

ANNUAL CONTEST RETURNS ONCE MORE TO EUGENE

ANCIENT STRUGGLE HAS BECOME OF MINOR IMPORTANCE

Large Crowd Will Come Up from Portland to See Game—Old Oregon Captain in Lineup

The game against the Multnomah Athletic club, Saturday, will be the first important event of the present football season for the team of the University of Oregon. It will probably attract a large crowd of rooters from Portland, since this will be the first appearance of the Multnomah team on the Eugene field since 1902, when, under the coaching of Mike Dolph, it succeeded in defeating the Varsity team by a score of 6 to 0.

The lineup of the visiting team is especially strong this year and the game bids fair to be a close one and full of interesting features. Coach Forbes of the Oregon team, when asked his views on the coming contest, shook his head thoughtfully and said, "They'll have some good men, and the only way we can hope to win is by being in better condition than they." The fact that the Multnomah lineup this year includes a number of the men who formerly starred on the Varsity teams, adds much to the probability of a hard fought game, and a close score. Among the Varsity-trained men who will be lined up with the visitors are, Gordon Moores, Frank Ex-tempton and Jack Latourette, all ex-captains of the Varsity team.

Manager Goodman, although realizing the fact that the game is sure to be a hard one, is confident in the expression of his belief that the Varsity eleven will win by a safe score, but stated in the men's assembly this morning that he did not believe either team would make more than two touchdowns at the most. It is conceded that the winning of the game against Multnomah will place Oregon in line for the championship this season.

The full lineup of the two teams in the coming game will be as follows:

The Klosche Tillacum girls entertained about thirty of their friends Saturday evening. The occasion was their annual Hallowe'en party. Autumn leaves and ferns made attractive decorations, while jack-o-lanterns furnished the lighting. On the third floor the departed spirits held full sway. There the guests learned what fate held in store for them. Delicious refreshments were served in the dining room. Dancing furnished the amusement for the guests.

HAZING SUBSTITUTES WILL BE CONSIDERED

Two replies have come from the colleges to which circular letter were addressed asking whether hazing was tolerated and what methods were used to prevent it. The University of Washington and the University of California both replied that while there was no special rule against hazing it was generally understood that the upper classes are the dominant element in student affairs. Both have a day early in the year when by a tug of war between Freshmen and Sophomores, or by a general wrestling contest between the classes, enough steam is blown off to relieve the pressure that so often results in hazing. The definite replies from the other colleges addressed have not yet been received, it is known that few have set rules against hazing. At many of them a day early in the fall term is set aside for a contest between the classes, and after this day the freshman walks the campus unmolested by his "superiors." This system has proved very effective in some institutions where hazing in its more violent forms has long been tolerated. At Columbia, the old and terribly rough cane rush has given place to a contest which just as effectively relieves the tension between classes, and is responsible for less injuries. The classes line up facing each other above a four-foot embankment. At a given signal the contest begins, each class endeavoring to throw the other classmen down the bank. The class who keeps the last man up wins. Other colleges have wrestling, tying contests, push ball and tug of war contests on their annual days.

Several forms of contest have been proposed for the University of Oregon. The one most popular seems to be a tug of war over the mill race. Obviously the losing class would be dragged thru the race, which it is considered would sufficiently relieve the feelings of the Sophomores.

The contests are usually quite evenly contested, the superior numbers of the freshmen class being fairly balanced by the sophomore team work.

This or some other method of contest for an annual freshman-sophomore rush will be brought up at the next student body meeting. It seems to be the consensus of student opinion that Oregon should follow the example of other schools in this matter, and provide a legitimate substitute for the unpopular methods of hazing.

The Entre Nous girls gave a Hallowe'en party on Saturday night at the home of Miss Maud Beals. A splendid time was reported. Decorations of autumn leaves, ferns, and the proverbial Hallowe'en cats, bats and witches were everywhere in evidence. Various unique forms of amusement were enjoyed, chief among which was the splendid fortune telling by Mrs. Lischen Miller.

The girls in the Entre Nous are Jessie Calkins, Ellen Frink, Mae Sage, Hazel Humphrey, Eva Frazier, Bertha Cummings, Maud Beals, Ethel Barnard, and Ethel Johnson. The invited guests were: Misses Lawrence, Waite, Black, Abrams, and Murphey, and Messrs. Shumaker, Neil, Williams, Beals, Fowler, Murphey, Swift, Dalzell, Riddell, Rueter, Drew, Rounds, Nicholas, Randall, Calkins and Fernan-

LECTURE BY MR. TERRILL TODAY AT ASSEMBLY

"THE MAN OF TOMORROW" IS THEME OF PRACTICAL TALK

Students Decide to Build Bleachers on Kincaid Field to Hold Crowd at O. A. C. Game

Mr. Terrill, of the local Y. M. C. A., who addressed the student assembly this morning on "The Man of Tomorrow," took up the subject in its practical bearing on the preparatory work which the students are doing in the schools of the state, and particularly in the University of Oregon. Conditions today," he declared, "offer for the young men of the rising generation opportunities for usefulness greater than ever before. Material advancement of the human race is more rapid, problems to be solved are larger, and the demands for men of the best moral fibre are more insistent.

Pointing out that the number of those who are able to take advantage of the privileges of higher education is only a small part of those who are responsible for the existence of these privileges, he drew the lesson that students owe to the world their very best efforts in preparing themselves for the future work of solving the problems that may confront it.

After the close of Mr. Terrill's address, a meeting of the men of the student body was called, for the purpose of considering plans for building new bleachers to accommodate the crowds that will be in attendance at the more important football games of the season. The announcement was made that Manager Goodman, of the football team, had solicited about $130 among the business men of Eugene, with which to pay for the material required to construct the new bleachers. This sum would not, however, cover the cost of the labor, if it were necessary to hire carpenters to build the structure. The young men present unanimously passed a resolution agreeing to attend to that part of the work themselves, thus making it possible for the entire sum that has been raised to be applied on the purchase of the necessary lumber and other material.

An effort will be made to get the lumber on the ground in time for the work to be begun next Saturday morning. From that time until the work is completed, the students will be engaged on the job every Saturday forenoon. It is thought that this will make it possible for them to have the new bleachers completed in time for the big game between the University of Oregon and the O. A. C. The bleachers are to be constructed adjoining the grandstand.

The matter of entertainment for the members of the Multnomah Athletic Club's football team, which will play here Saturday afternoon, was also brought up and, after discussion, placed in the hands of the executive committee with full power to act. Plans for the entertainment differ, some favoring a theater party for the visiting team and entertainment in private

WILL TRY YELLS IN RALLY FRIDAY NIGHT

The committee on yells and songs have decided that the only way to judge a yell or song is by the way it sounds. In order to find out how they are going to sound it is necessary for the student to get out and render the selections for the committee.

Prof. Glen, chairman of the committee, said, "I can see no use in choosing yells when you have no one to yell." Yell Leader Alton is thoroughly disgusted with the affair, but he still has hope that the Multnomah game will arouse a little spirit.

There will be a rally Friday evening before the Multnomah game. Professor Leonard will speak at the Dormitory at 7 p. m.

At 8:15 the rally will begin. The students headed by an eighteen piece band, will march down the street to the business section of the city. After a few yells and maneuvers they will march back to Kincaid field, where a good line of speakers has been selected to address the students in the light of the freshman bonfire.

Sophomores and Freshmen will clash in the annual inter-class games tomorrow. From the claims and preparations of both sides "clash" will be the only word to describe the contest. 1912 has profited by last year's bitter experience and has been out in force for daily practice. Captain "Beppo" Jameson says, "We've got 'em over a barrel."

Altho they have not been training so regularly the Frosh are confident their galaxy of prep stars can be depended on and Captain Frosh Kuykendall expects to defeat the Sophomores by superior head work and speed.

The contest will occur on Kincaid Field at 1 p. m., Thursday. As last year's contest was prolonged till the moon rose, the players are requested to abstain from wrangling and rude talk and allow the spectators to get home for dinner.

Line-ups are:

houses, and others favoring a reception and dance at the Dormitory in the evening. The committee will probably decide upon one of these two plans, although it has power to make other arrangements if it sees fit.

GLEE CLUB MAY BE SHUT OUT OF HEILIG CIRCUIT

HOLD UP METHODS OF THEATRE AGGRAVATE MANAGER GEARY

Concert Will Be Given in Villard Hall and Independent Circuit Secured for Southern Trip.

Trust methods of doing business, such as threats of blackmail, boycott, and retaliation, have brought on a serious clash between the Eugene Theatre and the University of Oregon Glee Club. If Manager Smith of the theatre is able to make good his threat, the local concert will be given in Villard Hall, the Shubert House will be used in Portland, and various auditoriums, high schools and armories will be called in to requisition on the trip through Southern Oregon.

Though much ill feeling has always resulted from the poor support Manager Smith gives to the University activities, no serious clash appeared until this year when he raised what were already considered outrageous prices for the annual concert. Last year he made almost $200 clear profit and a similar amount on the senior play. When it is considered that he gives no advertising to the student publications, and that his largest patronage is from university students, such profits seem out of reason, and Arthur Geary, manager of the Glee Club, has absolutely refused to consider any further advance. He made a definite offer of $100, which Smith refused to accept.

Because of the poor financial outlook for the club of this year, Geary had been planning all the time to give the local concert in Villard Hall. Accordingly, he made no arrangement with the theatre. Hearing of his intentions, however, Smith went to him and threatened to close every house in the valley to him if he did not take the Eugene Theatre at his price. Geary refused and the war is on.

The two managers definitely closed all negotiations this morning. Smith showed Geary a letter he had already written to John Cort, manager of the Northwest Theatrical Circuit, which practically shuts the club out of all their houses. Geary replied that he would use the Chautauqua building in Ashland, the high school auditorium in Medford and the armory in Roseburg.

"Mr. Smith," said he, rising to leave, "I have not resorted to the low methods of blackmail and boycott you have used, but I believe that if I appeal to the students, your theatre will have few full houses hereafter." The student body is backing the Glee club and a effort will be made to get all friends of the University to withdraw their patronage from the shows this year.

The Gamma Delta Gamma Sorority and a number of their friends were entertained Hallowe'en evening at the Kerr ranch, four miles west of town.
