

OREGON TEAM DEPARTS THURSDAY FOR MOSCOW

COACH WARNER TAKES SEVENTEEN MEN ON TRIP

Valuable Men Lose Places on Team as Result of Injuries. Five Recruits on Squad.

The Varsity squad is in good shape for the game with Idaho, and will leave Thursday for Moscow. Several men are out of the game on account of injuries and can not make the trip. Kay, who broke into the game recently, will be out because of an injured shoulder. Mitchell will be out for the rest of the season on account of his knee, which was hurt last year. Jamison will also turn in his suit because of his parents' objection to the game.

As nearly as can be stated at present, Coach Warner has announced that the following men will be taken to Moscow: Michael, Fiser, Anneson, ends; Bailey, Hall, Widlund, tackles; Fenton, Grout, guards; Kellogg, Caulfield, centers; Taylor, Latourette, Main, Walker, Means, Bartell, Chandler, backs.

Anneson, Hall, Caulfield, Fiser and Bartell are new additions to the Varsity squad, but have shown sufficient class in past performances to warrant their being given places in the first lineup.

The University of Idaho has a strong team, and Oregon expects to play one of the hardest games of the season at Moscow next Saturday. The alumni and Puget Sound games are the only contests Oregon has taken part in this year, and neither of these are considered a fair test of the strength of the Varsity team. The alumni game was a burlesque affair, and in strength the P. S. U. team was far below the par of Coach Warner's scrub eleven, which meets the Varsity in daily scrimmage.

Oregon will be weak in the punting department this year. The main dependence of the team is upon Fenton, who has the earmarks of a number one punter, but lacks experience.

During the games of the past four years between Oregon and Idaho, the University of Oregon football team has scored eighty-two points against 32 for Idaho. In 1906 Oregon won from the Moscowites by the score of 12 to 0. All of Oregon's scores being due to place kicks by Moulten. In 1907 Oregon defeated Idaho 21 to 5 in Portland. This game was famous because of the first appearance of the wonderful Idaho spread.

In 1908 Oregon won from Idaho at Moscow in one of the hardest fought football games ever played in the Northwest. It was in this contest that Oregon was forced to finish the game with but ten men.

In 1909 the Oregon team overwhelmed the Idaho squad, in Portland, by the score of 26 to 6.

DR. BENNETT TELLS WHY GIRLS COME TO COLLEGE

Y. W. C. A. Hears an Interesting Talk by Psychologist

Monday afternoon the women of the University listened to the second of the talks planned by the Y. W. C. A. Dr. Bennett, of the Department of Psychology, spoke on the subject, "Why Girls Come to College." Dr. Bennett outlined several aims which a woman should have in entering a college. They were, in brief, to acquire skilled knowledge and power; that is, to gain a knowledge of the purposes of life—what is her relation to other people? To Christ? To the church? To the home? What is the value of suffering? She should aim to gain a knowledge of the values of life, the value of money, of beautiful, tasteful things, the value of time, and how to employ time most effectively intellectually, socially, aesthetically. She should strive for a greater knowledge of human beings and her own place in society. Lastly, in college, a woman should emancipate herself from the narrowness which is transmitted from the centuries behind us; she should get to see the race as a whole, freeing herself from all that is narrow. If she gains all this knowledge, and realizes the truth of the maxim, "Knowledge is light, and ignorance is death," her education has been worth while.

BASKET BALL REVIVES

Prospects Never Better for a Real Championship Team

With one of the best floors on the Coast on which to practice, and a squad of thirty men working hard, every night, the interest in basketball has largely increased. This is one branch of athletics in which Oregon has always been handicapped, but with the new gym floor completed last winter, basketball bids fair to become one of Oregon's major sports.

All of last year's men are back, as well as a number of men with prep reputations. Captain Jamison expressed himself as well pleased with the outlook. He says, "Oregon will have her first championship team."

As soon as the football season is closed, a series of interclass and interfrat games is to be played. The winner of each will receive a handsome trophy cup. The most prominent players brought forth by these games will be chosen for the Varsity squad.

Foremost among the new men in school is Carl Fenton, of Dallas, whose wonderful speed and all around playing have made him known throughout the country. He was a member of the famous Dallas team which toured the East two years ago, and won 78 out of 84 games played. Prominent other men who are planning to turn out for basketball are Cobb, Motschenbacher, Young, Houck, Bradshaw, and many others.

An inland trip will be taken during the Christmas vacation similar to that taken by the baseball team in the spring. The same teams will be played here later in the year and such an outlook for basketball bids fair to become a very popular sport.

FRESHMEN MUST WEAR GREEN CAPS SAY ALL

EMERALD REPORTER GETS VIEWS OF CELEBRITIES ON GREEN CAPS

Variety of Solutions Are Given, But All Think Rule Should be Enforced Rigidly.

Many members of the 1914 class have made no pretense of wearing the green caps, and many who wore them at first have discarded them altogether, or wear them only occasionally.

Desiring to learn the sentiment of the student body on this situation, the Emerald interviewed prominent students and faculty members, and herewith publishes their opinions.

Percy Collier, President of the Student Body, said: "The Freshmen should be made to wear the caps by all means. I believe it should be put up to the Freshman class to make its erring members come to time. The general boycott on all freshmen without the cap might help also."

"Chuck" Taylor, captain of the football team, said: "The freshmen should certainly be made to wear the green caps. The clubs and fraternities can do a great deal in improving the observance of the rule. The boycott worked pretty well last year, and might do good this year."

Mr. Lowell, a prominent senior, said: "Beat 'em over the head and then throw 'em in the millrace. There doesn't seem to be any other way."

Carin Degermark, debater on the women's team last year, said: "Put the responsibility on the freshman class. Let it pass some sort of a social boycott on its reluctant members."

Charles Robison, yell leader and booster of "Oregon Spirit," said: "Bar all freshmen who do not wear the green caps from student functions. These functions are for college men. Two things make a college man: his books and his college life. Deficient in either, he is no college man."

Thomas Burke, leader of the Glee Club, said: "The rule is no good unless all freshmen are made to observe it. Some strenuous method of enforcement should be adopted. We will see to it that the freshmen on the Glee Club wear their caps on the tour."

Prof. Glen said: "The chap who wears the green cap demonstrates that he is a good fellow, whether he admires the architecture or not."

Willetta Wright, members of woman's council and secretary of the Pan-Hellenic society, said: "Put the matter up to the freshman class, and let them make it a matter of class loyalty."

Raphael Geisler, member of the executive committee, said: "Post the names of all freshmen who do not wear the cap, in the Emerald or on the bulletin board."

Dean Collins, editor of the Monthly, said: "Everybody should boycott them, especially the members of their own class."

MUSICAL INTEREST HERE NOT DEAD BUT SLEEPETH

Prof. Glen Speaks Thusly in Talking of New Choral Club

Last spring a choral club was organized in the University, under the supervision of Professor I. M. Glen, and produced a musical carnival, the May Festival.

Both men and women participated, and much valuable training in vocal culture was obtained under Professor Glen's capable direction. The Festival was not a financial success, however, and by their non-support the students greatly discouraged efforts for musical development.

The University is fully capable of supporting such an organization as the Choral Club, but it will not be revived unless the students give evidence of increased interest and support for next spring's production.

Professor Glen says the students are in a state of musical coma and should be vigorously aroused. "Music is not dead, but sleeping."

Fenton's knee is in good shape again and he is now lofting the oval for good yardage. Dud Clark has done Oregon's punting for so long, that no star punter has been developed in recent years. Fenton, however, seems to fit into the kicking shoes satisfactorily.

Kay broke into the game encouragingly for a young player by scoring a touchdown in the alumni contest.

CLUB WILL VISIT ONTARIO

Has Been Sending Her Graduates to Idaho University

The Glee Club, in going to Ontario this year, will visit a part of Oregon never before visited by an Oregon club. This part of Oregon has been sending most of her high school graduates to the University of Idaho, for it is nearer and they have felt that they belong more to Idaho than to Oregon.

Ted Lister, a graduate of Oregon, living in Ontario, wrote to President Ogden the first of this school year, acquainting him with the condition of affairs, and urged him to bring the club there. He said, "the people in this section of Oregon do not feel that the University of Oregon is their University. The Glee Club has made many trips to Eastern Oregon, but not once has it visited this part. If you fellows will come to Ontario, sing before her students and get acquainted with them, you will win the whole country for the University."

The proposition looked good, and Manager Stein immediately made arrangements to take the club there.

Ontario has about one hundred students in her high school, and Vale, a town only six miles from Ontario, has about seventy-five in hers. An excursion will be run from Vale, and the Oregon boosters assure the Glee Club that its audience will be limited only by the capacity of the theater.

The University members of the Lambda Sigmas, a prep school fraternity, gave a banquet to Norman Hackett Tuesday night. Hackett is a Lambda Sigma.

COACH PREDICTS HARD CONTEST WITH UNIV. OF I.

OREGON WILL PLAY FAST, OPEN, KICKING GAME

Bill Hayward Plans to Have Every Man Carry His Own Jug of Pure Eugene Water.

When asked today if he expected an easy game at Moscow, Coach Warren said: "By no means. I expect a very hard one. We will play an open game, with plenty of kicking and passing. The men have a hard grueling ahead of them, and will be handicapped in that respect. The difference in elevation, too, may make some difference to the players. We will also miss a day's practice this week, as Friday will be spent on the train."

The team has not improved as much this week as last, said Mr. Warner, and I expect a hard game Saturday.

A new feature for football trip will be instituted by Trainer Hayward for this trip. Teams often suffer on trips from a change of drinking water, and the Moscow water is especially bad, because of the high percentage of alkali. On the last Moscow trip the team drank mineral water. This trouble will be obviated by taking along fifty gallons of pure water in demijohns. Each man will carry his own jug, and Bill promises to test each jug at intervals to guard against injurious foreign substance being contained therein.

Moscow, where the U. of I. is located, is on a branch road out of Colfax, Washington. The team will have a special car, which will be sidetracked a la theatrical party, at the field, and will leave at the conclusion of the game. Last year the men were compelled to dress in the baggage car, without baths. Another misfortune was the unaccountable delay of the suits, which compelled the use of worn out togs belonging to the U. of I.

This year's management, however, proposes to avoid such difficulties and assures the twenty men a pleasant trip.

The team will return Sunday evening on the 9:25.

NEW MEMBERS CHOSEN FOR MANDOLIN SECTION

The prospects for the Mandolin Club are far better this year than for many seasons past. Professor Warren has been training the eight men twice a week, and under his direction a fine program is being prepared. The greater portion of the members are new men, but all have had considerable experience, and the club is much better than it was last year at this time.

Due to extremely heavy college work Rothchild, Devereaux, Moore and Bean will be unable to be with the club. Possibly eight men will be carried this year. So far as can be ascertained, the following men will be carried: Cy Stevens, H. Young, Dean Collins, Buford Roach, Allen Smith, Hugh Currin and Ted Williams.
