

OREGON MAY ADOPT GRADUATE COACHING FOR ENSUING YEARS

CHANGE OF SYSTEM IN FOOTBALL INSTRUCTION AT OREGON NEEDED

PROMINENT ALUMNI IN FAVOR OF PLAN

Pat McArthur Heads List of Those Who Would Give New Scheme a Tryout.

Now that the football season has been laid to rest and the last solemn requiem has been chanted over the remains, Busher Brown's official mourners have turned their attention to less strenuous issues, among which the selection of a coach for the 1912 season looms up as most prominent.

The sentiment here in favor of giving the graduate coach system a trial at Oregon, which has been steadily gaining ground about the campus, came to the front in an article in last Sunday's Oregonian. This article reviewed the history of football at Oregon and gave the arguments in favor of the graduate coach system, and a long list of gridiron stars, who have helped make Oregon famous, and who are eligible for the coaching staff.

A rumor, however, that has served to upset the movement and leave matters in a more or less pendant state is that Hugo Bezdek, one of the most successful coaches Oregon has had, and who has just finished the season as tutor for the University of Arkansas squad, is ready and anxious to return to Oregon in his former role. The general sentiment of students and alumni is, however, that unless a man of exceptional and established ability, like Bezdek, can be secured, the graduate system should be introduced.

The committee which will decide the question, will be composed of the captain and manager of the team, one member of the faculty, and a fourth man from the athletic council, to be appointed by President Campbell.

"Pat" McArthur, who has been called "the father of football at Oregon," former football manager, and selector of all-Northwest teams, is perhaps the most active champion of the proposed system. He is sending two articles on the subject to the Emerald, the first of which is published in this issue.

Dave Graham, of Eugene, former football manager, prominent alumnus and instructor, said yesterday: "I am strongly in favor of the graduate system eventually, if not at once. At first it might be advisable to employ an Eastern man familiar with late football, to work with the alumni and under them. Oregon has developed as good football material as any institution, and these men know the conditions and have the welfare of Oregon most closely at heart."

"Sap" Latourette, Oregon's star quarterback for the past four years, and a member of the Athletic Council, said: "I am in favor of the graduate system because it will be a staple system. What reverses we have suffered in football, have been largely due to frequent changes in coaches."

Homer Jamison, prominent in varsity athletics, expressed himself rather favorably on the subject. He says, "The possibility of obtaining a first class Eastern coach is not to be considered, as we are not sufficiently well fixed financially to compete with the larger colleges. The graduate coaching plan may prove the solution to Oregon's football problem."

Y. M. DELEGATES TO GATHER AT BIG SALEM CONVENTION

The 12th Annual Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of Oregon and Idaho will be held from Friday to Saturday of this week in Salem. This convention will include all of the Y. M. C. SOPHS' PLANS COMPLETE Unique Features Exceeded Music and Good Time Promised for Hop Saturday.

Arrangements for the Sophomore dance are now completed and from all reports it promises to be a successful affair. Little definite news has been given out, but if all goes well, this dance will be unique in every feature.

The class numerals outlined in electric lights will decorate one end of the hall, while around the balcony will be hung skins of the different fraternities.

The refreshment committee reports that there will be no "eats," but plenty to drink. They purpose to have punch served in the wrestling room, as well as the regular room, so that there will be no difficulty in serving.

The orchestra will be a large one, and all the latest music will be played.

The patronesses are Mrs. Kehr, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Bovard, Mrs. Doris, Mrs. Rader, and Mrs. Pennell.

Fraternity Expansion.

A leading National Legal Fraternity is considering the installation of chapters in law departments of leading colleges of this state.

Students or local societies, who would consider affiliating with a National Legal Fraternity, are advised to communicate with Supreme Clerk, W. H. Thomas, Riverside Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

GLEE CLUB TO MAKE DEBUT MONDAY NIGHT AT EUGENE THEATRE

WILL PRESENT PROGRAM SAID TO EXCELL ALL PREVIOUS EFFORTS

PRESCOTT SAYS SKETCH IS BEST YET

David Campbell, Kenneth Frazer, Harry Ding, and Burns Powell, Are Soloists.

The Glee Club, which will make its debut next Monday night, December 11, 1911, at the Eugene Theatre, is the first Oregon Glee Club not directed by Prof. Glen. Unusual interest is being attached to the club this year on account of the changed directorship and predictions as to its success are being heard everywhere.

The club men, however, are unanimous in declaring that their club is entirely up to the standard of any previous club and that the program is the best ever.

This club is fortunate in having as one of its soloists David Campbell, pianist, who scored so well in a recent recital. Other soloists are Kenneth Frazer, the little man with the big voice, who will sing in his native tongue, Harry Ding, the Chinese student, who will sing songs in his native tongue, and Burns Powell, who will execute a triple tongued solo on his trombone.

The program is well stocked with sketches and stunts—Norton Cowden in "Made for a Night," appears as a beautiful young lady, and with great success; "Birds of a Feather," is a sketch of college, giving Melvin Ogden, Vernon Vawter and Burns Powell a chance to delineate fun and music; and "Mr. Crane Visits Oregon," the jewel of the program, is pronounced by Bert Prescott, who has heard the club concerts for the past ten years, and who inspected the club last night, to be the best ensemble sketch ever put out by an Oregon club.

The following is the program:

- Two Oregon Songs—"Oh, Oregon" (Glen), "Days at Oregon" (Nelson) Glee Club.
- Baritone Solo—"On the Road to Mandalay"
- "Maid for a Night," a ten minute farce, in which are introduced: George Norton Cowden

CLASSES WILL ADOPT PLAN OF REGULAR ASSEMBLY

A new plan for assemblies has been originated whereby each class can hold individual assemblies. A certain date or number of dates is to be selected, on which the classes shall meet with their advisers to discuss individual class matters. The purpose of this plan is to instill more spirit and union within the separate classes. These assemblies, however, will not interfere with the regular annual class assemblies. It is hoped, this new plan will do away with a lot of meetings of minor importance and will in course of time prove to be a very beneficial method of class meeting.

The places of meeting will be Seniors, Prof. Dunn's room, Juniors, chemical lecture room, Sophomores, ladies' gym, and the Freshman, as they have the largest class, have been allotted the auditorium.

BASKET BALL IS SLOW

Clubs and Sororities Showing But Little Interest in Developing Teams

So far very little interest has been shown by the girls in the basket-ball series which are scheduled to begin shortly. The Oregon Club, Beth Rhea and Gamma Delta Gamma sororities alone have teams practicing for the games, to be played for the Hayward cup which was won last year by Gamma Delta Gamma and which is to become the permanent property of the team winning it two successive seasons.

The inter-class series will also be played. The Sophomores and Freshmen are already at work and things look as if the Juniors and Seniors will soon start practice.

Miss Thompson, Dr. Stuart's assistant, who played for several years at Ann Arbor, will have charge of the games and practice and will coach the teams.

Dr. Stuart will call a meeting in a few days to arrange the schedules and is anxious that the girls show an increased interest in the games.

MAIN AND BAILEY OF OREGON GIVEN PLACE ALL-NORTHWEST TEAM

GEO. VARNELL, OF SPOKANE CHRONICLE, PICKS OFFICIAL HONOR TEAM

KELLOGG LOSES CENTER TO HARTER

Latourette Loses to Coyle Because of Injuries and Series of Bad Luck

Geo. Varnell, of the Spokane Chronicle, who is regarded as the leading football authority of the Northwest, uttered the final word on All-Northwest football selections when his lineup of stars appeared in last Sunday's paper. There was considerable disappointment on the campus over his selection of Harter, of W. S. C., over Bob Kellogg for center, but the Spokane man picks the official all-star team, so the lineups selected by Roscoe Fawcett and others must pass into the discard. The team selected by Varnell lines up as follows:

Ends, W. Grimm and Sutton, Washington; tackles, Laird, W. S. C., and Bliss, Washington; guards, Bailey, Oregon, and G. Harter, W. S. C.; center, J. Harter, W. S. C.; quarter, Coyle, Washington; halves, Muckelstone, Washington, and Main, Oregon; and fullback, Niles, Whitman.

Every selection so far has included Coyle, Main, Muckelstone, and Niles for the backfield. The different theoretical lines, however, differ widely. The conference forwards this year were average without any Pinkhams, Moulens, Polly Grimms or Eakins to scintillate and catch the critics' eye with their spectacular work, hence the varying selections. The only ruling factor in the line selections seemed to be weight and the guard and tackle positions look as if they were awarded on beef alone with a fine disregard for the much talked of speed, etc., required in the polite football of today. If this is the case, however, Ed Bailey's two hundred and thirty pounds of beef has dazzled the dopsters into giving Oregon an unanimous choice for a line position.

Kellogg's position at center was the hardest to fill for any man in the Big Six on account of the direct pass tried out this year at Oregon and the credible way that Kellogg executed his end of the innovation gives the Oregon "stude" a feeling that the Baker City boy deserves the place on Varnell's team.

The choice of Warren Grimm, the big Washington end, who performed so brilliantly in the three seasons previous, was somewhat of a surprise. Grimm failed to play his usual brilliant game this year and was condemned by many when he failed to get away with every forward pass for a touchdown. He was on the receiving end of more completed forward passes than any other end of the year and made more yardage on this play, so he is at least entitled to consideration. Captain Mains place was secure from the start and "Bill's" work is too well known to chant an eulogy. Sap Latourette fell from grace with critics on account of injuries and the brilliant team behind Coyle.
