

1914 OREGANA WENT TO PRESS THURSDAY

When Feature Section is Worked Up, All Departments of Book Will be Completed.

Actual printing on the 1914 Oregoniana began last Thursday morning at Moran's printing house. This means that there remains one month, almost to a day, in which to finish the printing of the book, as the contracts call for the first deliveries early in May.

The first work to be done on the book is the printing of the borders, for each page, which will be a trifle larger than last year's book. The border is also larger and quite distinctive in its execution. The actual space on each page for the printing will be smaller than that available last year.

"We are making all possible efforts to have the Oregoniana out on time," said Editor Don Rice this morning. "All the pictures and half tones are in the hands of the engravers and the work of printing is going forward at the rate of thirty pages a day."

Every department of the book has been worked up except the feature section, and this will be finished by Spring vacation. This department is in charge of Miss Flora Dunham and Wallace Benson, and promises to be exceptionally good.

CO-ED TENNIS CLUB PLANS TOURNAMENTS

At Meeting next Wednesday, Arrangements Will Be Made for Contests.

The Women's Tennis Club met Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, to perfect plans for the coming spring tournaments. The advisability of combining the Tennis Club with the Women's Athletic Association and making it a branch thereof, was discussed but no definite action was taken.

Tennis has always been a popular outdoor sport among the University women and from present indications, interest in it will be unusually keen this spring. Agnes McLaughlin, the president of the organization, is quite enthusiastic over the present prospects.

The club will hold another meeting next Wednesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, in the Women's Gymnasium. At that time a new vice-president will be elected and important committees appointed.

BOVARD WILL READ PAPER AT ROUND TABLE MEETING

Professor John Bovard will read a paper on "The Modern Theories of Heredity—Their Relation to Heredity," at the next meeting of the Round Table Club at the Osburn Hotel, this evening.

The Round Table Club is composed of about half town people and the remainder members of the University faculty. The organization meets every two weeks for a social gathering, then a dinner. Following the paying of homage to the "inner man," some member reads a paper upon a subject of current interest. Discussion follows.

Professor Bovard is a thorough student of heredity and the science of eugenics, having spoken on that subject at several University meetings and before various clubs.

LAUREANS TO DEBATE UP-TO-DATE POLITICAL TOPIC

Up-to-date politics—at least one of its latest phases, is to be the debate topic for the Laurean Society this evening. Holt and Foster will uphold the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, That the Philippine Islands should be given their independence, if the other powers will guarantee their neutrality." Marsh Goodwin and Byron Getchell will uphold the negative.

VARSITY GOLF BEGINS AFTER APRIL VACATION

Tournaments for Three Cups Will Bring Out Best Players in College.

A meeting of the University Golf Club has been called by President Fen Waite for Wednesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, in Dr. Schmidt's class room, at which time plans for the staging of three golf tournaments will be discussed. Tournaments, similar to those of last season, will start immediately after spring vacation. The three silver cups donated last year by the local jewelers will again be available, as they are the permanent property of the University, the winner getting his name engraved upon the trophy which he keeps until the next season.

The Luckey cup given to the winner of the women's handicap tournament is now held by Miss Mary Perkins, while the Laraway cup, for the men's open championship, is in the possession of Bert Prescott, who defeated all comers last spring. The men's handicap tournament for the H. D. Smartt cup was begun but never completed, as the contestants did not play off their matches.

It is the plan of the club to be more strict this season in the matter of following the schedule, and all players who do not appear on the links at the regular time will lose by default.

WILLAMETTE "U" GETS CHECK FROM J. J. HILL FOR $50,000

A check from James J. Hill, the railroad magnate, Saturday, for $50,000 completed the $300,000 endowment fund for Willamette University. Besides this amount they have about $200,000 more in subscription notes and other securities. From these it is figured the University will receive at least $20,000 annually.

In 1910, Mr. Hill, after visiting the Salem institution, announced that if by January 13, 1913, the authorities would raise $250,000, he would add his check for $50,000.

President Homan immediately started a money campaign. In the given time he was successful and the coming of the big check, Saturday, closed this part of the campaign.

In the last three years there have been secured for the institution $425,000 for endowment and building purposes.

INCOMPLETES MUST BE MADE UP FOLLOWING YEAR IS RULE

The date for making up all conditions and incompletes has been set for May 5 and 6. This year a new policy is to be inaugurated whereby all students suffering from incompletes and conditions must take examinations for their removal the year following or complete failures will be marked for such deficiencies.

This will not effect students who are absent from the University for any length of time but the rule will be applied the year following their return. Official faculty action will be taken the first of May.

"STRENUOUS LIFE" COST SENIOR CLASS $11.80

Heavy Expenses Cause Deficit, Although Receipts Amounted to $360.00.

According to an incomplete report by the manager, Ernest Lamb, before a meeting of the Senior class yesterday, the Senior play, produced at the Eugene Theatre Saturday night, cost the class very close to $11.80. This deficit, which has already been paid out of the class treasury, was due to a rather poor house and fairly large expenses.

The gross receipts from the seat sale were $360.00. They have been this low once or twice, in former years, though the Senior play has drawn over $400 and $500 at times. The principal items of expense for this production were $105 for theatre rental; $150 for the salary of the coach, William Bernard; and $54 paid to Mr. Bernard for the play royalty and incidentals.

The request has been made by the Fortnightly Club of Eugene that the play be repeated. Manager Lamb was authorized by the class last night to repeat it, providing the request is accompanied by a guarantee sufficient to make it worth while. A $200 guarantee has been suggested.

EIGHTH GRADE PUPILS TO VISIT CLASSROOMS

Geary School Class With Professor Beer to Attend Journalism Recitation.

The grammar school kids will have their innings for a taste of University journalism next Wednesday afternoon, when Professor W. A. Beer's Eighth grade class from the Geary school in the western part of town, will be the guests of Professor Allen during the first year journalism class period.

Frank H. Harris, of the Portland Labor Press, who will be the Assembly speaker in the morning, will probably speak before the regular class and their guests. This will be the second appearance of Mr. Harris before the class.

Professor Beer, who will bring his proteges to the University for the lecture, is an old newspaper man, having formerly held a position on the Philadelphia North American. Last summer he was connected with the Morning Register of Eugene.
