INTER-FRAT LEAGUE PUT UPON PERMANENT BASIS

Eleven Organizations Look With Favor Upon Continuing Athletic Relations.

With the exception of Beta Theta Pi, which was invited but failed to respond, all the fraternities and clubs were represented at the organization of the inter-fraternity league conference, which met Tuesday afternoon.

The aim of the council will be to place the interfraternity league contests upon a more general and substantial basis and to substitute for the special boards of management for each of the leagues, one general conference which shall possess larger powers and be better qualified to deal with the questions arising. It is also hoped that through such co-operation the fraternities and clubs may be brought into better understanding with each other.

The sense of the meeting was that each organization should be represented throughout the year by one permanent delegate in the council and that all business of the leagues should be administered by that body.
Sentiment also favored choosing the officers by rotation to avoid political dickerings.

Ralph Moores was chosen temporary chairman and a constitutional committee consisting of Ben Chandler, Ed Bailey, Tom Word, Will St.
Johns and Vernor Motschenbacher, was appointed to report Friday.

Are there any hustlers in college?
I have a good proposition to make to several men for spare time work. If you are interested, call and see me between 6:30 and 7:30 any evening this week at the Delta Sigma House.

BLUE AND GOLD TRACK PROSPECTS DOUBTFUL

Captain Expects to Build Strong Team With An Abbreviated Nucleus.

Although handicapped by the loss of six of his best track men, Captain Don Evans of the University of Washington track team feels confident that the northern institution can muster up a winning aggregation on the cinders this spring. Notwithstanding the fact that there are but two or three sure point winners in college at present, Captain Evans is looking to the new material to develop, and feels assured that the team this year will not fall far behind those of the last two seasons. In speaking of the prospects the Washington Captain said:

"While prospects are not rosy, neither are they gloomy, for with Ira Courtney, Herman Anderson, and myself and some good men who I hope will enter in February as a nucleus, we hope to have a fairly representative aggregation.

Those missing of last year's track men at Washington are: Gish, Bowman, Eakins, Brokaw, Pape, and Lange. To take their places there are: Don Evans, jump and javelin; Courtney, Ridgeway, Wright, sprints; Redman, distances; Anderson, Patten and Sherrick in the weights. Of the new material that's promising, Edmonds, in the weights, Abbott, quartermiler, and Earl Godbe, hurdler, are expected to develop form, while Ned Humes and J. McGillicuddy, of Broadway High, and Paul Clyde, the fast miler from Lincoln, are expected to enter next semester.

Coach D. C. Hall, however, is pessimistic and feels that the outlook is anything but promising. He says that nothing but hard work and good fortune will win for the Purple and Gold this spring.

The Washington track schedule includes two indoor meets with the Seattle Club and all comers; sometime during February. Following these the program embraces the coast conference meet at Berkeley, the dual meet with Oregon, May 16, and the Northwest conference meet at Portland on June 1.

TITLE OREGON BULLETIN

Prof. Young Writes Treatise On Subject Advocating State Cooperation.

"The Economics of Oregon's Good Roads Problem" is the title of the University of Oregon Bulletin for January, written by Prof. F. G.
Young, head of the department of Economics and Sociology.

This bulletin was written with a view of presenting to the communities and districts that are struggling with this question of good roads, a compact and concise treatise, setting forth the why and wherefore of suitable highways especially from the farmer's, or the economic view point. A special study is made of the failure of past and present policies in regard to road construction and maintenance, and in their stead a tentative plan for state cooperation in regard to construction, determination of cost and apportionment of funds is suggested.

After pointing out the necessary factors for any system of road improvement, as adequate plans and a just apportionment of the cost of construction, Prof. Young shows that good roads are Oregon's most pressing need, and this is so since the solution of the back-to-the-farm movement and improvement of rural conditions, lies with the construction of better means of transportation.

Touching the more fundamental economics of the problem, it is shown that the type of road, necessarily good, will be determined by the character and volume of traffic, which has to justify any initial high cost.

In conclusion it is noted that every locality has its special problems that it must work out for itself with expert technical service, especially since the automobile adds a new phase to actual road engineering, and that since the present county system has been found wanting, a state system of aid and administration is advisable, as the highways of a state should be considered an organic whole.

BASKETBALL TEAMS IN NORTHWEST ARE ALIVE

The first basketball game between colleges in the Northwest conference was played between Idaho and W. S.
C. on Saturday, January 13; the two inland-colleges mixed at Moscow, and the game was won by Washington State by a score of 31-5. Idaho, however, did not play her best game, and was extremely unlucky in shooting baskets. Both sides ran in a number of second team men and subs in the second half.

The second game of the series between the two institutions was played at Pullman, Saturday, January 20, and was also won by W. S. C.
