

IMPORTANT STUDENT MEETING HELD TODAY

Speakers Discuss Game and Amendments to Constitution Are Considered.

An important Student Body meeting was held in the assembly hall at ten o'clock this morning, in which amendments to the constitution were considered and speeches concerning Saturday's game were made by faculty and student orators. Busher Brown detailed the plans for the rally tomorrow night and the parade in Portland Saturday. President Campbell followed him with a short but pointed talk on Inter- and Intra-Collegiate sports. Capt. Main spoke about the team and Ralph Moores gave a spirited talk concerning the importance of this game. Under the direction of Burns Powell the "Oregon Hoast" was sung and several yells were given.

Three amendments to the constitution of the Associated Student Body were brought up for consideration as follows:

To Article X, Section 5: Insert after the figures "$1,000," the words, "within fifteen days after his election."

To Article I, Section 3: Amend section three to read as follows: "The dues of $5.00 per capita shall be placed in a general fund to be drawn upon for use in Student Body enterprises, except that 3 per cent of the whole shall go to the Treasurer of the Associated Students and 15 per cent to the support of the Student Body publications."

Amendment to Rules of Athletic Council, Article 6, Section 3, insert word "Graduate" before "Manager," and strike out sentence beginning, "Manager shall have no right to."

These amendments were all three accepted by a considerable majority.

BEN CHANDLER
"We have the advantage on them as far as weight goes, but the outcome is uncertain. It will be anybody's game until the final score."

VIRGIL NOLAND
"Really, I'm not capable of judging as to the game's outcome. Will show that Washington bunch a good fight anyway."

"Dante's Inferno" Here.
The students of the University will be interested to learn that motion pictures of Dante's "Inferno" will be shown at the Eugene Theatre for a three day's run. This picture is not only interesting as a motion picture, but is of great educational value.

In taking this picture whole mountains, rivers, and lakes were used as a scenic background, and the story is graphically told in over five thousand feet of sensational pictures. The basis upon which the producers worked was Dore's "Illustrations of Dante's Divine Comedy." The story of the film is Dante's trip through the Inferno, and shows how his imagination pictured the punishment for the different sins.

The first time this picture was shown in San Francisco, it enjoyed crowded houses for three solid weeks. It will be shown at the Eugene Theatre for three days, commencing tomorrow, November 13, with matinees daily.

OREGON'S TEAM WILL BOARD TRAIN FRIDAY

Practically the whole squad will go to Portland on Friday morning and will be quartered at the Imperial Hotel, which is to be the headquarters for the Oregon supporters.

Latourette and Brad, the principal members of the hospital corps, are on the mend, and with the field general and the best bet among the ends in shape for the first lineup, the chances of the team looks better. Thursday and Friday the team will indulge only in light signal practice in order to be on edge for the referees whistle on Saturday. Nothing definite can be learned of the personal of the first lineup from the coaches.

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM THE COLLEGES

The men of Cauthorn Hall, the met's dormitory at the Oregon Agricultural College, have organized a brass band.

Football has been discontinued at the Montana Agricultural College for the rest of the season, on recommendation of the faculty. The action followed the death of Charles Lange, due to injuries received in a recent game.

Washington State College is to have a new athletic field which is to be constructed before the close of the present school year. The new field will be laid out just west of the present field, and will contain a football and baseball field as well as a track oval. Together with the old athletic field, this will give W. S. C. the finest athletic field equipment in the west, providing for two baseball diamonds, two gridirons, two track ovals, as well as tennis courts. A system of drainage will be instituted in both fields, making them reasonably dry under all conditions of weather.

At the expiration of his term of office, on December 1st, Graduate Manager John Jones of the Washington State College will leave the student treasury at that institution in better condition than ever in its history. Manager Jones will turn his attention to other lines at the close of his managership, and the authorities are looking for another man to take his place. Among those who have applied for the position are Ralph M. Rader, fullback on the 1907 team, and such athletic stars as Laird, Nelson, Patton and Putnam. It is also rumored that John Bender, coach of the 1907 team, is willing to both coach football and manage student activities for the Pullman institution.

In the two games played this year the Washington State management has realized a surplus of $1,200. Two hundred dollars was made off of the Oregon game, while a net surplus of $960 was gathered from the Idaho contest. That the graduate manager system pays is now fully established at the Washington institution.

Bogle, of the University of Michigan eleven, kicked a placement goal from the sixty yard line in the recent game with Ohio State University.

Felix E. Moore, 1907, is now principal of Ashland's new High School.

Marvin Scarbrough, '02, is now Assistant in Surgery at Yale University.

Edward S. Van Dyke, '01, is Assistant District Attorney for Southern Oregon.

Harold E. Bates, '10, is Assistant Instructor in Zoology at the University of Oregon.

Harry O. Paddock, '07, is Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue at Portland.

Walter L. Whittlesey, '01, is now connected with the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. of New York City.

JUNIORS WILL INVEST IN GLASSY HEADGEAR

Men of '13 Will Sport the Latest Thing In Class Regalia.

When the men of the Junior class of the University of Oregon appear on the campus topped with the latest sensation in junior plugs, they will inaugurate a brand new custom to be added to Oregon's stock of traditions.

In the greatest secrecy did the enterprising sensationalists solicit funds from the junior masculine element for their distinctive headgear and the affair has been kept under cover until recently.

The magnitude of the sensation is still a matter of conjecture, nor is it exactly known what the action of the other classes will be. The reticent juniors have failed to reveal the occasion upon which their new regalia will be worn or how long they expect to wear them.

The cost of the new plug is one dollar and twenty-five cents, and to a man almost they were ordered. Those active in the movement wish to state that they are not in any way working in opposition to the Eugene merchants, but they considered that the sight of their new plugs displayed in show windows would arouse too much envy among the other classes and consequently they were ordered through a San Francisco house.

The same famous hatters that supplied President Taft with a hat when his was blown off in crossing San Francisco bay, will furnish the headgear for our progressive Juniors.

BILL MAIN
"We'll go up against the toughest team and one of the wildest coaches in the Northwest, Saturday. Our team will go in to win and we'll give Washington all that's in us."

ED BAILEY
"I think the turn of the score depends largely on the weather. If present weather conditions hold I think our team will win by its weight."

CARL FENTON
"You can't bet on comparative scores; nothing but the hardest kind of fighting will save the game for us on the 18th."

ROBERT BRADSHAW
"The team has been working mighty hard and as a team has improved greatly since the Whit game. It will be a hard fight."

BOB FARISS
"The team will have to fight its best for even a chance to win. It won't be a Christmas present whoever wins."

1912 CLASS WILL PUT ON EIGHTEENTH CENTURY PLAY

The committee on the Senior Play, which is composed of Ralph Moores, Burns Powell, and Jean Allison, has conferred with Prof. Reddie and Prof. Howe and have come to the conclusion that an eighteenth century play will be the logical production to be staged by the 1912 class. The method followed will be to select several plays such as the "School for Scandal," or "She Stoops to Conquer," and submit them to the class in the near future, thus leaving the final selection to the class. For the last few weeks the committee has been examining different plays with a view toward their adaptability, and it has also been trying to get in touch with Donald Bowles in order to obtain any suggestion which he might give. The selection of the caste has been left to a committee of instructors. It is intended to select a play with as large a caste as possible, so that all the latent talent of the class will be drawn upon and the interest thereby greatly increased.

Manager Jones, of Washington State College, will attempt to play next year's Oregon-W. S. C. game at Portland.

OREGON STOCK IS HIGH IN PORTLAND

Graduate Manager Geary Says Crowd at Game Will Be Record-breaker.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 15.—(Special to the Emerald.)—Portland will support the Oregon team in the championship struggle Saturday. Oregon stock is going up and a great many predict a victory for the home team.

Nearly one-half of the reserved seats have already been sold, and prospects are good for a $10,000 crowd. Every man, woman and child in the city is developing an intense interest in the game, which is expected to surpass in every way, any previous encounter ever pulled off in the Northwest.

The game is expected to bring out a wonderful demonstration of Oregon Spirit. The Law, Medical, Dental and High School students, together with the Multnomah Club members, are preparing to support Oregon and root lustily for the wearers of the lemon-yellow.

A union smoker has been called by the medical and law students for Friday evening in the Selling-Hirsch building and every Oregon student in the city will attend, through a special invitation.

Victor Zednick, the Washington graduate manager, arrived in Portland this morning, and predicts a 12 to 0 victory for the Northern school. He has not yet come to terms with Manager Johns of Oregon—as to the officials for the game.—By Arthur M. Geary.

LOUIS PINKHAM
"There will be about an even break for the victory, but I think, personally, that Oregon will have the large end of the score. Our line has always been a stone wall and ends have improved so greatly in the last two weeks, that the Washington backs will make little yardage around them."

DEAN WALKER
"I don't want to say much about the game, except that I'll be mighty glad to get a chance at Washington."

ELMER HALL
"I think we have a little the advantage on Washington; they'll know they've played, when they get through with us, anyway."

BOB KELLOGG
"Hard to tell how the game will wind up. Will do our best."

JOE JONES
"I know very little of Washington's team aside from Dobie's report, but I think it will be an even break."
