

OREGON MONTHLY IS NOW ON THE PRESS

The first issue of the Oregon Monthly has gone to press and will be out next Saturday. It was delayed somewhat by the late arrival of some of the cuts, but several excellent articles are promised for the opening number. Two articles on engineering, three stories, and an essay on the Mill Race are among the list.

Professor DeCou writes entertainingly on "Mathematical Recreations" and Professor McAllister publishes for the first time his valuable treatise on "Errors of Observation." "The Misnamed Miss Wells" is a story by Arthur Stillman that is expected to attract attention. Birdie Wise has a story, "The Uninvited Guest," and Tom Word has contributed an interesting sketch, "The Hazard."

Plans for the coming class hour were completed by the committee in charge and brought before the Sophomore class this afternoon. They were adopted with few changes.

Assembly hour next Wednesday is the time set. At that time the sophomore class will entertain the student body with songs, speeches, and other numbers by representative members. It is not probable that the entire hour will be occupied by the Sophomore class and the latter part of the hour may be turned into a rally of the student body to arouse enthusiasm over the coming game between the football teams of the Oregon University and the O. A. C.

Songs will be sung by the students, selections will be given by the Glee club and speeches by a number of the prominent members of the student body will be given, while a whole-souled rehearsal of the college yells will give everyone a chance to manifest the workings of the "Oregon Spirit" in vocal utterance.

Hood River Club Organized

The Hood River students at the University met last night and organized a Hood River club. Officers elected were: A. B. Cash, president; Karl W. Outhank, vice president; R. D. Murphy, secretary and treasurer; E. E. Brosius, athletic manager.

There are twelve students from Hood River at the University this year and they plan to make the organization profitable in a number of ways. A challenge has already been sent to Hood River High School to contests in basketball, football, track, baseball and tennis in the Christmas and spring vacations. There will also be social evenings occasionally.

The Hood River students at the University are, Ferdinand Struck, '11; A. B. Cash, '12; Albert Gariabrant, '12; J. E. Luckey, '12; Sidney Henderson, '12; K. D. Murphy, '13; Lena Newton, '13; E. E. Brosius, '13; Karl W. Outhank, '13; L. G. Johnson, '13; R. B. Early, '13; H. L. Cash, '13.

The Acacia fraternity and a number of their college friends were entertained by Floyd Booth, Monday evening. A most enjoyable time was reported by all. Those present besides the Acacias were: Winnie Cockenline, Adah Allen, Eva Allen, Mabel Kuykendall, Lilah Prosser, Jessie Prosser, Edith Prescott, Edwin Prosser, and Barbara Booth.

WORDING FOR DEBATE QUESTION IS DECIDED

Washington's wording for the Interstate debate was given first place by the University of Idaho and thus made the choice of the league. It is, "Resolved, That all corporations engaged in Interstate Commerce should be required to take out a federal charter.

Concessions:

1. Such legislation is constitutional.
2. A federal license shall not be available as an alternative solution."

While the form of Oregon's wording was slightly different from this, it contained exactly the same ideas. In fact, the most important item, that referring to federal license, was first suggested by Oregon and its incorporation in the question is very probably due to the shrewd examination and lucid understanding of the most minute details by Coach Buchen. Coach Hulme of Idaho neglected the point entirely in submitting his wording and then showed his respect for it by voting for Washington's wording. Washington submitted her wording after the others were in and so could profit by the suggestions in them. This she evidently did and the point might have been overlooked had not Oregon's coach detected it.

Had the provision been left out it would have placed the affirmative at a serious disadvantage. They would have been compelled to prepare a strong constructive argument against the present form of state incorporation and also a rebuttal case against a system of federal license. Coach Buchen believes that no other "jokers" can be found in the question.

Dr. Leonard on Playing the Game

In order that there may be no conflict between the Men's Meeting in Deady Hall, Friday, and the football rally which is to be held on the same night, it has been arranged that the meeting will begin promptly at seven and will be dismissed at seven forty-five sharp. From the meeting every man is expected to go directly to the Dormitory where the students are to be assembled for the rally.

The program for the meeting will be admirably fitted for a leader to the rally itself. Dr. Leonard has agreed to give an address on "Football, or Playing the Game" after which the meeting will be turned over to the football men of the University, who will give a number of short talks. Dr. Leonard is enough of a football enthusiast that those who attend the meeting may be assured of a strong and interesting address. Special musical features have been secured and the singing of college songs, which has proven quite a popular feature of these meetings, will be a portion of the entertainment.

Susie Fennel Pipes, Recital

Cards are out announcing the recital of Susie Fennel Pipes, head of the Violin department of the University School of Music, to be given at the Eugene Theater, Friday evening, November the fifth, 1909. The assisting artists will be Mr. Fargo, tenor, recently from New York and Mr. F. Hutchinson, pianist of Portland, who is reported to be one of the best accompanists on the coast.

Mrs. Pipes' reputation as an artist extends over the entire state. She has recently returned from Germany, where she started under the noted artist and teacher, Spiering. This is her first appearance since her return and it will be received with much interest by her many friends and the music loving population of Eugene.

The concert is under the direction of Edna B. Jones.

Fifteen University girls from the Washington High School of Portland have formed a social club under the name of "Owl Club."

LARGEST STADIUM ON COAST FOR U. OF W.

University of Washington, Nov. 2—A huge athletic field, the largest on the coast, is to be built at the University of Washington this year. It will be located about where the Stadium now stands and will extend down to Lake Washington. The dirt excavated from the government canal between the lake and Puget Sound, begun last Thursday, will be used in constructing the new field.

Last Friday afternoon the undergraduates met in their annual class scrap. The contest was of a new variety. A flag was placed in a box which was buried, and the sophomores were required to defend the grave from spoilation by the freshmen. The sophomores won yesterday's contest. It is not likely that the contest will take this form another year, for the defenders have the advantage. In yesterday's battle the freshmen drove the sophs from the grave but were unable to resurrect the box in the allotted time.

Decide Fate of Theses

The question of making the senior these optional instead of required as heretofore in the various departments of the University of Oregon, will be discussed at the meeting of the faculty tomorrow. A committee consisting of Professors Sweetser, Young, and McAllister has been appointed to consider the matter, and their report will be submitted for the consideration of the faculty at that time. Whatever the decision may be, it will not go into active effect during the present year, and those of the class of '11 will be the first to come under the provisions of any new ruling that may be made in the matter.

The recommendation of the committee is moderate. They do not advise total abolition of theses but only a few changes that they believe will make the work of more use to the students.

Annual Wants Artists

Fritz Dean, who has charge of the art department of the Junior Annual, has announced that he wants all artists in the University to see him immediately. He intends to get things started at once and nothing but first class material will be accepted.

"The Annual," says he, "furnishes the best opportunity in the university for artists to show their talent. We intend that it shall be a merited distinction for anyone to get his work in this year's book."

The football squad at California will live together in the chapter house of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity until their big game is played on November 13, with Stanford. The action of the generous Phi Delta Theta men in turning their home over to the football squad was made possible by the other fraternities, who are making the Phi Delta Thetas their guests while their house is occupied. The coaches expect many good results to come from this arrangement for their men.

The free religion society has changed its time of meeting this week to Thursday night on account of the football rally. A new name has been suggested, the "Emersonians." The meeting Thursday night will begin at 7:30 in Dr. Schmidt's room. A constitution will be adopted and regular time selected for future meetings.

The Student affairs Committee met this afternoon and agreed that the girls might have an inter-collegiate debating team. They also decided to have an advisory committee of seven girls to have charge of the Co-ed affairs.
