CHAPMAN ASKS FOR FARMERS

EDUCATION SUPPLEMENTS NATURE'S GIFTS AND FITS FOR LEADERSHIP, SAYS SPEAKER

FARMING IS STATE'S WEALTH

University Men and Women Looked to for Solution of Problem of High Taxation.

What counts? "Personality—and understanding of the other fellow, and a capacity to sympathize with him, and impart cheer to those around you." Such was the answer given by C. C. Chapman, Secretary of the Portland Commercial Club, and State Immigration Agent, in his address on "My Oregon," at Assembly yesterday.

Mr. Chapman imparted his good humor to his audience by reciting the course of sprouts he was put through before being led upon the platform; and remarks about his stage fright. He admitted that he really had stage fright, and said that it was hard to scare him.

Mr. Chapman said that education was to the individual as the harness to the horse. "What could a horse pull, if you fastened the load to his tail," he asked. "Education supplements what nature has given you, and fits you for leadership. We who have not had the education you are getting, realize this every day. We like the way an educated man carries himself—and we take pride in knowing that we have such an institution as this, and that we have a part in its maintenance."

He outlined the growth of the Oregon Development League, of which the Portland Commercial Club is the nucleus. The Commercial Club of Portland organized ten years ago, to advertise the state, for they realized that therein lay the future of Portland. He told of the organization of clubs in all the cities of Oregon; how they began to notice defects in their communities—sidewalks, streets, buildings,—and the progress of improvement. "But the creation of new wealth in Oregon lies in greater agricultural development. The value of our timber depends on the market, and we are cutting down wealth when it is sold; but the development of our land is laying a foundation for future wealth. And for this development we must have more people, and we must teach the new generation the best methods. More producers mean more money for our institutions, and a lesser burden of taxation upon the people as a whole," said Mr. Chapman.

NINE POUND DAUGHTER MAKES ADVENT INTO CLARK HOME

History Department with Seven Offspring Now Leads in Infant Population.

Step forward, please in the Faculty Row to make way for the nine-pound daughter of Professor and Mrs. R. C. Clark, born last Monday evening, at 9 o'clock.

This makes the second addition to the Faculty within the past two weeks, the daughter of Professor and Mrs. H. C. Howe having appeared a fortnight ago.

The Emerald mathematician erred in a previous computation of the number of Faculty children, the figure 37 being too short. This latest addition swells the total to an even two-score. The Department of History now boasts of the greatest density of population of any University department, for with six children of Professor Joseph Schafer, the progeny of the department now number seven.

WINGED "M" STARS TO PLAY OREGON HERE

Viereck, Former Varsity Player, in Club Lineup—Sims Is Again Disabled.

The Multnomah Club basketball team of Portland will play Oregon Saturday night in the University gymnasium. The game is attracting much attention, as it is expected that Multnomah will give the Varsity a hard contest.

The Winged "M" team numbers such stars as Keck, formerly of the Oregon Agricultural College, and Viereck, who played sub guard on the Varsity last year and starred in class and interfraternity games. The remainder of the team will be chosen from Fisher, McFarland, Masters, Toomey and Pugh.

"The Oregon line up will not be known until the whistle blows," stated Coach Hayward this afternoon. Since the Idaho games, Walker, Brooks, and Fee have been working out as forwards, and Captain Sims, Bradshaw, Boylen, and Briedwell as guards.

Fenton will start at center, but it is possible that Bradshaw will be tried in this position and Fenton shifted to forward in place of Brooks or Fee. Captain Sims fell on his injured knee Monday evening during practice and might be unable to enter the contest Saturday evening.

The Company D basketball team of the Oregon National Guard of Corvallis will play Oregon on the following Saturday on the local floor.

FRESHMEN CO-EDS SAVE CLASS FROM EMBARRASING REBELLION

MOTION TO DISCONTINUE WEARING OF GREEN CAP IS DEFEATED BY VOTE OF WOMEN, WHO REVERSE ATTITUDE AND SECURE APPOINTMENT OF VIGILANCE COMMITTEE

The green cap custom was again fastened upon the class of 1913 by the act of the class itself at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon in Villard Hall. This action was taken only after a Freshman girl, Miss Myrtle Clark, born last Monday evening, at 9 o'clock. This makes the second addition to the Faculty within the past two weeks, the daughter of Professor and Mrs. H. C. Howe having appeared a fortnight ago.

However, had it not been for the girls of the class who were present, it is likely that the motion would have been adopted, as the masculine element of the yearlings voted solidly for the abolishing motion, but as the women were in the majority, the motion was adopted, allowing the class to go on record as fastening the rule upon themselves.

At a previous meeting held several weeks ago, the problem of enforcing the inflicted custom was raised, but tactfully deferred until class leaders could "confer" with upperclassmen. No real authorized conference was held, but that the question was not to be settled by ignoring it, became evident Tuesday, when the radical motion was again made.

During the debate upon the motion to refuse to wear the little "lids," which grew heated at times, several members of the class declared that some still persist in violating the green cap rule. It was here that the girls took a hand in the argument, and presented the proverbial feminine view of the matter, by declaring that the men are more admired when they faithfully adorn themselves with their badges of servitude.

In order that the charges shall not be so pertinent in the future, President Robert Prosser has appointed a vigilance committee of six Freshmen to apprehend any who forget their caps in the future.

1916 GIRLS FOUND TRIPLE-A SOCIETY

Club Now Secret and is Organized in Endeavor to Bring About Friendly Relations.

Following hot on the footsteps of Gamma Nu, a freshman girl's society has been organized, but differs from its predecessors in the fact that it is neither secret or honorary. The name selected for the new club is "Triple A." All Freshmen women in the University are eligible for membership.

Myrtle Gram, who is one of the moving spirits in effecting the completion of the new organization, said yesterday, "We have contemplated the organization of this society for some time. It has seemed as if there were almost no chance for the Freshmen women to get together on an equitable footing, and it has been with the idea of bringing the women of the class into closer touch with one another that "Triple A" has been founded."

The society will be more completely organized Friday, when a meeting is called to take place at the Kappa Alpha Theta house at 3 p. m. All Freshmen girls desiring to enter into membership in the new society are requested to be present at this meeting, or to hand in their names.

PROFESSOR DUNN SPEAKS ON MEDIAEVAL SAINTS

Professor Dunn spoke Tuesday concerning the two mediaeval saints, Lawrence, a deacon, and Sebastian, a soldier, who were martyred during the conflict between the early Roman Church and the Roman Empire.

These two persecutions, he said, are examples of two methods of torture employed during the ten periods of martyrdom.—St. Lawrence was roasted alive, and St. Sebastian was pierced with arrows.

The speaker illustrated his lecture with lantern slides taken from copies of paintings of the two saints done by Michael Angelo, Raphael, and several other contemporaneous masters.

Professor Dunn will lecture next Tuesday afternoon on the topic, "From Michael Angelo to Antiochus," dealing with Mediaeval art.

BOOSTS COLLEGE MEN FOR NEWSPAPER WORK

C. C. Chapman, of Portland Commercial Club, Says Educated Man Has Advantage.

"The limit of success in newspaper work depends on the man himself," said C. C. Chapman, secretary of the Portland Commercial Club, Wednesday, in his talk to the students of Journalism on "The Conditions in a Metropolitan Newspaper office."

Everyone must work for himself. The atmosphere is intense. The City Editor has reached his position by outworking everyone else. He shows no consideration for anyone. He is a keen, active, mental machine. A cub reporter is meat for him and his assistants. He will send the cub on an assignment and nothing but death must prevent him from bringing home his work. He must get the facts, must get the names accurate.

A reporter must have instincts to get news which appeals to the public and get the human interest into it. He can acquire style later.

LAUREANS DECIDE THEY DON'T WANT "DEAD ONES"

At an aftermeeting of the Laureans, a serious discussion took place as to whether the Laurean Literary Society should be kept up or dropped. As a compromise, it was decided that a committee of three, Hardesty, chairman, Lombard and Geisler, be appointed to devise means of getting the society out of the rut into which it seemed to have fallen. A paper will be circulated this week by the committee, on which every Laurean is to promise to be dependable in attendance and on programs, or stand a fine. It is the intention thus to weed out the "dead" ones.

The Laurean Literary Society was organized in the first year of the University as a corporation under state charter. During its first years it became the strongest organization on the campus, but in recent years has suffered a slump until now there is a membership of 30, and an average attendance of ten Laureans.

CO-EDS SHUT OUT OF ENGLISH CLASS OUTWIT PROF. HOWE

Girls Answer Roll Through Window, Write Quizzes and Hand in at End of Hour.

It takes more than locked doors to defeat the purpose of an Oregon Co-ed, so Professor H. C. Howe, of the department of English Literature discovered this morning. Annoyed by the procrastinating tardiness of the women in his eight o'clock class, and believing that he could provide a stimulus for earlier rising, Professor Howe locked his class room door promptly at 8 o'clock this morning. As he expected, ten or a dozen breathless Co-eds rushed up hardly a moment later.

Not to be outdone, however, they answered to their names at roll call through the window. Then they proceeded to write out their class room papers, and, when the door opened at the end of the hour, handed them in with the others.

Professor Howe appreciates a joke, and recognized the futility of attempting to get ahead of an Oregon Co-ed.

FUJI AND SIGMA CHI MEET IN FINAL GAME

Fraternity Basketball Championship May be Decided Saturday Evening.

Phi Gamma Delta, 10; Alpha Tau Omega, 6.

Sigma Chi, 10; Dormitory Club, 6. Dormitory Club, 4; Kappa Sigma, 1. Above are the scores that decided that Phi Gamma Delta will play Sigma Chi for the basketball championship of the Inter-fraternity League. Whether the final game will be played as a preliminary of the Multnomah-Oregon contest Saturday evening, or whether it will be saved for the game with Company D of the Oregon National Guard of Corvallis on the following Saturday, will be decided at the meeting of the Inter-fraternity League this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Phi Gamma Delta-Alpha Tau Omega game was the fastest of the three. The first half ended with the score of 6 to 2 in favor of Alpha Tau Omega. But in the second half the Fijis came back strong and Gould and Grout each threw two baskets, while Alpha Tau Omega was held scoreless. Meek threw the other basket for the Fijis, while the two Moteschenbachers scored for the losers.

The Sigma Chi-Dormitory affair was exciting and closely contested. With three minutes to play the score was 6 to 6. At this period of the game Vosper was forced to withdraw with an injured ankle and Boone was substituted. Gwyn Watson, who played a brilliant game throughout, threw four baskets for Sigma Chi.

1913 COACH IS YET UNCHOSEN

ATHLETIC COUNCIL'S COMMITTEE CONSIDERS MERITS OF WOULD BE MENTORS

RUMOR NAMES LEONARD FRANK

Pinkham, However, Probable Selection, If He Can be Induced to Return.

The committee authorized by the Athletic Council to make the selection of a football coach for the season of 1913, meets this evening for the first time since appointment. Although no definite action toward selection of the man will be made, the members, who are Dr. H. B. Leonard, Captain Robert Bradshaw, and Arthur M. Geary, will discuss the merits of a number of possible candidates.

Of this number are last year's coach, Louis H. Pinkham, Virgil Earl, as alumni coaches, and a number of non-graduates, for example one Hammond, an army man who played on the Oregon team in early days, or Leonard Frank, a Minnesota player, who was assistant coach at Kansas last year.

Regarding the latter, rumors have recently spread, and even broken into the newspapers, that Oregon has been seeking to "land" him to compete with Dobie, who is also an exponent of Minnesota tactics.

As yet, however, the University of Oregon has taken no steps to land Leonard Frank. In fact, two of the committee knew nothing of Frank until they were told during the past three days. With the committee Louis Pinkham is first choice, providing he can be induced to return.

Dr. H. B. Leonard, head of the coach-selection committee declares: "Personally, I know nothing of this man Frank. I do not say that he will not be considered, for he may be one of a number who have applied for the position. Unless some of the other members of the committee know more about him than I do, I will say that he is not a leading candidate. For my part, Louis Pinkham has shown himself very satisfactory as coach of the Oregon team, and if he will consent to return, I would favor him."

President Campbell declares that Louis Pinkham can be induced to return. He states that he knows nothing of Frank, but admits that, if some other man is selected, he will be someone who will also be employed as an instructor in the University and employed the year round. The president declined to name the man he has in view for this position.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON ALUMNAE, BY UNUSUAL ACHIEVEMENTS, REFLECT HONOR ON ALMA MATER

"Early women graduates of the University have set a high standard of efficiency to be followed by the present generation of University women," said Miss Ruth Guppy, Dean of Women.

"In searching the record, I find that they not only worked for their own benefit, but worked and are still working for the good of the University."

Miss Guppy has made out a list of University women who have excelled in scholarship and positions they have held and are holding in public life. Eight of this number have been members of the University Faculty.

Most prominent of these is Mrs.

Nettie McCornack Collier, '80. Mrs. Collier was president of the Oregon Alumni Association, '81, '82, '83, vice president for five years and treasurer of the same order for two years.

President of the Oregon Alumnae Association from 1908 to 1910, a member of the Eugene High School Board, 1902-1906, and 1909, until the present time. Mrs. Collier is the mother of five sons, who are or have been prominent students in the University. Miss Mary E. McCornack, Mrs. Collier's sister, after leaving Oregon, graduated at the New England conservatory of music, became

OREGON GLEE CLUB BECOMES ENTHUSIASTIC OVER COURTESY SHOWN BY O.A.C. STUDENTS

The sixteenth annual tour of the Glee Club was brought to a magnificent culmination yesterday at Corvallis, when, after a day of unbounded hospitality tendered by the students and administration of the Oregon Agricultural College, the Club sang before a house packed to the eaves and wildly enthusiastic. Members of the organization who returned this morning, are loud in their praises of the royal welcome extended by the College, the attentions bestowed by the clubs and fraternities, and the flattering reception accorded their program.

After singing several ensemble numbers at the Assembly in the morning, a committee of prominent students escorted the visitors over the campus and grounds, on a tour of inspection, following which the singers were taken in charge by the various fraternities, who made them their guests until the time of leaving, at seven this morning.

After the concert the O. A. C. students fed the singers. It was a real banquet. The Oregon men were entertained at the fraternity houses, and given an opportunity to meet and appreciate the men of Oregon's State College.

They returned to Albany this morning.
