PAYNE TARIFF BILL IS FOUND TO BE O. K.

The new Payne tariff bill was endorsed by the Laurean society at the regular meeting Saturday night, after the members had heard it criticized by Collier and Huntington and defended by Moores and Cash in a spirited debate.

After the debate Geary discussed the recent hazing, objecting strongly to the proposed abolition of class distinctions. The meeting closed with a ten minute parliamentary drill led by President Steele.

PHILOLOGIANS WILL MEET IN McCLURE HALL

Dr. Leonard's room in McClure hall is where the Philologist literary society will meet hereafter. At the last meeting the program consisted of a short extemporaneous debate, after which Alfred Powers gave a short address. There are still a few vacancies in the membership list for freshmen who want to work.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS MADE IN THE LIBRARY

There have been several improvements in the library since college closed last year. There have been two new book cases, a paper rack, and a large case for periodicals placed in the library during the summer. Over 2,000 new volumes have been added to the already creditable list.

The library will be open all day Saturday and every evening except Friday and Saturday evenings, until 9 o'clock. Students are required to register before using the books. A set of rules have been formulated, which will be found at Miss Leach's desk.

ENGINEER TO UNITE WITH THE MONTHLY

That the Oregon Engineer will combine with the Monthly was made certain by the action of the Engineering club at its regular meeting in McClure hall last Saturday night, for, while final action was left to a special committee, the opinion was general that such a step should be taken.

The Monthly staff has been favorable to the proposition for some time and the Engineering committee will meet with them Thursday night to make final arrangements. The engineers will probably take special charge of a department of the Monthly, their editor acting as a regular member of the staff.

The members of the committee appointed by the Engineering club are Earl Marshall, Geo. Poysky, and Dr. Leonard. The opinions they expressed when interviewed today left no doubt that they were in favor of the above change.

Professor McAlister delivered a lecture at the meeting on the effect of errors in observation on calculated distances. He first took up the problem of measuring a height by the vertical angle and horizontal distance, and showed the effect on the height of small errors in reading the angle. He next considered the error of closure which might be expected in running railroad curves. From these he proceeded to take up in turn the flow of water over a weir, the resisting moment of a beam, the torsional moment of a shaft, and the problem of determining azimuth by observation on polaris, and in each case showed wherein lay the greatest source of error.

Policy of the Sherman, Clay & Co. Organization.

Reliability.

One price to all.

Superior quality of goods.

A 'square deal' to everybody.

A small margin added to the wholesale cost is our profit.

Easy terms of ownership is the explanation of our large and increasing business.

No fake sales or spasmodic reduction of prices in any of our line of stores.

To offer an expensive article today at one price, tomorrow at another and later at half price indicates either an enormous profit or an unreliable policy.

Sherman, Clay & Company shuns such deceptive methods, believing that an instrument of merit is worth as much today as it was yesterday or will be tomorrow.

A child can buy a piano as safely and as cheaply from us as can the most experienced business man.
