

ODOR STARTS REDDIE ON TOBACCO CRUSADE

Freshman Offenders Chastized for Disrespect and Receive Promise of an "F"

Nix on the offensive odor of tobacco in classrooms, was the edict issued by Professor Archibald Ferguson Reddie yesterday, when several members of his 1 o'clock Freshman public speaking class brought with them into the room on the third floor of Deady Hall, the fragrance of "My Lady Nicotine."

A flunk, pure and simple, will be doled out to the future offenders. And besides this promised punishment, the Professor read the riot act to the offending young Ciceros, for having the "front" to disregard the aesthetic sense of the young ladies in the class.

That he might have the suffragette element of his audience behind him in his anti-smoke crusade, Professor Reddie took a vote among the women of the class in regard to the tobacco habit among men. A unanimous chorus of feminine "ayes" clamped the lid upon the latest vice to be put on the taboo list by any University professor.

GIFT BRINGS THANKS

Co-eds, Who Contribute to Fund for Mapleton Girls' Basketball, Get Warm Thanks.

The following letter was received today by Dr. Stuart, thanking the University women who contributed to a fund with which to purchase basketball for the Mapleton High School girls, from Vera A. Todd, instructor in the Mapleton High School:

Our girls were greatly surprised and delighted when the basketball and your accompanying letter arrived yesterday. They wish to express to both you and Dr. Stuart their keen appreciation of your interest, and to the University girls they send their heartiest thanks. Every one of our girls wishes she might have the opportunity of thanking the University girls personally.

Miss Young has promised to coach our team and we begin practice today. We hope to work up a really presentable team by the time school closes. At least we are sure of great enthusiasm.

Thanking you personally for your interest in my girls, I am cordially yours, Vera F. Todd.

Denton, Texas, has a school which not only prepares a young woman for the duties of homemaking but also instructs its students in the knowledge of those qualities which a good husband should possess.

NEWBURG BANQUETS COLLEGE DELEGATES

Nine Oregon Representatives Attend Spread Following Oratorical Contest.

At the banquet given in the Odd Fellows Hall at Newburg, Friday night after the oratorical contest, in honor of the visiting representatives of the different universities and colleges, Carleton Spencer, one of Oregon's delegates, responded to the toast, "Swallowing a Campbell." He made a brief speech of about ten minutes and finished by complimenting Pacific College on the courteous treatment which had been accorded to the visitors.

Arthur R. Hodge, the newly-elected president of the Oratorical Association, responded to the toast, "Who's Who and Why." "Labor and Capitol" was the subject of the response by Miss Gertrude Eakin, of Willamette University. John F. Mason, of McMinnville College, had as the subject of his response, "The Man of the Hour." John E. Cooter, of the Oregon Agricultural College, spoke on the subject, "Back to the Soil." He was followed by Miss Grace Thomas, of Pacific University, on the topic, "Why Is a College or a University." Miss Thomas was followed by Carleton Spencer. Miss Vera Dunlap, of the Monmouth State Normal, was called upon next and responded to the subject, "The Young Idea." Olin C. Hadley, of Pacific College, spoke on "The Sheep and the Goats." President Levi T. Pennington, of Pacific College, acted as toastmaster.

An elaborate five course luncheon was served to nearly one hundred and fifty visitors.

Oregon was represented at the banquet by Howard Zimmerman, Carleton Spencer, Miss Carin Degermark, David Pickett, Miss Norma Dobie, Otto W. Heider, Miss Hazel Tooze, James Donald, Leslie Tooze, and Allan W. O'Connell.

Practical demonstrations will also be given with some of these lectures.

COMPLETE BUNGALOW FOR COMMENCEMENT

Advisory Board Met in Special Session Last Wednesday and Decided on Plan.

To have the Y. W. C. A. Bungalow completely built before Commencement Week is the plan of the Advisory Board, which met last Wednesday for a special business session. It was also decided to ask Professor Adams, who is the architect, to redraw the plans of the new building with the additional changes made since the first drafting.

The building, to be built on Kincaid Avenue, between 12th and 13th streets, will be one story. A porch is to extend along the entire front, and the plans for the inside call for a large assembly room, committee and rest room and a fully equipped kitchen.

The contract will be for a $2,500 structure, of which $2,253 is now on hand. To begin operation, $1,000 will be solicited in the near future, part of which will be used in furnishing the bungalow.

COFFEE CLUB TO GET PAPERS FROM JOURNALISM DEPT.

The recently established Eugene Coffee Club will hereafter receive the numerous newspapers coming to the University Department of Journalism, as soon as the students in this department have finished with them. These papers come from all over the country, and from nearly every town in Oregon. "The students are soon finished with most of these," said Professor E. W. Allen this afternoon, "and we are glad to have them doing more good than they are at present stacked in our files. If others here in Eugene wish to donate papers or magazines to the Club, they may be left with the department, which will see that they reach the Club along with our own donations."

Mr. C. L. Dano, manager of the Club, said yesterday afternoon: "We have men come in to the Club frequently and ask for their home papers. They will be very grateful now that they can find them here."
