if rescue ships had gone closer to his burning liner 180 miles from the island of Madeira.

A revised set of figures issued by the Greek Line, which operated the Lakonia, said 886 persons out of a total of 1,041 survived the tragedy, with 91 known dead and 64 still missing. The line said there were 337 passengers and 349 crew members aboard.

Thursday Patrick Gordon-Walker, the Labor party's spokesman on foreign affairs, presented Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home with a demand for a British inquiry into the tragedy.

"Whatever the technical registration of the ship, the passenger were almost wholly British and the cruise was organized by agents in Britain," Gordon-Walker said.

A large segment of the press quickly endorsed this viewpoint.

"Whatever inquiry is carried out under Greek law, only a British inquiry can fully satisfy people in this country," commented the mass circulation Daily Mirror.

The Daily Mail said in an editorial:

"The tragic fire in the Greek liner Lakonia was in all but name a British disaster... common sense alone therefore dictates that there should be a British inquiry into what happened on that grim night—and why."

"The government cannot just wash its hands of the Lakonia disaster," the Mail added.

Pharmacists Rap Welfare Drugs Payment System

SALEM (UPI)—Druggists voiced bitter criticism of the State Welfare Department's pro-rate payment system for drugs today.

Henry Speckman, executive secretary of the Oregon Pharmaceutical association, said his group was "disappointed in the drug program."

Rep. Fred Meek, R-Portland, a druggist, said "people feel welfare should pay the full cost of drugs. The idea of getting payments from relatives is not working."

Commission Chairman Dr. Ennis Keizer said "The key to the problem lies with the medical profession." He said doctors wanted more, not fewer, drugs on the approved list.

Welfare Commissioner Andre Juras said the state made pro-rate payments in November of 71 per cent for drugs, 65 per cent for hospital care, and about 54 per cent for physicians services on a state wide average.

While the department's rigid control of expenditures has brought many services back within budget allotments, medical payments still were over budget for November.

Aid to dependent medical was $24,729 over budget, aid to aged medical was $105,599 over, nursing home payments were $39,790 over and hospital services ran $35,590 over.

Mrs. Oswald To Testify

DALLAS (UPI)—The Russian-born widow of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald will go before the Warren Commission early next year to help fill gaps in the commission's record of her dead husband's travels and dealings.

A source close to Mrs. Marina Oswald said she would testify before the commission, which is investigating President Kennedy's assassination. Chief Justice Earl Warren heads the fact-finding committee.

For Mrs. Oswald, the past month has been a lonely and uncertain one.

In a land where she has few friends and does not understand the native tongue, she has turned to religious guidance.

The 22-year-old widow went to a solemn midnight Mass Christmas eve at a Greek Orthodox church and then visited the grave of her husband Christmas Day.

The mound of dirt at Rose Hill Cemetery still is unmarked but a source said that Mrs. Oswald ordered a small headstone for the grave. She hopes to have a small cross and some flower replicas engraved in the stone.

Mrs. Oswald and her children now make their home at an undisclosed motel. They moved to the Inn of the Six Flags shortly after President Kennedy was assassinated, but have moved again.

Secret Service men still guard the woman and her youngsters.
