

NEWS COURSES COVER AN EXTENSIVE RANGE

THREE DIVISIONS ARE MADE IN JOURNALISTIC WORK

Thorough Study of Nation's Great News Mediums Is Enjoyed by Students.

A variety of courses is being offered by the department of journalism in charge of Prof. Allen, formerly city editor of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. Prof. Allen has divided the work into three classes, with which he intends to cover the entire field of newspaper work, from that of newsgetting and reporting to the more advanced study of the principles and editorial policy of the modern newspaper.

The style and makeup of no particular newspaper will be followed, but all the largest and best known papers in the United States will be kept on file for the use of the reporters. Some of the papers to be found on the reference table are six New York papers; the Times, Post, Herald, World, Journal, and Tribune; the Boston Christian Science Monitor, Philadelphia North American, Chicago Tribune, Kansas City Star, St. Louis Globe-Democrat, San Francisco Call, San Francisco Chronicle, and all the Portland papers.

Course number one is intended for those who wish to learn the principles of news-getting and the correct manner of reporting news stories. In this class Prof. Allen outlines the facts of a news story and by taking the part of the different people connected with the case to be interviewed, answers all questions asked. After the members are satisfied that they have obtained all the desired information, they are requested to report the story. These efforts are compared with the actual story printed in the newspaper and by this manner of comparison it is hoped eventually to develop some star reporters. At present 44 students are enrolled in the course for beginners.

Course number two deals with the organizing and executive side of the newspaper game, as viewed from the position of city editor, and is intended for further advanced students.

Course number three is concerned with the editorial policy and principles of the modern American newspaper, and is only open to those students who have had some practical experience. At present there are only six members in each of the advanced courses.

Formal Opening

Jay McCormick, who recently bought Sid Smith's interest in the Club Billiard Parlor, is planning a formal opening for Wednesday of next week.

The festivities will start at 8 o'clock, and continue until a late hour.

College men especially are invited to attend this affair, which promises to be quite sumptuous, and also to make the club their down town headquarters.

Oregon Students Married.

Ford Hendricks, '14, and Minnie Pike, '15, were married last week in Eugene. Both Hendricks and Miss Pike are residents of Eugene, and attended the University last year. Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks left a few days after their marriage for Seattle, where they will pursue their studies at the University of Washington.

Geo. Frazier, ex-'15, is assisting Virgil Earle, '04, in coaching the Washington High School football team at Portland.

Edwin Stenberg, ex-'14, is visiting at the Dorm this week, before entering the University Medical School at Portland.

Ermel Miller returned to Portland Friday.

NEW DEAN SECURED

Carl V. Lachmund consents to Head Department of Music During Coming Year.

The College of Music has succeeded in securing the services of Carl V. Lachmund, who will act as dean of the department for the ensuing year. Mr. Lachmund has but recently returned from Europe, where he spent several years in study under Liszt and other famous masters. As his large classes in Portland will claim much of his attention, Mr. Lachmund will be unable to devote his entire time to the embryo Rubenstein of the varsity, but will be represented by Miss Benton, another recent addition to the teaching staff.

Another new instructor is Miss Winifred Forbes, who comes to the studio from Chicago, where she was lately a pupil of Adolph Weidig. Beside overseeing the work of the class in violin, Miss Forbes will take charge of a class in harmony, which will meet Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Pacific University now has a large squad of aspirants out for the football team. A number of last year's strongest players have returned to school. Dudley Clark, the former University of Oregon football star, has been engaged to coach the team.

Coach Stagg, of the University of Chicago football team, expects to turn out a winning eleven this year. The team in a hard scrimmage a few days ago, displayed remarkable early season form.

Whitman College football squad is hard at work under the tutelage of Archie Hahn. Most of last year's team will again be in service.

Verne Dresser, former star of the backfield, has returned to college and with such men as Niles, Bloomquist and Kinder, Whitman will have one of the fastest backfields in the Northwest.

First Sergeant Charles Reynolds, U. S. A., retired, formerly stationed at Vancouver, has been selected as assistant in the department of military science at O. A. C., to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of F. C. Darcy. Sergeant Reynolds is a Spanish-American war veteran, having served in Cuba and the Philippines.

The faculty of the College of Emporia have abolished the old Freshman-Sophomore flag rush and substituted a pillow fight and cracker contest.

Two members of the University of Washington football team were injured during practice a few days ago. The crippled ones are Wayne Sutton, who received a badly sprained ankle, and Frank Jacquot, fullback, who sustained a fractured rib.

Tom Griffiths, for three years guard on University of Washington championship teams, was elected captain of the eleven to fill the vacancy caused by the decision of fullback Sparger not to re-enter college this year.
