

GLEE CLUB IS SHOWING PEP

TEN MEN WHO PASS FINAL TRYOUTS PATCH UP WEAK SPOTS

LYMAN IS ENTHUSIASTIC

With Exceptionally Good Material in All Sections of Club, the Director Looks for Successful Year.

By Mandell Weiss.
Unusual vigor and spirit was displayed by the contestants for places on the Glee Club this year with a result that four tryouts were necessary before a final choice could be made. Ten men, however, withstood the rigor of the test and gained berths on the club. They are:

First tenor—Clyde Phillips, Lee Rowell, Gavin Dyott.

Second tenor—Lawrence Dineen, William Langley, Norton Cowden.

First bass—George Merlin Batley, Second bass—C. C. Baker, Charles Reynolds, Clarence Brotherton.

Now that the task of culling is over, Ralph Lyman, the new director, is perfecting the organization, making the weak spots strong, and the strong, stronger. He is very enthusiastic over the prospect of this year's work and more than pleased with the support the men are giving him at the rehearsals. "With the interest that the singers are taking," Mr. Lyman remarked, "there is no reason why we should not surpass any previous efforts made by the Glee Club."

In speaking of the respective parts, Mr. Lyman said:

"Exceptionally good material is to be found in second bass. First tenors, which were very scarce last year, are plentiful this season. The rest of the parts are equally good."

The itinerary of the Glee Club is in the hands of Manager Walker. The first concert will probably be heard in Portland on the eve of the Multnomah-Oregon football game. The old men on the Glee Club are as follows:

First tenor—Robert Fariss, Vernon Motschenbacher, Vernon Apperson, Frank Lewis.

Second tenor—Hal Grady, Ray Williams, Ira Staggs.

First bass—Bert Jerard, Raymond Giles, Willard Shaver.

Second bass—Delbert Stannard, William Heidenreich, Walter Skel.

"DUTCH" YOUNG CHOSEN VARSITY YELL LEADER

Immediate Roting Practice Will Begin Under His Expert Tutelage

Harold "Dutch" Young was chosen leader of the Oregon rooters for this year, by the executive council at the tryout Monday afternoon. The other contestant for the position was Harold Grady. One hundred rooters were present at the tryout and each of the contestants led several yells and were judged on their ability to stir up "PEP." Dutch with his brass lungs was pronounced superior and will assume his responsibilities at once.

When interviewed, he said: "As soon as a definite day can be arranged with Coach Bezdek and the football management and in conformance with their plans for secret practice, there will be rooters' practice for all of the students, with special attention given to those who do not know the yells. My assistants will be Morris Bigbee and Harold Grady. Other plans will be announced in Thursday's Emerald."

WILL ROUGHEN SHOWER FLOORS

POSSIBILITY OF REPETITION OF FRIDAY'S ACCIDENT TO BE OBIATED

DYMENT VISITS M. A. A. C.

Favors Removal of Paint from Cement Floors. Advises Chiseling of Use of Sandpaper as Possible Remedy.

Steps will be immediately taken to roughen or in some manner to make safe the floors of the gymnasium showers, according to information given out by President P. L. Campbell and Trainer William Hayward this morning. Mr. Hayward announced that a decision had not as yet been made as to what course to pursue in remedying conditions, but that something would be done as soon as possible.

President Campbell, however, stated that he had authorized Mr. Dymont of the Journalistic department, to make investigations along this line, at the Multnomah club in Portland. Mr. Dymont, when seen today, said that he is greatly in favor of roughening the shower floors instead of using rubber mats, a plan which had been under consideration. He advised that the coat of paint be removed with lye and that following this, the cement floor be roughened with sandpaper or even grooved with chisels in the most used spots.

UNIVERSITY CAMPUS HAS BEAUTIFUL FLORA

Map of Trees and Shrubs Drawn in Summer School by Students

An excellent opportunity for the student to increase his knowledge of the flora on the University campus is offered by a map now available at the library. This map was constructed by W. J. Schwan, '16 and F. E. Dunton, '12, during the past summer school. Great credit is due both men for their excellent work on this map which is the first of its kind to be made of the campus.

It is interesting to note that there are 52 different varieties of trees on the campus, among them, the well-known and easily recognizable fir, cedar, pine, elm, etc., as well as the more unfamiliar ones, such as the honey locus, Acacia, Sycamore, Chin-copin and Chittam. There are also sixteen class trees bearing numerals on brass plates of the classes from 1878 to 1900.

Y. W. C. A. CONVENES IN NEW BUNGALOW

Conference Rally Addressed by Gearhart Park Delegates

A successful conference rally was held yesterday by the members of the Y. W. C. A. in their new bungalow. The meeting was addressed by Edith Clements, Clara Heissler, Imogene McCowan and Jewell Tozier, the delegates who attended the state convention at Gearhart last year. They spoke of the conference work and the University women's part in it.

Miss Knox accompanied by Lila Sengstake furnished the musical part of the program.

SENIOR THESES ARE SELECTED

SENIORS UNDER HOWE AND YOUNG BEGIN WORK AT ONCE

PRACTICAL TOPICS CHOSEN

Women to Write Upon Literary Subjects While Men in Economics Will Study Topics Affecting State Interests.

The Senior Theses, which have for the most part been decided upon by the students under Professor Howe and Professor Young, embody a number of interesting and practical subjects.

Of Professor Howe's class, eleven have selected their thesis research work. "There will be an effort," said Professor Howe, "to make each thesis the practical application of the students' minor and major subjects." Edith Clements is writing on "The High School Course of Literature;" Maud Mastick and Olga Poulson, "Social Ideals of Living and Recent Writers;" Agnes Elliot, Eleanor McClain and Marguerite Rankin, "Ideals of Womanhood;" Ellice Shearer, "The Relation of Shaw to His Predecessors;" Norma Doble, "The Relation of Arnold Bennett to the History of the English Novel;" Henry Fowler, "Journalism and the English Novel," and William Case, "Satire, Past and Present."

Last week Professor Young's class of thirteen were notified of an entirely new plan for the research thesis work for this year. Outlined, they include six different fields of endeavor, embracing in their scope topics which are intensely practical, not only along financial lines, but also on social and political reform. Number one is the making of charts for use in the Panama-Pacific exposition in 1915, showing the condition of the state in the matters of criminology, illiteracy, school funds, use of direct primaries, etc. Number two will be the preparation of schedules that will guide the state authorities in 1915 when the state census is taken. Number three is a plan for the elaboration of the Oregon Blue Book, the official state directory published yearly by the secretary of state. Number four is a plan whereby the will of the people can be expressed to a better advantage in the primaries through a greater dissemination of facts. Number five is the determination of the principles of electric rate making. This is especially appropriate in view of the state's proposal to build a monster power plant at Celilo Falls. Number six is a program for further progress of Oregon social legislation with special attention to pensions and minimum wage for both women and men.

The registration at the University of Washington has reached 2100. At the same time last year, the number of students enrolled was but 1500, showing an increase of 600 students.

VARSAITY BAND TO BE REORGANIZED

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE PLANS BIG AID TO ROOTERS

A DIRECTOR IS ENGAGED

McCosh of Eugene Band Will Be Leader of Organization Which Will Give Benefit Dances During Year.

A feature of the executive council meeting last night was the interest displayed in the matter of reviving the rooters' band of 1912-13 and establishing it as a permanent student activity. In regard to this, student body president, Vernon Motschenbacher says:

"This is a feature of our activity that has always been lacking. I think that if we arouse enough interest in the proposition the faculty will take steps to put a man in charge next year. The band will be sent to Albany and Portland for the O. A. C. and Washington games as an adjunct to the Oregon rooting forces."

Dudley H. McCosh, leader of the Oregon State band in Eugene, will lead the revived organization. He is engaged for three months and the council hopes by that time to arouse sufficient student interest to continue the band for the balance of the year.

It is expected that the band will be largely self-supporting, paying its expenses by means of benefit dances and concerts. The proceeds from a game between the fresh and the E. H. S. team will also go for this purpose. Evening concerts in Villard Hall may later be given to feature vocal and instrumental soloists in the University.

As final business of the meeting Bob McCornack was selected to fill the place on the student affairs committee, left vacant by Chester Huggins, who was elected last spring but failed to return to college this fall. Plans were also perfected for the special student assembly Wednesday.
