

BOYS HAVING GOOD TIME AT LAKE RESORT

By W. S. Main.
American Lake, Nov. 22.—The Oregon team, in their special car, arrived in Tacoma early yesterday morning. A special car was obtained so that the men would not have to arise when the train reached Tacoma, which happened about four o'clock in the morning. After breakfast in Tacoma, the team took the car out to the lake, the trip consuming nearly an hour's time. In the afternoon the boys hired boats and rowed away out into the center of the lake, where they all gathered together, told stories and sang songs.

This morning the team awoke to gaze upon a grand sight. A driving wind came scurrying across the lake toward the hotel, stirring up the sheet of water into white capped waves and sending the falling rain hustling into their faces. The far shore of the lake could barely be distinguished through the falling spray. The wind moaned in the trees and rattled the windows and it was almost impossible to make one's way against it. The men are enjoying it all immensely.

This afternoon comes first practice, followed by a steaming out of cripples. The injured men are gradually improving and will be in first rate condition for the game. The team will leave early Wednesday morning for Seattle and probably hold their last practice in the afternoon on Denny Field, where the big game takes place.

Visitors from Seattle yesterday state that the Washington team is not so confident of winning as before the game of last Friday. Dobie is working his team hard and endeavoring to drive out any over-confidence. Oregon counts on Washington being over-worked besides over-confident and these factors may win the game for the lemon yellow.

American Lake, where the Oregon team is now training, is located twelve miles south of Tacoma. An electric line connects it with the city, cars running every hour. It is a beautiful sheet of water, about four miles long and half as broad. A very pretty island is located in the center, reminding one of pitcares of Ellen's Isle, mentioned in Scott's Lady of the Lake. A growth of pine and firs run down to the water's edge.

It is hard to realize just why Tacoma does not take advantage of this beauty spot. It is certain that if located close to Eugene, or some of our wide-awake Oregon towns, it would be improved and advertised as one of the resorts in the country. As it is there is only a small second rate hotel on the shore, with a boat house adjoining.

CO-ED DEBATE IS NOW DEFINITELY ARRANGED

The debating prowess of the University of Oregon this year, will not be upheld by the men of the institution alone, but the co-eds are also to have an opportunity of appearing in the field in a debate against the co-eds of the University of Washington. Manager Steele is in receipt of a letter from the University of Washington, announcing that the board of control has decided favorably on the proposition of holding an inter-collegiate debate between the women of the two schools, and Coach Buchen is drawing up a two year contract which will be at once forwarded to Washington for approval. All of the main points have already been agreed upon by the two institutions.

Each team is to consist of three debaters. The question is to be chosen by the visiting team, the other team having the choice of sides. The first Friday in May has been decided upon as the date for holding the debate. It will be in Seattle this year and in Eugene next year.

STUDENTS NEED NOT RESIDE AT VARSITY

"I expect to see the Correspondence Department grow until it surpasses in size all the other departments of the university combined," said Professor Alderman, head of the department, to an Emerald reporter when asked today as to his work. This would simply mean that in the college of the future, students would no longer find it necessary to reside there, but would carry on their education perhaps evenings after hours.

Since its establishment in 1907 the Correspondence Department has been making great progress. Last year three hundred students were taking active work under it and the number shows indications of climbing as high as five hundred before the close of the present semester.

The idea of the department is to instruct students at a distance through the agency of the U. S. mails. Regular texts and guide readings for study are printed and sent out at the bare cost of postage. The usual expense per course is about one dollar.

New courses are being added as the scope of the work can be extended, the latest being some in Economics by Professor Young. This makes the full list up to date as follows:

1. English Classics.
2. Shakespeare.
3. Pedagogy.
4. Pedagogy.

TEAM GETS IN SHAPE TO BEAT WASHINGTON

half-back while Clark was out this year, doing fairly well as a substitute punter. Latourette and Chandler have competed with each other for two years for the quarter-back position. The latter was forced to drop out for a time this year on account of his studies but was fortunately available for the northern trip, to use in case Latourette is disabled.

Sap Latourette has been improving steadily until he is now the peer of any quarter-back in the Northwest. At running punts back he is unequalled, already making two clear touchdowns by his phenomenal work this season. Greater still, perhaps, is his skill in throwing forward passes, not one going astray in the O. A. C. game. With Sap in the game there is a chance any time for a sensational run that may turn victory into defeat at the very end of the game. Because of his clever work, he is being mentioned prominently for a place on the "All Northwest" team.

Main and McKinley are both doing good work in the back-field, the former being known for his hard consistent playing and the latter for his brilliant dash. For a time this year Main played at tackle, but was again placed in the back-field to fill Clark's position. It is doubtful where he will play in the Washington game.

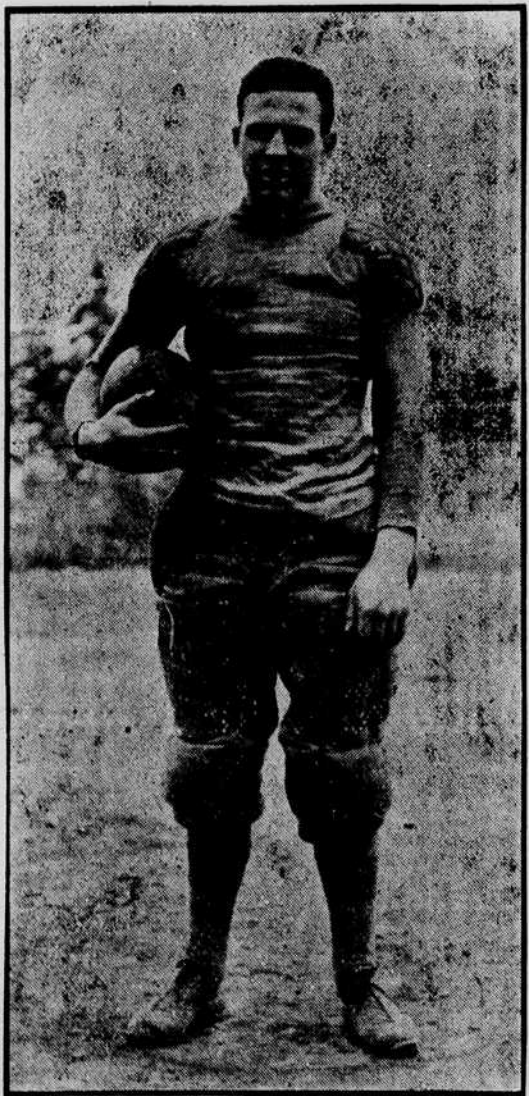

Kellogg, Storie, Means and Harding will play in the line. They complete

ORATORY SHALL NOT DIE, SAYS WASHINGTON

"Oratory is too important to be dropped." Thus taking vigorous exception to the declaration from the University of Idaho that the days of oratory are past, Manager Angevine, of the University of Washington, writes to Manager Steele, of Oregon, advising that steps be taken to fill the place made vacant by the secession of Idaho from the Interstate Oratorical Association.

He offers the suggestion that the University of Montana be considered for membership in the league, with Whitman College as next choice. The Oregon Committee of Oratory has voted to extend an invitation, with the consent of the University of Washington, for the University of Montana to fill the place formerly held in the league by Idaho, and in case Montana finds it impossible to enter into membership, to extend a similar invitation to Whitman College.

Washington's Captain.

Above is a picture of Melvil Mucklestone, Washington's great half-back. He is completing his fourth year, playing two years at North Dakota Agricultural College before going to Washington.

One of the remarkable things about this man as well as several other famous players, is his attachment for Gil-mour Dobie, the Washington Coach. To be with him he has come half way across the continent. In fact this is one of the strangest things about the great Minnesota Coach. During his second year at the N. D. A. C. nine star men came from Minnesota or near there to make up his great championship aggregation that never defeated a team by less than fifty points. The regular students, however, objected to being crowded out by these invaders and ended by asking Dobie to resign. He came to Washington, two of his men, Mucklestone and Eakins, again following him.

the long list of phenomenal freshmen that Forbes developed last year.

The men who made places this year as freshmen are Mitchell, Walker, Bailey and Johnson, the former, however, not making the northern trip because of an injury in Friday's game. He has been playing good ball at center and was the only freshman to make the training table. Walker has made a name for himself at full-back, Bailey is playing a star game at guard, and Johnson is a coming end.

With these men, developed and per-

PRESCRIPTIONS

We use knowledge and care in the selection of ingredients which go into prescriptions, and science in compounding them. Ask your doctor if there are any better drugs than Merck, Squibb and Park Davis manufacture. In case of sickness which is most important, that the prescription be filled by a "cheap" druggist or a GOOD druggist?
