UP TO US AGAIN

The University appropriation for improvements has been referred, and unless the Day bill is declared unconstitutional, will be voted upon next November. We have the same old fight again ahead of us, and we may as well look at the matter calmly and squarely. We believe that the majority of the people of Oregon are in favor of higher education and are willing to support it with fair, conservative appropriations.

On the other hand there are a few people who are abusing our system of direct government to wreck petty vengeance for imagined grievances, and are making the hampering of the University's progress the means of so doing. This sort of thing cannot last among a free enlightened citizenship. The situation is bound to change sooner or later.

Meanwhile the students can do no better work than to give, wherever possible, a correct conception of the University's work, its type of men and women, its standards and its ideals. Let every student bear in mind that he is the University's representative to all whom he meets. In short, its largely up to us.

A CRYING NEED

As far back as can be determined there has always been one condition to mar the pleasures of Commencement Week. This has been the crowding of Villard Hall at the various exercises. Every year there are instances of the parents of some graduate failing to get a seat. This is radically wrong. Commencement is primarily for the Seniors, and for those most interested in them. Parents, who have made sacrifices in order that a son or daughter might attend the University, and who have come hundreds of miles, perhaps, to witness the culmination of a successful college career, ought at least to be assured of a good seat in the hall.

It is to be regretted that we do not have seating facilities for all. We hope to have sometime. But when it comes to a question of seating the hundreds who have only a passing interest in the occasion and seating the parents of the graduates, we declare that the latter should be given the preference.

Commencement belongs to the members of the graduating class. Why can we not make sure that their friends and relatives will receive first consideration and then throw the doors open to the general public. It would be an easy matter for the class of 1913 to arrange with the University authorities for a system of passes or reserved seats, which would solve this problem and insure complete satisfaction to all. There is an urgent need for such an arrangement.

NOTORIETY HATH CHARMS

There is no question as to the perfect justification of certain Co-eds feeling indignant because inconsiderate masculinity took too great an interest in the proposed ball game. However, it would seem probable that if the game had been quietly arranged and played off immediately, it would

JUNIORS ELECT GROUT PRESIDENT OF CLASS

Catharine Carson, Claude Still, and Cecil Sawyer Will Fill Other Positions.

Alva Grout was unanimously elected president of the 1914 class at their meeting in Deady Hall Thursday afternoon.

For vice president, Catharine Carson had no opposition; Claude Still became treasurer and Cecil Sawyer, secretary, in the same manner, the vote being unanimous for the four officers.

On the Student Affairs Committee, Bess Cowden, Edith, Still, Chester Huggins, and Charles Fowler were elected.

Otto Heider was made the "Member-at-Large."

OREGONAS ARE NOW BEING DELIVERED TO SUBSCRIBERS

The first installment of the Oregonas have been placed on sale at the Y. M. C. A. Book Exchange. This week the book binding department of Yorans' Printing House has been busy binding the last of the issues.

On the lists of subscribers there are 350, and it is planned to sell these before the close of the school year.

not have received the publicity it did. Perhaps the masculine element thought it was being polite in appearing interested. At least, as Ibsen says, "there are two sides to the jacket."

Elmer Martin, of Albany, has been a guest at the Avava house during the week.

Earl Fortmiller is spending the week-end at his home in Albany.

CHANGES MADE IN ARRANGEMENT OF STEWARD'S OFFICE

During the past week the old pay window in the steward's office in Villard Hall has been torn out and placed along the south wall of the room. Payments will be made from the Registrar's office and in the rush of registration, laboratory fees will be accepted from the west door of the steward's room.

This new arrangement will not only give the student's a chance to be waited on more quickly, but will also facilitate matters for Mr. Johnson's force and give much needed additional room for the steward. With the arrival of a new desk they will be fairly well supplied with space and can work without knocking elbows on the walls.

Oregon Club Picnic.

The Oregon Club will hold a picnic next Tuesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. The start will be made from the campus, with Cal Young's farm, a mile north of Eugene, as the destination. Everybody is invited.
