WOMEN WILL ATTEMPT YELLOWEST JOURNALISM

Special Number of Emerald
Subverted into Sporting
Sheet

Only two weeks now remain until the much heralded and longed-for co-ed issue of the Emerald will greet its readers. The final details of makeup and matter were not decided upon until yesterday when a conference of the staff and ways and means committee was held.

Today it is only announced that a paper of about twenty pages may be looked for, with an appropriate cover design and a special sporting section.

Tomorrow Miss Waterman, the enterprising manager, and her able assistant, Miss Erma Clifford begin the campaign for ads, the number of which will determine the size of the issue.

Birdie Wise and Corin Dage are respectively editor-in-chief and assistant editor.

Engineers Meet Friday Night

The Engineering Club will hold its regular meeting Friday evening, March 17, at 8:00 o'clock, in Professor Sweetser's room in Deady Hall.

The program consists of a short address by J. L. Johnson on stream measurements, and a talk by Edward J. Himes on superstructure construction of the Hawthorne Avenue Bridge in Portland.

The honor system is under consideration at the University of Wisconsin. If adopted, it will apply only to classes in which upper classmen are in the majority.

CO-ED DEBATE TEAM TO NOT CHANGE PERSONNEL

Miss Clark, Miss Degermark and Miss Wise Win
Out

Lilah Clark, '11, Carin Degermark, '13, and Birdie Wise, '12, were chosen last night to represent Oregon in the co-ed debate with the University of Washington, which will occur here in May. Alice Stoddard was chosen alternate.

The judges, Dr. Barnett, Professor Buchen and Mr. Kempthorne, were forced to deliberate twenty-five minutes before announcing their decisions, so well was the subject matter handled by all the contestants.

Miss Lilah Clark, of Portland, who secured the highest rating, is one of the University women majoring in Economics, and is active in the work of the Y. W. C. A. and the Eutaxian Literary Society.

Miss Carin Degermark, of Portland, was a member of last year's team. She is a Eutaxian and a moving spirit in the Owl Club.

The third person to qualify at last night's tryout was the leader of last year's team, Miss Birdie Wise, of Astoria. She is prominent in co-ed forensics and literary lines, being editor of the soon-to-appear co-ed Emerald and a member of the staff of the Oregon Monthly. She is also President of the Eutaxian Society.

Miss Alice Stoddard, chosen as alternate, is also prominent in the Eutaxian Society and in the Y. W. C. A.

Professor Buchen will coach the team, and with the added experience of last year, expects his charges to wrest victory from the Washington women.

JUNIORS MAY PRODUCE EXTRAVAGANZA IN JUNE

Dave McDaniel, President of the Junior class has written Fred Carlyle, operatic coach at the Universities of California and Nevada, to come to Eugene and make his proposition of giving an extravaganza this spring directly to the Junior class. Members of the class have considered the proposition of producing an extravaganza for some time, but it was not until Mr. Carlyle came forward with his proposition that the idea took definite shape. It is understood that the plot he offers to coach and furnish costumes for requires a cast of over sixty people.

President McDaniel said this afternoon that he did not consider that the class would have time to prepare for an elaborate production this spring; that the week end preparations would be enough to keep the class busy. He added, however, that it seemed feasible to arrange to produce it in the fall, if Mr. Carlyle's offer comes up to what he claims for it, and has actually been, as he says, successfully produced at California.
