MAGAZINE PUBLISHED BY OREGON ALUMNI

Among the magazines that come to the library of the University of Oregon, Bonville's Western Magazine attracts especial attention from the students on account of the important parts played in its editing and in contributing to it, by alumni and others connected with the university. The Bonville's Magazine is published in Portland. It was founded a comparatively short time ago, but is growing with phenomenal rapidity and is already recognized, by those competent to judge, as one of the foremost literary publications on the Pacific Coast.

The editor, Mrs. Virginia Bean, is a graduate from Oregon and for a number of years after finishing her course here, held a position as an assistant instructor under Professor H. C. Howe, head of the Department of English Literature. Professor Howe is also interested in the Bonville Magazine, in the capacity of a contributor. Scarcely an issue appears which does not contain some interesting article from his pen, and he has become one of the most widely known and popular of its contributors. Ralph Bacon, the manager of the magazine is also a writer of some excellent prose and verse which appears in its pages. Mr. Bacon is a graduate of Oregon, as is Miss Miriam Van Waters, who is also a frequent and popular contributor to the magazine.

Threat of Boycott Effective

As a result of the threatened boycott of freshmen not wearing the official cap, the number of green caps on the campus has been greatly increased. The members of the committee who lead in the movement report that not a single case of disobedience of the custom has been brought to their notice, and that they believe the threat will prove effective as no fellow will care to bring upon himself the disfavor of the united upper classmen.

Entries Due for Debate

Wednesday, November 24th is the last day for entering names for the Oregon-Utah debate tryouts. Manager Steele says: "We want the names of all the men who are going to try out; and we want only those who are going to try out." The tryouts will be held on the Tuesday evenings and Friday afternoons of the first two weeks following the Thanksgiving recess.

Oregon Credits Good at Harvard

Word has been received at the office that graduates of the University of Oregon will in the future be admitted unconditionally to Harvard Law School. The list of schools whose graduates are admitted without conditions is limited, and Registrar Tiffany says it speaks well for Oregon that hers are included within the list.

The Kappa Alpha Theta Fraternity opened their house to the members of the student body Friday evening. The decorations were Smilax and chrysanthemums. Mrs. Dodd and Frances Oberteuffer received the guests. During the evening delicious punch and wafers were served, by Ione Lambert, Pearl McKelvey and Barbara Eakin.

The Chi Omega girls are giving a chafing dish supper this evening, in honor of their guests who are, Monta Megley, and Agnes McLaughlin of Portland and Martha Monteith of Albany.

Guests at the Gamma Phi Beta house during week-end were: Lucy Eastman, Alice Carey, Evelyn Ijans, Jessie Johnson and Ruth Steiwer.

The Gamma Phi Betas gave an informal dancing party Friday evening.

Too much social activity is next to impossible at Washington. An undergraduate desiring to attend any social function must convince the faculty that his scholarship is above the passing mark.

A course in the Conservation of Resources is offered at the University of Michigan. The course involves six years of study, resulting in the degree of Master of Conservation Engineering.

Before February 1st the scholarship of the fraternities of Kansas University must be equal to that of other students or stringent action will be taken against the Greek letter organizations.

Those who make the debating team of the University of Chicago receive scholarships worth the tuition for two quarters.
