

PROF. YOUNG PREPARES SUFFRAGETTE COURSES

Outlines Will be Given to Women
Voters Throughout State—Text
Books Required.

Professor Young, head of the department of Economics and Sociology, has prepared a course of study for the women's clubs of Oregon, which takes up the structure and functions of state and federal government and the conditions and problems of progress and social welfare.

The preliminary work for the first part of this study will consist of a careful reading of the Oregon Constitution as given in the Oregon Blue Book of 1911, and a study of Haskin's American Government.

The department will conduct tests to ascertain the proficiency attained by the members of the different clubs in this part of the study.

The main part of this citizenship study will be taken up by discussions in the meetings on topics bearing upon problems of political, economic, and social progress.

A few concise books by eminent authorities will be used as guides. The following books will be used: while the University will aid and direct this study by outlines, suggestions, and questions. The Department will also send out lecturers to deal with special problems.

"Conditions of Progress in Democratic Government," by Charles Hughes, "Political Problems of American Development," by Albert Shaw, "Oregon Blue Book," "American Government," by Haskin, "The Attitude of the Citizen," by Professor Hughes.

In the history of football at Yale only twelve men have succeeded in crossing their goal line.

Miss Jessie Bibee came to spend Saturday and Sunday at Eugene, in order to attend the Sophomore dance this evening.

Kansas Agricultural college has been admitted to the "Big Seven" league composed of the colleges and Universities in the Missouri valley.

Y. M. C. A. Speaker Advises Audience
Not to Lie, Even to Themselves.

"Don't lie to yourself," said Professor Carl McClain, '06, Thursday evening, at the regular Y. M. C. A. meeting, speaking on the subject, "The Responsibilities That Follow You." "If you have promised yourself that you will get up early in the morning, be true to your word. If you break a promise to someone else, you know about it immediately, but self-deceiving is more insidious because of secret nature."

Professor McClain discussed many responsibilities of the University graduate: His debt to his parents for their sacrifice of money or business profit; likewise his debt to the state, not only in actual expenditure, but also of a loss to industry or commerce of several thousand dollars for each student while he is in school; also one's responsibility to his alma mater, and to the student Y. M. C. A.; and finally his responsibility before God.

President L. T. Pennington, of Pacific College, will address the next regular meeting, the last during the year 1912, on the subject, "You and Your Creditors." Warren Rae, of Eugene, will sing. The meeting will close in time so as not to interfere with the Glee Club in the Eugene Theatre.

TALKS WILL FEATURE IN
NEXT Y. W. C. A. MEETING

The Y. W. C. A. will meet Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, with Catherine Kirkpatrick as leader. The program will consist of a solo by Eva Brock and talks by some of the members. These will be as follows:

Juvenile Court System—Elizabeth Busch.
Campfire Girls—Mae Norton.
Eugene Business Women's Rest Room—Helen Holbrook.

Miss Elsie Bain, of Albany, came down Saturday to attend the dance.
