MUSICIANS NUMBER OF OREGON MONTHLY IS OUT

March Issue of Literary Magazine Replete With Things Harmonic

Dean Collins' March Monthly is off the press today, and judging from the style, material and make up, this number will maintain the excellent standard set by all the previous issues this year. The March Monthly is devoted to the University realm of music and is dedicated to Professor I. M. Glen. Professor Glen's picture appears on the frontispiece, and he is designated "Patron Saint of Music in the U. of O." "An Appreciation," by Alma Noon, '13, is cleverly written. An unknown writer contributes "The Work of the Glee Club," Vernon Vawter, '13, writes on "The First Night Out," Hangen, '14, on the "University Mandolin Club," "The Organization of the School of Music" by N. M. Jean Allison, "The Girls' Glee Club." Burns Powell tells why the University should have a band. "Oregon Songs," by Carine Degermark, is interesting. "The Mu Phi Epsilon Sorority" is explained by Lilah Prosser. Francis O. writes on the "Senior Sing." In the literary department are contributions by Ethel Evans, Dan Mitchell, Fen Waite, and Dean Collins.

SALEM STUDENTS MEET AND FORM SALEM CLUB

A number of Varsity students registered from Salem met at the Kappa Sigma house last night and formed an association of Salem students.

Will Mott, '11, was elected president, and Wallace Benson, '14, secretary. A committee was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws and will report at the next meeting, which will be held Tuesday, March 28, at the Kappa house.

The purpose of the organization will not be social, but the club will endeavor primarily to boost the University with the prospective college students in Salem and will also endeavor to keep the "preppers" informed of and in touch with Varsity affairs.

Between twenty and thirty Salem students are now registered in the University and if concerted action can be obtained much good can be accomplished for the University.

It was decided last night that all Salem students would be eligible regardless of whether or not they were graduates of Salem High School, and that a special effort would be made to enlist the interest of the eligible co-eds.

IS THE BIBLE ADEQUATE FOR NEEDS OF RACE?

Dr. F. N. Geselbracht, of Albany, will give the fifth address of the series of talks on the Bible, on Friday evening at seven, in Deady Hall. Dr. Geselbracht will speak on the subject, "Is the Religion of the Bible Adequate to Meet the Needs of the Race?"

A number of the men of the University have heard Dr. Geselbracht speak, and say that they consider him equal, as an original thinker, to Dr. Hinson, who spoke a couple of weeks ago. He is thoroughly acquainted with student problems and the student attitude toward religion, and knows how to adapt himself to his audience.

One of the features of this meeting will be the annual election of officers. Nominations have already been made by the committee.

SENIORS ALREADY SEND FOR CLAS EMBLEMS

Whether or not the annual Senior play will be given this spring depends upon the finding of a suitable play. Professor Glen and a committee of the class have considered a number of plays, but none yet examined have answered the requirements, so nothing has been definitely decided upon.

In case a suitable play is found, it will be put on some time before Junior Week End.
