

TWO YEARS REQUIRED IN ONE DEPARTMENT

Faculty Decides Students Can Not Change Major After
Junior Year

The faculty meeting on Thursday passed a resolution prohibiting all changes of majors after the Junior year, except by a special petition. The reasoning upon which this action was based, is that, although a student may need two years in college to "find himself," and get into the work for which he is best fitted, he should work for at least two years in the subject he finally chooses as a major. If, in any special instances, this rule proves a hardship, it can be modified, for the individual in question, after proper consideration by the faculty.

Thesis Question Up.

The faculty also considered the matter of doing away with the senior theses. A motion was introduced to make it optional with the major professor whether or not a thesis should be required of a student. The idea behind this motion is that there are some students whose work is only preparatory to that which they will take up after leaving college. These, it is thought, can use their time to better advantage in broadening their education than in delving deeper into some detail of their major subject. Others whose purposes would be better suited to it can be required to work out a thesis.

An amendment was proposed to the proposition providing that graduation honors be awarded only to those who have written theses. It is the desire of some of the faculty to thus make the thesis not only a basis for graduation honors, but also for recommendation for scholarships or desirable positions for graduates.

The idea of the whole movement seems to be, not to abolish the theses, but to make them of more importance in the college work than the mere formality that they often are at present.

The whole matter was finally placed in the hands of a committee, which is to make a report at the next faculty meeting.

"ENGAGED" IS SELECTED FOR NEXT DRAMATIC CLUB PLAY

The play "Engaged," by W. T. Gilbert, is selected to be given by the Dramatic Club Thursday evening of Junior week-end. The play makes no pretensions to the classical, but is bright, clever and entertaining. Forrest Dunton says it is a farce, ridiculously funny from beginning to end. There are five exceptionally strong women's parts which will be taken by Alberta Campbell, Hazel Wightman, Fay Clark, Rachel Applegate, and Mildred Waite. The men selected are Ralph Moores, Alfred Skei, Chester Moores, Raphael Geisler, Roland Kennedy, Bob Kellogg, and Buford Jones.

Professor Reddie will coach the cast and it is expected to be a great success, as there is sufficient time, screaming lines and an excellent cast.

LINCOLN HIGH GRADS ACCEPT OWLS' CHALLENGE

We, the alumni of the Lincoln High School, accept the challenge of the Bird of Predatory Habits Club, alleged to be alumni of Washington High School. As the challenged, we reserve the form of entertainment given to winners. A skating party is satisfactory, providing it is NOT held at a skating rink. Any time or any place is satisfactory. A campus game, however, is preferred, so as to give the faculty the privilege of witnessing the carnage.
