JUDGES SAY CO-EDS HAVE STRONG TEAM

Nine women entered the preliminary tryout for Oregon's co-ed debating team, which began yesterday afternoon. This number was composed of three juniors, four sophomores and two freshmen.

The judges declared that the tryout was very interesting and that some of the speakers were surprises. They were all agreed that if the women did as well in future tryouts, the task of choosing the team would be a difficult one.

When asked by a member of the Interstate team, if the women were better debaters than the men Coach Buchen replied: "I am afraid they are just as good; say but there are some dandy speakers in that bunch." Dr. Gilbert overhearing this remark, replied: "We can pick a girl's team that can beat any three men you can pick from your bunch. And I would like to see them try it later in the year."

Those trying out were: Lilah Clark, '11; Willetta Wright, '11; Bertha Cummings, '11; Birdie Wise, '12; Fay Clark, '12; Hazel McKowen, '12; Jane Knox, '12; Ethel Clark, '13; and Corin Degermark, '13.

The judges are Professor Glen, Dr. Gilbert and Coach Buchen.

The next tryout will be held on Friday at three o'clock. At that time the number will be cut down to six and the final will be held on Wednesday, March 10th.

The artist purposely spelt that word "sole" wrong—he thought that another variation in spelling the word was necessary to impress on the public's mind the individuality of our shoes—the superb qualities and values we give in OUR footwear.

We give the soul of good workmanship and leather, in both the sole and uppers in ONR shoes.

Our soul idea is to please you and retain your trade. That's the soul of our business policy.
