PROMINENT SENIOR TAKES EXCEPTION TO OFFICIAL ACT

Report that Lee Hurd, '09, Famous
Athlete, Ousted from Gym, Calls Criticism.

Not long since, Lee Hurd, '09, a former halfback and pitcher and ex-captain of the Varsity nine, was ousted from the gymnasium and prohibited the use of a shower. It is said this was done by order of the administration. What are we coming to when our memory for valiant service cannot last three years? Those of us now seniors remember when we were freshmen how Lee Hurd turned out at a sacrifice and helped Khaki Moulten's forlorn hope in football, and of his work in the immortal 1908 O. A. C. football game. His pitching won many a game for the Varsity, and in those days we were glad of an opportunity to line the sidelines and cheer Lee Hurd. Now he is denied the gym. Such meanness and ingratitude is a shame and a disgrace. It would indicate that the so-called college spirit is but servile sycophancy, a sort of maudlin sentiment, which froths over at the prospect of services to be rendered, and then casts off the alumnus like a squeezed lemon when we have nothing further to expect of him.

RALPH MOORES.

TROUBADOURS MAY MIX MATERIAL AND AESTHETIC

The "Troubadours," a well known Varsity musical organization, is reported to be engaged by Hi Lung, the proprietor of the Fifth Street musicians may dispense their particular brand of melody at the chop stick resort on special nights during the week.

Mr. Oglesby, an Eastern Beta man, was a guest at the Beta dance Saturday evening.

Evelyn Harding, who came to attend the Beta dance Saturday evening, has been a guest at both the Chi Omega and the Gamma Phi Beta houses.

Breezy Lowell, '11, has gone to Halfway to fill the position of associate editor on the Pine Valley Herald.

WHO'S WHO IN OREGON (Continued from first page.)

John W. Bean, brother of Judge Bean, as a practicing physician in Tacoma, is gradually bringing himself into prominence and stands out as one of the leaders in his profession. He received his medical education in Philadelphia, after having secured his B. A. from Oregon.

Alfred Coolidge, of the same class, is well known as a successful banker in Spokane and is very prominent in financial matters in Eastern Oregon.

A. F. McClaine is another banker of Spokane of wide-spread influence. At present he is President of the Trader's National Bank of that city, and is well known in all its business life. He is not only a prominent banker, but is also counted as an expert horticulturist. In the recent Annual Apple Show of his town, he held a very important position.

Edward P. Geary, who received his medical education at Jefferson Medical School, is very well known as a remarkable surgeon in Southern Oregon. At present he has an unusually large practice in Portland.

George Noland is another man who has attained unusual prominence in his line of work. He first practiced law in Astoria, where he gradually made his way to the top. Later he moved to Klamath Falls, and today is Circuit Judge of Klamath County.

Debaters Leave for Seattle.

On the noon train today, Oregon's negative debating team in the Triangular Debating League, consisting of Carlton, Spencer, Ralph Moores, and Coach Johnson, left for Seattle, where they will meet the Washington team Friday night. The same question will be discussed in Seattle as Stanford and Oregon will debate here Friday evening. The team will return Sunday morning.

William P. Adams, '97, is secretary-treasurer and manager of the Henry Fleckenstein Company, 108 Second street, Portland.

Jack Frost has no terrors for John F. Frost, '05, who is making a success of ranching near McMinnville, Ore.

J. O. Russell, '04, is Assistant Educational Director of the Sellwood branch of the Portland Y. M. C. A.

Mrs. Mary Kinsey Krause, '91, is a teacher of piano at her home, 831 Overton street, Portland.
