

Dear Abby!

Logic Can't Cure Love!

— By ABIGAIL VANBUREN —

Dear Abby: A relative, recently out of high school, is planning to marry a man she met this past year as soon as he gets out of prison. He is about 10 years older than she, previously married, divorced and has children. He has served time in prison for armed robbery, and was out on probation when she met him. Since then he's been sent back to prison for failing to report to his probation officer. The girl is attractive and intelligent. She claims she is "in love" with him, that he needs her and she can reform him. Her parents are heartbroken, but she won't listen to them. She confides in no one, but she does read your column. Can we reach her through you before it's too late?

TROUBLED RELATIVE

Dear Abby: "Love" in some people is a mental disease which can't be cured with logic. I agree, the man appears to be a poor risk. But unless the girl herself seeks advice, no one can reach her.

Dear Abby: I have a daughter-in-law who brings her week's ironing along in a basket when she comes to visit me for the weekend. You need not ask who ends up doing it. This girl has no job outside her home, and she has only one work to do, and I have weekend guests. I do not expect to do someone else's work. How can this be solved without starting a family fight?

WEARY

Dear Abby: Look right through the basket of ironing. When your daughter-in-law realizes that she has to do it anyway, she'll find the time to do it at home.

Dear Abby: What's the difference between meddling in other people's business and giving advice?

Dear Abby: Meddling in other people's business is offering advice — unsolicited. Giving advice is acceptable when the advice has been asked for.

Dear Abby: "Preparing Ahead" letter from the woman who had so many questions about what to wear to her husband's funeral (while he was still alive) remind me of this classic story:

Mr. George C., one of the vice presidents in a large corporation, passed away suddenly. An hour after it became known in the office, an eager beaver who had been backing for vice president approached the boss and asked if he could take George's place.

"It's all right with me if the undertaker doesn't mind," replied the boss.

Sincerely, MAX
