

PRESS FRATERNITY INSTALLED TOMORROW

Press Club Will Become Omicron, or Thirteenth Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi.

Omicron chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, the honorary journalistic fraternity, will be installed tomorrow evening, when the University Press Club will become the thirteenth chapter of that organization, after the ceremonies at the Osburn Hotel.

Carl H. Getz, '13, editor of the University of Washington Daily, and secretary of the Washington chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, will be the installing officer. He will probably be assisted by Lair Gregory, formerly editor of the Midnight Doughnut, the only strictly funny paper ever published at the University of Oregon.

Following the installation and initiatory ceremonies, the recently established chapter of pencil pushers will enjoy a banquet, which will be marked by numerous toasts. Mr. Getz, who is also a Delta Upsilon, will arrive in Eugene tomorrow afternoon.

The following will become members of the Omicron chapter: Fen Waite, Karl Onthank, Leland Hendricks, Henry Fowler, Sam Michael, Franklin Allen, Don Rice, Carleton Spencer, and Harold Young.

nell, in the leading roles, fully justified the responsibility placed upon them—Vawter as the graceless college "sport," Tom Harrington, and Miss Bonnell, as the charming daughter of the millionaire miner, Dan Davenant. Both exhibited thorough control of their parts, which were long and deeply involved. Vawter's appearance as leading man in "A Strenuous Life," marks the conclusion of four consecutive seasons in University dramatic and musical productions.

Warner and Quigley Skillful Actors.
Perhaps the most skillful acting displayed was that of Harold Warner, as Professor James, and Harold Quigley, as James Roberts, Freshman. They coped splendidly with two of the most difficult roles of the caste, and received many a hand and laugh.

Thad Wentworth, as Dan Davenant, a wealthy miner, and Hilda Brant, as Mrs. Wiggins, proprietress of the Berkeley boarding house, carried off their comedy parts well; both were well adapted to their roles and provided much amusement.

The seconds, Glen Storie and Lucile Abrams, had but limited scope in which to display their ability, but contributed in no small degree to the effectiveness of the whole.

Robert Fariss, as the old-fashioned father, and Alice Farnsworth, as his daughter, Dulcie, sustained their parts in admirable style. Kenneth Frazier, in the role of the Japanese servant, was an indispensable addition.

All Play Parts Well.

The roles assigned to Ann McMicken, the store-keeper; Burleigh Cash, as Professor McGee, and Abe Blackman, as the bill-collector, while of minor interest, admitted of strong interpretation; and all were successfully presented. Comment on the performance was noticeably free from that bugaboo of amateur theatricals,—"except for that one actor." Nobody excepted anybody; all were good.

A full house greeted the players. The receipts practically balanced the expenditures, of which the principal items were advertising and the expenses and salary of Director Bernard.

Of class authorities conversant with the history of the play, practically all express the opinion that the engagement of William Bernard as coach was the deciding factor in the success of the affair. Mr. Bernard endeared himself to all with whom he came in contact, and at his departure was presented with a handsome engraved cigar-holder by Manager Ernest Lamb, in behalf of the company.
