MISS LEACH RESIGNS VIVID POSTERS SCORE

FRESHMAN VERDANCY

Friend of Every Student Departs
After Fifteen Years of Continuous Service.

Miss Camille A. Leach, who has resigned her position as reference librarian, to take effect October 15, after fifteen years of continuous service, was honored by the University faculty Thursday afternoon, when they passed a resolution signifying their reluctance in her departure from the library force. The resolution, in part, says:

"The library, for these many years, has been like a home—Miss Leach, its kindly hostess. The books have been the students' friends, largely through the introduction given them by the patient mistress of the house."

"The faculty takes this formal manner of expressing its unstinted appreciation of Miss Leach's devoted, sympathetic services, and its cordial regret, that she is finding it essential, in her own desire, to leave a position which has seemed peculiarly and especially her own."

Miss Leach, during her long period of service in the library, has been, perhaps, the best known person in the University. She has known personally nearly every Oregon student, and has hundreds of friends throughout the state. When Miss Leach first took up her work in the University library, it occupied one small room in the president's house, and she has followed its development from that time to its present position in Johnson hall.

DOES MORE FOR YOUR MONEY THAN ANY SHOP IN TOWN

Nobody can do better repairing, or keep shoes cleaner, than I can. Most people are wise enough to know that money saved, is money earned. When you bring your repair work to me, you will realize the economy of the best. My prices are reasonable. I'll make your shoes last longer than the other fellow, and they will look better, too.

VIOLENT ADJECTIVES COMBINED WITH RED INK

Sophomore Moses, Identity Unknown,
Contributes Decalogue for Freshman Guidance.

Appearing opportunely on the eve of the annual Freshman acquaintance party the annual proclamations against the Freshmen appeared prominently about town, Friday at dawn.

By a liberal use of red ink and vivid adjectives, the authors of the document conveyed to the public their opinion of the 1916 aggregation. The posters are perhaps the most flaring ever seen at the University. They are larger than a newspaper page, and the type used is of the corpulent variety. Every available telephone pole, tree and fence in the vicinity of the campus was utilized in the display, but the distributors refrained from extending their activities to the campus.

The Freshmen are addressed as "belligerent, brainless, boneheaded boobs," "egotistical, effeminate, empty-headed evil-doers," "wayward, witless, weak-minded wretches," "atrocious, abominable, awkward asses," "repulsive, rookish, rustic roughnecks," and "eel-like, emaciated, elongated exiles," the first letters of these lines spelling the word "beware."

Following this salutation, a brief summary of the misdemeanors of the first year men is given, and the "Ten Commandments for Freshmen" are enumerated.

The responsibility for the proclamations is placed at the doors of various local literary celebrities, but, whatever class or classes were behind the undertaking, it is expected by the Sophomores, that the placards will have a wholesome effect in "keeping down" the 1916 bunch.

ABE BLACKMAN PICKED FOR YELL LEADER

The executive council of the University met this afternoon in Professor Straub's room in Villard hall and passed resolutions recommending the requisition system to the graduate manager and the treasurer of the student body, for use in student body finances.

Albert Tiffany was elected treasurer, and Abe Blackman was appointed yell leader for the 1912 year.

The first and second Saturday of each month were chosen as the councils' regular meeting time.
