Hall, Bradshaw, and Bailey Are Laid
Up With Injuries Received at Seattle.

"Our chances are good," says Coach Pinkham. "The team is rather badly battered after the hard Washington game, but if we have a dry field, I think we can hold them down."

Captain Dean Walker expressed the real spirit on the campus when he said: "If I knew we should be beaten, I should say 'play the game.' The team has travelled 2,300 miles this season and has just played a hard game. Three men are out with injuries. The odds are against us. But we have beaten O. A. C. against odds before this and I believe that we can do it again."

Hayward Pessimistic.

Bill Hayward, Oregon's veteran trainer, was less hopeful, but just as positive, that the Oregon men will fight the game to the last ditch. Said Bill, "I don't say that we can beat them, but I do say, that whether we beat them or whether we don't, we should play the game. I should rather see the game played at Corvallis or at Eugene than at Albany, but much rather at Albany than not at all."

"The team is badly battered after the hard Washington game. Bailey is crippled with a charley horse and a badly sprained ankle. Bradshaw has a cracked rib and will probably be out. Hall's shoulder is out of commission again. The hard ground of Denny field played havoc with the team."

Team at Great Disadvantage.

"The fact, that we have been up in the air so long in regard to the game, has also counted against us. The team was trained up to play the Washington game as the climax of the season. Now, at the last minute, we get this game. It means that we shall have to build up the team all over again within a week."

"But you may say that we will play that game, if we have to put in the second team to do it."

The Freshmen of Washington State College captured the interclass cross country championship by a score of 78 to 58 for their nearest opponents.

AGGIES AT LAST AGREE TO PLAY OREGON SATURDAY

Albany will be the scene of the Oregon-O. A. C. football game to be played on Saturday, November 23. This fact was decided this afternoon when the Athletic Councils of both colleges gave their respective consent. This game will definitely settle the football championship of Oregon. Arthur Geary, Oregon's Student Body manager, and Albert R. Tiffany, Student Body treasurer, left this afternoon, at 4:27, for Albany, to represent the University in a final conference with E. J. Stewart, Athletic Director at Corvallis, and others from that institution and with the Albany business men, who have been promoting this match.

Several weeks ago, Albany business men, represented by William Eagles of that city, sought to break the deadlock existing between the two colleges over the selection of a location. Last Saturday the Corvallis authorities intimated that they would consent to a game on November 23, if Oregon would agree to play at Albany.

Consequently, to make possible an acceptance of any formal proposition from Corvallis, the Oregon Athletic Council this morning hurriedly called a session in the office of President Campbell, and put itself upon record as favoring the campus game and offered to play the Agricultural College either in Eugene or Corvallis. Realizing, however, the importance of establishing friendly relations between the State Colleges, they decided to permit the staging of the game in Albany as a last resort.

Aggies Sanction Contract this Afternoon.

A meeting of the O. A. C. student body was called this morning to take place at noon, but when this did not materialize, the athletic council of that institution met and formally made the proposition to Oregon to play the game. This was immediately made known to Oregon by long distance phone and accepted by Manager Geary. The Corvallis Athletic Council however placed a string upon their proposition, declaring that the Student Body Association, which meets this afternoon at 5 o'clock, must give its sanction. This is expected without difficulty.

A written contract will be drawn up in Albany tonight. This contract is expected to be drawn with absolutely no reference to any future games.

Oregon's Stand Consistent.

Oregon's position in regard to this game is purely from a standpoint which looks to friendly relations between the two state colleges. During the past two months Oregon has made every concession within its power to secure this game. In the face of a generally predicted defeat has Oregon been willing to play the Agricultural College. But these concessions have been ignored, and each time Corvallis has asked for more, until at last all hopes of the game were given up. The work of Gordon Moores and others from the University, who were in Corvallis Saturday, is largely responsible for this final proposition.

Great Crowd Expected.

This game will undoubtedly draw one of the largest football crowds ever assembled in Oregon outside of Portland. Rates will be given from all parts of the state on all railroads and the long continued quarrel between the colleges give added interest to the event.

And again, in spite of the comparative scores, many believe that this game will be very close.

Coach Dobie stated Saturday, that there can be no comparison between the Corvallis and Eugene teams over the respective scores with Washington because, as he declares, the game in Portland was more water polo than football. The defeat of Whitman by the Aggies last Saturday is declared by many to have been due largely to the muddy condition of one side of the field.

Walter Camp says that the reason Harvard defeated Princeton was because the Tigers didn't take the wind and let Harvard kick off when the score was 6 to 3 in favor of the former. It was in this quarter, with the wind against DeWitt's kicks, that Harvard scored the winning points.

The Carlisle Indians are the hardest team in the business, if not the best. They recently played two games in three days, the first against Georgetown, and then in Toronto, Canada, where they played the first international game on record where American rules were used. The Indians won both games with ease.

AGGIES ARE FAVORABLE

Corvallis, 5:30 P. M. (Special)—The students voted unanimously for the resolution. Everything is satisfactory here and we expect to go right ahead. We will meet Mr. Geary in Albany this evening and make final arrangements.

A $5,000 guarantee to cover gate receipts, offered by William Eagles directly following the Corvallis-Whitman game last Saturday, was one of the main causes of the renewal of negotiations between the Oregon and O. A. C. authorities for a gridiron battle November 23, in Albany.

For some time the Albany merchants have been endeavoring to obtain the long deferred game between the rival state institutions, and the matter was brought to a head when the relative standing of the two teams was shown to be so nearly equal by the scores of the Washington and Whitman games.

The guarantee offered by Mr. Eagles is not made with the idea that any profit exceeding the amount specified shall go to the promoters of the game, but merely as an evidence of good will and as a testimony of the belief of the Albany merchants in the ability of their town to draw a money-making crowd.

Bleachers capable of seating the gathering of 6,000 fans expected will add approximately $200 to the expense of staging the game. This outlay will be divided between the two institutions, and the receipts will be equally shared. Manager Geary will arrange final details this evening.

DANCE IS POSTPONED

The Executive Council met late this afternoon and decided to postpone indefinitely the Harvest dance scheduled for Saturday night.

The excursion trains from Albany are expected to return soon after the game, but, however the game goes, the trip to Albany and back was considered excitement enough for one day. The date for the dance will be announced tomorrow.
