

STUDENTS TAKE LIVELY INTEREST IN GENERAL ELECTIONS ON TUESDAY

NEARLY ALL COLLEGE MEN VOTE AND MANY WORK AT POLLS

JOURNALISM CLASSES RECEIVE RETURNS

Students Assigned to News Offices—Professor Allen Says Work Is Satisfactory.

Much interest was shown by the students of the University in the election Tuesday. Practically all students of voting age took advantage of the opportunity to vote, and most of these voted early to avoid the rush later in the day.

A number of the more industrious seized the opportunity to increase their assets, and worked at the polls as clerks, judges, or deputies. Those who were not working, put in an early appearance that evening on the street by the Register and Guard offices, to catch the first returns that were announced from either office.

But while the rest of the students were using the evening to suit themselves, the men and a few of the women of the journalism classes worked all night on election returns for the local newspapers. Half of the students from the classes in journalism had been assigned to each local newspaper, the men in the advanced classes and the women to office and supervision work, and the men in first-year journalism, to take returns from the precincts at each hour of the night. Each man had one and some two or even three precincts to cover. A few of them had to tramp back and forth in the rain to carry the returns to the office. Those in the office tabulated the returns as they came to the office, and kept them added, that the totals might be used at any time.

Karl Onthank had charge of the precinct work for the Register, making the rounds of the precincts in an auto every hour, bringing the incomplete returns to the office.

Franklin Allen sent in returns from Springfield. Harold Young, Robert Fariss, Leland Hendricks, and Harry Cash held forth in the Register office.

The co-eds who braved the terrors of the night work, sacrificing sleep that they might learn how the election work was handled in a newspaper office, were also assigned to tabulating and keeping totals. These were Edna McKnight, Nellie Hemenway, Ethel Tooze, and Lora Taylor.

Those who worked for the Register at the precincts were Carlyle Geisler, Don Rice, Max Sommer, Clarence Brotherton, Roger Moe, Jessup Strang, Waldo Miller, Bert Jerard, Mundel Weiss, Charles Galloway, and Walter Kimmel. On the Guard were Thad Wentworth, Donald Onthank, Earl Blackaby, Tommy Boylen, Albert Crawford, Victor Burris, Harry Crain, Raymond Williams, Tom Donaca, and Clarence Ash.

The students who worked for the Guard were released at 12:30, but those on the Register were not freed until 3:30. The editors of both papers commended the work of the students and admitted they had been a great help.

At the 1 o'clock journalism class on Wednesday, Professor Allen said: "I was very much pleased with the work of the students last night, and the interest shown. They carried on the work in 'great style.'"

WALTER McCURE BREAKS CROSS COUNTRY RECORD

Since Walter R. McClure, distance runner and record breaker, has returned from his little trip across the Atlantic to Sweden, the various side issues involved, such as a week in New York, his friends at the University of Oregon in this Western country seem unbearably slow. After three weeks of arduous efforts to pull along a handful of wheezing, lagging, cross-country men around the cemetery course, he has finally given up and bought himself a healthy looking Ingersoll watch, and setting this to run fast, thus finding a running mate. He tried his new companion for the first time Monday night, and it sure did earn its money. After toying with his old friends halfway around the course, he thoughtfully wiped the rain out of the face of Mr. Ingersoll and set off by himself. The result was that he broke the record for the course made by himself when a Freshman. He came in in thirteen minutes and a half.

As usual, "Mac" is modest about it and says that he did not mean to break a record, but that his foot slipped and he just couldn't help it. But he didn't run fast, though. He wouldn't do that out of justice to those who were running with him, or rather those who started with him.

SENIORS OUT OF DEBT

Oregana Leaves Surplus of $147.41—Earnest Lamb Heads Play Committee.

The Senior class repealed their one dollar tax levy at their class meeting Wednesday, and all tax money that has been paid into the treasury will be returned to those holding receipts. The Seniors found their tax unnecessary because of the remarkable financial success of the Oregana. Manager Andrew Collier was unable at the time to give a detailed report of receipts and expenditures, but had at hand the final figures, which he submitted to the class. The total cost of the Oregana was $2,855, and the total receipts were $3,002.41, leaving a surplus of $147.41, $68.40 in cash, and $79.01 in the form of good bills, which was turned over to the class. The class was $75 in debt, so the final amount to be given to the treasurer will be $72.41.

The expenditures for the 1913 Oregana were $400 in excess of those for the previous issue.

Earnest Lamb was elected manager of the Senior Class Play, and the committee, consisting of Earnest Lamb, chairman, Harold Warner, Lenore Hansen, Elizabeth Lewis, and Nellie Hemenway, that had been delegated to choose the play, was empowered to proceed with the choosing of the casts.

NOTICE

The Interfraternity Athletic League will meet Friday afternoon at 4:00 P. M. in Dr. Schmidt's room, Deady Hall, to arrange a schedule for basketball.

FEN WAITE, President.

"The Clouds" Is Postponed

"The Clouds" will be presented by Professor A. F. Reddie's class in Dramatic Interpretation Saturday night, Nov. 16, instead of Friday night, the 15th, as announced before.

The change in date was thought advisable by Professor Reddie and Manager Arthur Geary, for the reason that a prominent concert company is billed for Friday night at the Eugene Theatre.

HAYWARD REVIEWS STOCKHOLM GAMES ON FRIDAY EVENING

LECTURE TO COMBINE WITH REX BILL FOR FOOTBALL BENEFIT

STEREOPTICON VIEWS COVER ENTIRE TRIP

Will Feature Oregon Athletes—Meet at Marseilles Also Treated by Veteran Trainer.

Toot! Toot! All aboard the good ship Finland, with Bill Hayward pilot and Arthur Geary purser, bound for the Olympic games in Stockholm. The ship sails from the Rex Theatre Friday night at 8:15, and it is expected that every loyal student in the BILL HAYWARD, Trainer of Oregon Representatives at Stockholm.

University, together with half a hundred towns-people, will make the voyage.

Mr. Hayward's lecture will open with the preliminary meet in New York, in which Walter McClure, of the University, ran second to Kiviat in the mile. Then the views will be transferred to the deck of the Finland, where the students making this trip will see the husky Hawaiian, Prince Kahanamoaki, take a few plunges, and will witness the training of the athletes aboard the ship.

Many Views Shown.

Upon the arrival of the steamer in Sweden, the passengers will disembark with the athletes and participate in the royal welcome extended by the King of Sweden.

Mr. Hayward will then take the audience to the scene of the games, where can be seen Martin Hawkins receive his medal at the conclusion of the hard fought hurdle race. Walter McClure's race in the mile is also reviewed, together with numerous other events of the Olympiad, including a in aquatic races. On the homeward journey the passengers may witness the important scenes at the meet at Marseilles. The landing at New York concludes the lecture.

Rex Bill Also Good.

The regular Rex performance will follow the lecture, which includes for

WASHINGTON CHOOSES SINGLE TAX FOR DEBATE QUESTION

The single tax problem is that which the University of Washington would have as the question for the Tri-state Debating League this year. Their proposal is the last to be submitted, for both Oregon and Stanford University have already offered their choices, the latter submitting the problem of the absolute international arbitration, the former that of immigration. The three colleges will now independently select their first, second and third choice, and from these the more desirable will be used for the annual debate.

The question that is selected, Oregon will submit to the University of Idaho for the dual debate between Idaho and Oregon.

Extension Clubs Organized

Dr. George Rebec, head of the University Extension Department, reports the organization of Extension Clubs at Hood River, Astoria and The Dalles. Dr. Rebec lectured at the local teachers' institute while at Hood River. He is now at Astoria, meeting with a teachers' institute there, and will not return to Eugene before the end of the week.

Princeton has missed only three tries for goals from touchdown this fall. The number kicked is thirty.

COACH LEAVES KINCAID

Dryer Grounds Deemed Necessary—Squad Dwindles and Bailey Buys New Pants.

Last night Coach Pinkham found it impossible to teach the varsity squad the science of football on a field more adapted to aquatic sports than the great college game. So old Kincaid Field was deserted for the better drained baseball diamond.

The squad has dwindled down to less than two teams on the last few afternoons of practice, probably due to the inclemency of the weather, and has forced the veteran varsity men and assistant coaches, Gordon Moores and Bill Main, to join the scrubs in order to form a team with which to give the varsity scrimmage.

The squad has also lost Bradshaw, Parsons, and Bigbee by the "Post" route, but it is expected that they will be able to turn out before the week is over. Cook and Hall have not been allowed in the scrimmage this week because of slight injuries. Heusner has been playing full, and Anunsen has Hall's place at end.

Professor John Straub, Mrs. Straub, Carin Degermark, May Smith, Helen Werlein, and Mildred Lawrence were dinner guests at the Zeta Phi house, Sunday.

EUTAXIAN MEMBERSHIP LIST RAISED TO FIFTY

The next program of the regular Tuesday night meeting of Eutaxians will include the following numbers:

Life of Byron, Mabel Lawrence; Life of Keats, Hilda Brant; Life of Shelley, Lila Stiver; Comparison of Works of the Poets, Meta Goldsmith.

The membership limit of Eutaxian roll has been increased to fifty, because of the large number of applicants on the waiting list.

SLOW COUNT OF STATE VOTE LEAVES FATE OF MILLAGE IN BALANCE

LANE COUNTY LEAD OF 2,000 LOST BY RURAL NEGATIVE BALLOTS

PRESIDENT CAMPBELL STILL HOPEFUL

Portland Returns Uncertain Till Friday. Oregon Alumni Place in Elections

Owing to the exceedingly slow and scattering of Tuesday's vote and the tardiness with which it is being reported from the precincts, no reliable information can be had at present concerning the fate of the Millage Bill. Returns from Portland this afternoon state that 157 precincts out of 193 in Multnomah county, have reported a vote of 11,604 for and 11,416 against, thus giving a slight majority for the bill. An incomplete count of the Lane county vote gives a lead of nearly 2,000 for the measure, yet the returns from other counties in the valley show a negative vote. Benton, Linn, Clackamas, Josephine, Douglas, Umatilla and Union counties have reported majorities against the tax, ranging from nearly 1,500 in Clackamas to a slight opposition in the last named district.

Few Counties Favorable

Favorable votes have been reported from Hood River, Clatsop, Jackson and Yamhill counties, the last two majorities nearing the 500 mark. This does not counterbalance, however, the negative vote throughout the state, so far as has already been reported.

Unless the Multnomah and Portland vote gives an increasing majority for the measure, and unless some other counties show more favorable returns than have been evidenced, the bill will, according to the opinions of the local newspaper editors, be defeated. Nothing but substantial gains in outlying districts can save the measure, especially if Portland does not support the bill more strongly than the present figures indicate.

"I am not confident at all," said Regent Sam Friendly this afternoon, "but Dixon is," he continued, referring to Regent A. C. Dixon, of this city. Charles Fisher, editor of the Guard and also a Regent of the University, thought "that unless Portland gives a bigger favorable vote than is indicated from dispatches, and unless we are surprised more often by the vote of some county like Yamhill, it is going against us."

President Campbell Confident

However, President Campbell is not discouraged with the outlook, and according to his figures, which correspond to the results obtained so far, the bill will eventually carry.

Northwest editor of the Portland Telegram, Frank E. Toeves, told the Emerald last evening that there was no chance to get definite figures in regard to the Portland vote until Friday morning, so slow was the vote coming in. The great difficulty has been in incomplete and meagre returns that have been sent in, making it impossible to get accurate forecasts of the vote.

Several members of the University alumni figured in the returns of the election. John Latourette, '07, was elected as a representative from Multnomah, as was Pat McArthur, "Father of Athletics" at the University. Roscoe Bryson, '83, quarterback on the only Oregon football team that ever defeated the University of Cal-
