

GLEE CLUB DEBUT SOON

College Singers Appear First in Albany on December 19—Portland Concert in Lincoln School.

Eugene will not have the honor of opening performance of the Oregon Glee Club this year, for the college songsters travel to Albany a week from Thursday, on December 19, to give their initial concert. This is the first time Eugene has been so slighted. It means that the men will have to be pretty well trained by that time for a strange audience is more critical than at home.

As usual the Glee Club is encountering difficulties with counter attractions. This is especially true with the engagements on the Eastern Oregon trip. At Pendleton, the annual Library Ball is scheduled for New Year's night, thus conflicting with the date of the club.

The Portland school board, last Thursday, granted the Glee Club the use of the Lincoln High School auditorium, made necessary for this year's Portland performance by the inability to obtain any of the theatres.

CARL McCLAIN IS Y. M. C. A. SPEAKER, THURSDAY EVE

Assistant Professor Carl McClain, '06, former president of the University Y. M. C. A., will speak at the regular Thursday evening meeting, on the subject, "The Responsibility that Follows You."

Carl McClain, together with an associate, conducted the first Y. M. C. A. finance campaign ever held on the campus. The budget of the Association at that time was only $150, but at present Mr. McClain is handling the financial end of the Association's $2,000 budget for the Advisory Board, of which he is a member.

For two years Professor McClain played guard on the University football team, and was a member of the team that defeated O. A. C. in 1905, 5-0.

Special quartette music will be furnished.

The University of Wisconsin has adopted a new and unique method of publicity. A motion picture company is negotiating with the authorities to take a film of the University at the date of the alumni home coming. This film will include pictures of the buildings, the athletic field, the football team in action, and all the more prominent features of the University.

students, and $73.55 for odd jobs divided among 14 students. This brings the total amount of money secured for the students through the Y. M. C. A. from the beginning of the year as $758.55.

"It is a matter of pleasant astonishment to me to learn of the large proportion of students helping themselves in the University," said Professor Dunn. "I think that the Association has done well in including the employment agency in its enterprises on the campus."

Professor Eric Allen, in speaking of the fine spirit in college, due to the Y. M. C. A., said: "I am surprised and pleased to learn of the large number of men supporting themselves. I have worked while going to school and can realize the value of such effort to students."

Professor Ayer, acting Dean of the School of Education, said in reference to the self-supporting student:

"I have been very agreeably surprised to discover the large percentage of the men at Oregon who were working their way through school. I have been particularly impressed with the fact that this large group seems to be holding its own with the others in the matters of school work and social representation. Another thing which has impressed me is that the men do not fall in to the attitude of martyrdom which is quite evident in some of the Eastern universities where the self-made man is being constantly advertised. As far as I can determine from my brief acquaintance, the Y. M. C. A. at the University is doing a very efficient and helpful work."
