Sophomores at Y. M. C. A.

The Men's Meeting on Friday evening has been turned over to the sophomores, and Sweeney who has charge of the meeting has arranged a brief but interesting program for the occasion. Five minute talks will be given on various phases of the Y. M. C. A. by four of the sophomores.

Cash will speak on "The Y. M. C. A. as a Student Enterprise." Walls will talk about "The Work the Y. M. C. A. Has Done in Other Institutions." Osterholm will tell "How Much Time Should Be Reasonably Given to Y. M. C. A. Work." Sweeney will close this part of the program with a few remarks on "The Effect of Active Y. M. C. A. Work in the Life of a Student." A violin duet has been arranged for by Roscoe Lyons and Beuford Roach.

Although the attendance has not been very prompt, the meeting will be called at seven sharp so that it may be dismissed at 7:50.

Decide Yell Contest.

The yell and song contest will actually be decided this evening. After hearing the different contributions in real practice last Saturday, the committee believe they are able to judge, and their report will be made tonight.

The yells and songs which appeared most acceptable, have been printed free of charge, by the Eugene Register office, and it is presumed that the report will contain most of the specimens in the yell book.

SCHEDULE PREPARED FOR DEBATE TRYOUTS

At a meeting of the Oratory and Debate committee Monday afternoon it decided to hold the tryouts for the Oregon-Utah debate during the two weeks following the Thanksgiving vacation under the following rules:

There will be four tryouts—the first on Tuesday evening, November 30; the second on Friday afternoon, December 3; and the remaining two on the same days of the following week. Every man will appear in every tryout, only the judges and two other contestants being present to hear each speaker. Five minutes has been set as the limit for the speeches, but this may be extended in the last tryouts if the judges deem it advisable.

At these tryouts two men will be chosen to represent Oregon against Utah on January 14th and they may also be given places in final tryout for the triangular teams, in which only eight men take part. The short time limit was made necessary because of the large number who will try out, over thirty having already signified their intention of doing so. The order in which the men will appear has been arranged so that each will hear the opponent preceding him, answer that argument, and then listen to the opponent following him to see where, if at all, his own argument is refuted. In order to prevent one speaker from always answering the same argument, they will be shifted in each tryout. This will also avoid the chance of one man meeting a strong or weak argument in every case. The order in the first tryout will be determined by lot.

The judges for the contest will be Coach Buchen, Professor DeCou, Professor Glen, Professor Sheldon and Dr. Gilbert. Each debater will be left free to choose his own side. He may change at any time, may vary his speeches, or always follow the same argument. In short, he will be the sole judge of how to impress the judges most forcibly and convince them of his ability.

OREGON TEAM PREPARES FOR IDAHO CONTEST

MEN ARE IN GOOD FORM AND EXPECT TO WIN
FROM RIVALS

Game Will Show Comparative Strength of Varsity Team Beside Washington, Whitman and
W. S. C.

The Oregon football team will leave tomorrow for Portland for the big game with the University of Idaho. This will be Oregon's first game with a conference college this season and should give the critics a chance to compare her strength with that of Washington, Whitman, W. S. C., and somewhat with O. A. C.

Contrary to the hard luck stories in some of the daily papers, the Oregon team is not made up of "cripples" and expects to give a good account of itself. Coach Forbes has not been forced to abandon his system. He is going right ahead with it and will make few changes in the regular line up. The students have confidence in his ability and say they will back his methods to the finish.

Thanks to Trainer Hayward, every man on the team is in the pink of condition with the exception of a few minor bruises. In spite of the unpropitious weather, they have been working harder than ever this week, the competition being especially keen for places.

Coach Forbes has been specializing on team work and will cut down the squad to about seventeen men, as has been his intention all along as soon as the preliminary games were played. Latourette is in his old position at quarter and will probably remain there the rest of the season. Captain Clarke has been moved to his half back position where his weight is most advantageous. By Saturday the team will be moulded into as good a scoring machine as has ever represented the University.

Idaho has had hard luck this year, but it is well known that the team itself is weak and has no chance for the championship. Washington, Whitman and W. S. C. all overwhelmed them, and though they put up a good fight in the last game, they were unable to hold out in the second half. Ludstrom, Jewell and Thornton are all back in the game now and they are probably somewhat stronger in team work, although they can hardly be fully recovered from that terrible struggle last Friday night with W. S. C.

Considering all the factors, then—conceding that Idaho is stronger than formerly, but remembering that Oregon should also be further along than were Washington and Pullman, those who are speculating on Oregon's chances feel that if she is in line for the championship, she should run up a fair score against her rivals in Portland. Washington's score was fifty to nothing. This was not all deserved perhaps, yet all admit that if Oregon is to hop for victory against Dobie's men on Thanksgiving day, her team must run up a good score against Idaho. The two

MORAL BOYCOTT ON UNRULY FRESHMEN

A moral boycott is to be started next week on all freshmen who refuse to wear the green caps. This was decided last night at a meeting of representative men from all the clubs, and fraternities and from the Dormitory.

All the houses agreed to see that their freshmen wore caps and then it was felt that the outsiders would have to fall in line. It is said that most of the opposition comes from Eugene students. Beginning next Monday, every freshman wearing a hat will be quietly ignored by all the upper classmen.

It was also agreed that the green cap rule should not apply at rallies and games if the freshmen wore rooter's hats. On all other occasions, however, no one will speak to a freshman unless he wears a green cap.

Co-eds Will Debate.

Girls of Oregon and Washington are rejoicing over the fact that the faculties of the two institutions have given their consent for an inter-state Co-ed debate. Manager Steele is conferring with the Washington debate manager over the terms of a two-year contract. If the debate is held this year it will be in Seattle some time in the spring.

There is little doubt that satisfactory terms can be agreed upon though it may take a little time to arrange all details. Manager Augevine of Washington wrote last week that they favored the debate but asked that each institution should have half the expense. Inasmuch as this year Oregon will be under a heavy financial burden and next year under a very light burden Manager Steele preferred to make a two-year contract for Washington to finance the debate this year and Oregon next year. He has not yet received a reply in the matter.

The institutions have never held such a contest. Last year it was suggested by Washington, but the Oregon faculty objected to the plan. This year there seems to be on such objections. The girls believe that they have a right to represent the University in some line of activity, and look upon debating as their best opportunity. The Eutaxian Society is strongly in favor of it and is said to contain many worthy debaters. The question and arrangements for selecting the team will be determined later.

NEW CUSTOM--- SOPHOMORE HOUR PROVES SUCCESS

ASSEMBLY TURNED OVER TO 1912, WHO RENDER
FINE PROGRAM

Large Crowd Only Complains
That Time Is Too Short—
Speeches Made and Much
Spirit Manifested.

The Sophomore class initiated a new custom in the University of Oregon, this morning—a "class hour" at which the Class of 1912 took full charge of the regular student assembly, and the entire program was furnished by its members.

The musical numbers, consisting of a piano solo by Raphael Geisler, a vocal solo by Miss Alma Payton, and a trombone solo by R. Burns Powell, were exceptionally fine and all received enthusiastic encores. Ralph Moores delivered a short address on "Class Spirit," drawing a very pointed moral for the benefit of the underclassmen and appealing to them to uphold the traditions of the University and not to let themselves be known as the first class that ever flew in the face of student opinion in the University of Oregon.

The entire program was received with the heartiest appreciation by the students who attended, and their applause seemed to show that they thoroughly agreed with the sentiments of Benjamin Williams, president of the student body, who said later, "It was fine, and the only possible fault I can find with it is that there wasn't near enough of it." It is the purpose of the students to continue the custom initiated by the class of '12, each class taking upon itself at some one of the student assemblies during the year, the work of preparing and giving a program.

After the close of the Sophomore program, R. M. Alton, who had presided, turned the assembly over to the student body for a short football rally. Dean Goodman, manager of the team, made a plea for a revival of the real "Oregon Spirit" which, he declared, appeared to be almost lacking in the support that the students accorded their football team that represented them. He appealed to the men of the University to turn out on every possible occasion and do all in their power to make their team feel that they were really backing it. "The team," he said, "is discouraged with the lukewarm support it is receiving, and Trainer Hayward, who is usually about as optimistic a man as one can find, told me yesterday that the players were thinking seriously of disbanding if the support from the students continued as half-hearted as it has been thus far." He called upon the men of the University to come out on Saturday mornings and assist in the completion of the new bleachers in time for the game against O. A. C. The bleachers on the north side of the field have been promised to the rooters who are to come from Cor-
