

ACTORINES COMPETE

Dramatic Club to Make Diagnosis of the Historically Afflicted.

Conditions governing the Dramatic Club tryout, October 24, were announced at the meeting of the organization last Thursday evening. Instead of following the custom of allowing candidates to choose their own material for delivery, the tryout committee has selected passages from five standard plays—two light comedies and three Shakespearean dramas—of which the candidate is required to deliver one extract from each group. The selections include the dialogue between Mrs. Malaprop and Captain Absolute, in act three, scene three, "The Rivals"; the quarrel scene between Sir Peter and Lady Teazle, in act two, scene one, "The School for Scandal"; Portia's plea for mercy, from "The Merchant of Venice"; the speech of Claudius in act three, scene three, of "Hamlet"; and the "Seven Ages," soliloquy of Jaques, in act two, scene seven, "As You Like It."

This year there are eight vacancies to be filled by competitive tryout. As the modified constitution of the club limits the number of active members to twenty, and provides for ten associate members, the successful candidates will be placed upon the associate list. The constitution provides that active members be given preferences in assembling casts for club productions, and they alone may have control of executive matters.

Professor Reddie, of the Public Speaking Department, was re-elected coach for the coming season.

JOURNALISTS ENTHUSE

Professor Allen Entertains Visiting Newspaper Men, Who Promise to Aid Department.

Professor Allen, head of the Journalistic Department, placed letters on his windows Tuesday, in order to guide visiting newspaper men to his office. Professor Allen heard that several newspaper men were coming to Eugene with the Oregon Electric excursion, and took this opportunity to show what the University was doing in journalism. He also posted invitations to the newspaper men in the depot, the Commercial Club, and several other conspicuous places.

In the afternoon fifteen or twenty men came to his office, among whom were several of the big newspaper men of Portland, including Mr. Carroll of the Telegram.

The men spent the afternoon together, and Professor Allen explained fully to them what is being done along the line of journalism in the University.

Among the members of Professor Allen's personally conducted tour were J. L. Wallen, of the Portland Journal, S. L. Krantz and wife, of the Oregonian, John F. Carroll, managing editor of the Evening Telegram, Elbert Bede, of the Cottage Grove Sentinel, O. M. Plummer, of the Portland Live Stock Association, Lloyd W. McDowell, of the Publicity Department of the Spokane, Seattle and Portland railroad and the Oregon Electric.
