St. Patrick's Day

There are many true and loyal sons and daughters of Old Erin on the campus. Shall we allow it to be said to our everlasting discredit that the University of Oregon did not fittingly observe the seventeenth of March?

Of course, there will be the usual spasmodic attempt at green neckties and ribbons, but St. Patrick is entitled to a more formal and ceremonious recognition, and it seems appropriate that our wealth of Irish cleverness and energy should originate and carry through some plan for a more fitting observance of the day.

Robert Emmett's birthday was allowed to pass almost unnoticed, yet this anniversary offers unrivalled opportunities for fervid oratory on harmless topics of ambiguity and glittering generality, such as Freedom, Home Rule and the "Ould Sod."

St. Patrick's Day is an even more important occasion, which literally cries for appropriate observance. Let us by all means have a campus parade and an oration delivered in the good, rich rich brogue. There are surely enough Celtic surnames in the University calendar to carry through anything from a wake to a measure for home rule.

A Successful Season

Willamette University now comes out as basketball champions, basing their claim upon comparative scores. Last fall they urged, in a home paper, that Oregon must now "take dictation from Willamette, because Washington is first, Willamette second and Oregon a bad third in collegiate football ranking. However, full and sufficient opportunities were offered Willamette to settle these claims against Oregon on a more substantial basis than that of comparative scores.

Contracts for both both football and basketball games were sent to Willamette, but were on flimsy grounds declined by their peevish Dr. Sweetland.

In making these weird pretensions, Willamette is out of its class. It should confine its self-bestowed titles to the non-conference colleges which might persuade to accept them seriously. As it is now, the college only makes itself ridiculous by side-stepping to conference games and then claiming championship.

The basketball team did not win the conference championship, but came so near to it that there was no fun in it for the winners. The net results are all to the good. We put out by far the best team that has ever represented Oregon, finished with a percentage of .700, and have aroused an interest in this important winter sport that will endure permanently and assure many repetitions of this year's successful season; all of which important items should be borne in mind when we vote on the pending constitutional amendment providing for the official basketball "O." Such practical results as these deserve practical recognition and reward.

Hon. Edgar B. Piper, who is now acting editor of the Oregonian, will address next Wednesday's assembly. He is a man well worth hearing.

CLUBS AND FRATS CHOOSE THEIR REPRESENTATIVES

Most of the frats have elected their captains and managers and will begin active practice as soon as places can be found to locate diamonds. The Varsity diamond can be used when the Varsity squad is not on it, but it is entirely inadequate, as on there will likely be twelve teams besides the Varsity squad.

An effort will be made to find some vacant lots to turn into diamonds, and there may be some practice games pulled off before the regular schedule begins.

The following men have been elected as captains and managers by the different fraternities: Delta Sigma, Gabriel captain, G. Thomas manager; Kappa Sigma, Mores manager; Acacia, Brownell captain, Gillis manager; Avava, Dobie captain, Dobie manager; Sigma Nu, Chandler captain, Stewart manager; Beaver, A. T. O. White manager; Beta Theta Pi, Ogden manager; Dorm, Luckey captain, Houston manager; Sigma Chi, Homer manager; Tawah, Odell manager.

SOTYA DEVA, EX-'09, IS STUDENT AND WALKER

Satya Deva, ex-'09, the Hindu student who made many friends at Oregon several years ago, has just reached New York after walking across the continent, a trip which required nine months of steady travel. He left Seattle last June after completing his college course at the University of Washington.

Deva is now awaiting a favorable opportunity to go to his home and assist his people in overthrowing the English yoke, a cause to which he is passionately devoted. He evidently believes that the Brahmins can successfully compete with the Christians as bidders for divine favor, for he writes that he is depending on the God who has helped him through life to show him a way to liberate his people.

While at Washington, Deva wrote an article on American girls, which he based on the characters of several well known Oregon co-eds. He also writes for several Hindu journals in Chicago and Calcutta, and his recent trip was for the purpose of observing the American people and their conditions at first hand, in order that he might give a written account of them to his own people.

NU CHAPTER OF MU PHI EPSILON NOW INSTALLED

The Nu chapter of the musical sorority, Mu Phi Epsilon, was installed last Saturday, making the fifth national sorority in the University of Oregon. After the installation ceremonies, which were conducted by Miss Josephine Langton, of Detroit, Michigan, a delectable banquet was served at the Hotel Osburn for the sorority and its patronesses.

The Mu Phi Epsilon is at present the only exclusively musical sorority in the United States, and numbers among its honorary members many famous artists, such as Ernestine Schumann-Heinke, Louise Horner, Leonora Jackson, Germaine Schmitzer and Alice Nelson. The Nu chapter is the thirteenth and last chapter installed. Its honorary members of the chapter are Mrs. Douglas and Mrs. Pipes, and the patronesses Mrs. P. L. Campbell, Mrs. I. M. Glen and Mrs. A. C. Dixon.

SHOOT, IF YOU MUST, THIS OLD GREY HEAD

O. A. C., Mar. 2.—"Barbara Fritchie," a beautiful drama of the war of the rebellion, has been chosen by the Seniors at Oregon Agricultural College for presentation Commencement week, under the expert supervision of Mrs. H. B. Carter, of Seattle. The cast of characters is soon to be selected from the best of the dramatic talent in the graduating class, and work on the parts will begin immediately after.

Miss Olive Risley, of Milwaukee, is spending the week end with her sister at the Tri Delta house.

MEET AGAIN POSTPONED UNTIL EVENING OF 14TH

After several postponements, the date of the indoor meet has been definitely set for Tuesday evening, March 14th, at 8:00 o'clock, and will be pulled off according to schedule. The indoor meet was arranged on account of the failure of a cross country race to materialize, and because there is little probability of any post season basketball games. Boxing and wrestling will be a feature and class bouts are to be shown. The entries are not all in yet, but the books will close Saturday noon and the Emerald will run the list in Saturday's issue.

The seat sale will open Friday afternoon. Reserved seats will be on sale at Linn's Drug Store. The prices have been reduced to 25 and 35 cents.

This meet will afford the first chance to see Oregon's new track material in action, and will also give the University enthusiasts an opportunity of seeing the much touted boxers and wrestlers.

The events for the meet are:
 30-yard run.
 30-yard high hurdles.
 100-yard run.
 300-yard run.
 600-yard run.
 1000-yard run.
 2800-yard run.
 Wrestling—
 Light weight, 135 pounds and under.
 Welter weight, 145 pounds.
 Middle weight, 158 pounds.
 Light heavy, 170 pounds.
 Heavy, 170 pounds and over.
 High jump.
 Broad jump.
 Spring board jumps.
 High dive.
 16-lb. shot put.
 Pole vault.
