Long May She Wave.

The Underclass mix fills a long felt want at Oregon. Ever since hazing was abolished, class and school spirit have suffered during the first part of the year. One's interest has been largely in his own fraternity or club, a narrow interest at best, and it has not been until the great football game with O. A. C., or, with the University of Washington, that our students have arisen as one body and cheered for Oregon.

This year, thanks largely to the celebration, we are united into a student body earlier than we have been for three years. Freshmen stand together not as fraternity men, but as Freshmen, enemies of the Sophomores. Sophomores with one voice proclaim the superiority of their class over the Freshmen, and, are ready, if necessary, to prove superiority over all classes. Juniors, who managed the Mix, are proud of their accomplishment and the aristocratic class of 1912, ripe in wisdom and in honors, looks down upon it all—pleased. Fraternity obligations have been smothered under the obligations to the class, and to the University. The ball team left this noon for Pullman, backed by the cheers of more real Oregon students than ever before have backed an Oregon team at this time of the year.

Our question, "What is the matter with Oregon," raised at the first of the year, has been answered. Oregon is all right this year, and the Underclass Mix is, in a large measure, responsible for the answer. "Long May She Wave!"

Another Championship Lost.

Willamette will hardly dare to claim the championship of Oregon this year in football, as she did last year, basing her claim on comparative scores, and refusing to play the only team that stood between her and the undisputed honor, namely Oregon. Saturday's defeat in Portland was decisive. The Multnomah team was not caught napping this year. The defeat of last year was avenged.

It was interesting to read the Multnomah manager's statement in Thursday's Oregonian to the effect that Multnomah would not be caught with a second team this year, as she was last year, when Willamette came down to play. Willamette's claim to the championship was based largely upon her having won over a Multnomah first team.

THE SAGE OF PODUNK MAKES A FEW REMARKS

If a man says that he has never bought a gold brick, you better look out, probably he sells them.

When a man comes home Saturday night full of "bug-juice," he is generally a "bed-bug" Sunday morning, possibly a "baseball bug" in the afternoon.

Sometimes the groom drives a team, but more often he is driven single.

People who live in glass houses ought to look out for the camera man.

No sportsman will shoot "pea-pool" during the closed season.

Wild oats are generally so scattered that they won't even make breakfast food in after life

LOCALS AND PERSONALS

Nellie Hemenway is spending a few days at Cottage Grove.
 Grace Cole is visiting the Chi Omega House for a week.
 Jessup Strang has been at home in Salem on account of sickness.

Ted Holmes has returned to Portland after a week's visit here.
 Minnie Jackson will spend the week end at the Lambda Rho House.

Mrs. Fulton has been visiting her daughter Madge for the past week.
 Mr. Shipard and Miss Constance Woodard have been guests at the Chi Omega house for the past week.

Marie Zimmerman will be a guest at the Gamma Phi House this week.
 Lingenfelter has started a dancing school for the education of the frosh.

Margaret Gray has returned to Seattle, after a brief stay at the Theta House.
 The Tri Delta celebrated their anniversary, Oct. 21st, with a dinner at the Osburn.

Mr. Kirk, of Salem, spent a day or so at the Alpha Tau Omega House the first of the week.
 The Beta Theta Pis gave their annual party in honor of the freshman girls last Friday evening.

Mrs. Kendall left Monday for Portland, after a week's visit at the Gamma Phi House.
 The Emerald still has room within its coat for students with journalistic ambitions. Are you such a one? If so, see the editor.

Mrs. Shepherd, Mrs. Woodward and Constance Woodward motored from Portland to Eugene last week end and were guests at the Chi Omega House.
 Tom Burke and Arthur Geary went to Pullman with the football team this noon. Tom will visit his mother while at Pullman, whom he has not seen for a number of years.

DRESSMAKING AND REMODLING—Party gowns a specialty. Prices reasonable. MISS MOORE, 22 W. Eighth St.

TAKEN from Library on Monday morning, a leather covered, loose-leaf notebook, containing economics and chemistry notes. Please return to Library cloak room, or phone 816, and it will be called for.

ALL STUDENTS, desiring work, should list their names at Book Exchange.

WANTED—At Library, first issue of last year's Emerald, Sept. 23, 1910. Anyone having a copy of the Emerald for this date, will confer a favor by leaving the same at the library desk.

FROM THE BLEACHERS

Elmer Hall will be given a real try-out in his first game as a varsity regular when he locks horns with Laird, the Pullman giant. If Hall shows the class he did in the game with the soldiers, the W. S. C. star will know he has played ball.
 Owing to faculty objection Kaiser was left at home. With Capt. Main in his present condition the loss of the Alameda blonde will be severely felt in the backfield. Main is scheduled to go in on the first lineup, but it is doubtful if Bill will last a full game.
 On Saturday we will find out whether or not Fenton will be a rival for Warren Grimm of U. of W. on the receiving end of long passes.
 "Brick" Michael is back in college, but is ineligible to play on account of the twenty-one day rule in registering. "Brick" and Jamie on the ends would mean a lot to the Varsity, as they are both defensive ends of high calibre, and can handle forward passes.
 Maurice Terpening, of last year's Freshman team, has again appeared in a padded suit and promises to bolster up the second team line.
 Parsons, the prep school star, though a few pounds under weight, has called for a suit and will tread the lines on Kincaid for the rest of the season.

Friday evening the Gamma Delta Gammas will give a country dance.
