

Y. W. BUNGALOW IS DEDICATED

ADVISORY BOARD THROUGH MRS. SWEETSER PRESENTS STRUCTURE

2 YEAR'S WORK COMPLETED

Women of Association Rewarded for Trouble of Obtaining Funds by Beautiful Home Adjacent to Campus.

"And now girls of the Young Women's Christian Association, I present to you the Y. W. C. A. Bungalow. There it is," said Mrs. A. R. Sweetser, yesterday, in her speech of dedication to the University Young Women's Christian Association. Mrs. Sweetser has been active on the advisory board since Y. W. work was first begun in Dr. Schmidt's room in Deady Hall. She traced the growth of the conference work through all its stages, telling how the need of more room for classes forced them finally to the "Shack," where they held their meetings last year.

In 1911 the advisory board devised the idea of having a home for the association work and immediately every effort was made for the new building. For this part of the work the University women raised by their fairs, candy sales and tag days $382.65. The rest was raised by the women of Eugene.

President P. L. Campbell spoke on the benefit which would be derived from the new home as a place of both spiritual and physical rest for the University women.

Edith Clements, president of the association work on the campus, thanked the advisory board for the new home in behalf of the University women.

In closing her talk Mrs. Sweetser said: "We pray our Father that within these walls you may find rest and comfort for your bodies, quiet and development for your minds and peace, joy and expansion for your soul's life, and that these growing into well rounded Christian womanhood, shall be a benediction, an inspiration and a joy to the whole University."

Miss Esther Maegly, '13, has returned to her home in Portland.

Louis Pinkham, class of '11, spent the week-end at the Beta Theta Pi house.

Mrs. Gering of Medford, is visiting her daughter at the Chi Omega house.

Mr. and Mrs. Downing of Salem, and Jennie Frye, '12, were at the Delta Delta Delta house on Sunday.

Y. M. C. A. LECTURES ON HYGIENE BEGIN

Prominent Men Will Talk on Sex Hygiene at Men's Meetings

A series of six lectures on the sex question, by thoroughly competent men, will be given under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. at their regular meetings. The following is the order in which they will come:

Oct. 15th, "The Anatomy and Physiology of Man as a Creator of Man," Dr. Omar R. Gullion, of Eugene.

Oct. 23rd, Dr. Winfield Scott Hall of Northwestern University. (two lectures.)

First "Sex Hygiene." Villard Hall at 1 p. m.

Second, Villard Hall at 7:15 p. m. (Special.)

Oct. 30th, "Eugenics," Professor John Bovard, of the University.

Nov. 6th, "What a Young Man Should Know for Marriage," Dr. James B. Taylor of Eugene.

Nov. 13th, "Biological phase of the Sex Question," Dr. C. T. Hodge.

Dr. Omar R. Gullion, Prof. John Bovard and Dr. James B. Taylor delivered some lectures for the Y. M. C. A. last year and all that heard them were loud in their praise.

Students having questions to ask regarding this subject are requested to bring them to these lectures and they will be given careful consideration. A cordial invitation is extended to every young man in the University to attend these lectures.

U. OF W. GLEE MAN WONDERFUL TENOR

Prof. Irving M. Glen Starts Preparations for Concert Work

Washington's new Glee club held its first practice last night in Deady hall under the tutelage of Professor Irving M. Glen, dean of the college of fine arts. Regardless of the fact that out of the twenty-five men chosen at the tryouts last week only six were members of last year's club, Professor Glen says that he expects to develop the best musical organization that Washington has ever had.

H. T. Davidson, tenor, and Frank Kelliher, baritone, both freshmen, are the chief contenders for the solos. Mr. Davidson, who has been turning out for football since the first practice, has a remarkably high range, reaching A and even B flat last night with apparently no effort.

Rube Beckwith, also of the freshman class, is to act as accompanist for the club, and if the present plans of Professor Glen are carried out he will be featured on the program with one or two instrumental solos. Washington Daily.

Lloyd Van Dusen is visiting this week-end at the Sigma Nu house.

Victor Chambers of Cottage Grove has been a guest at the Sigma Nu house.

NEWSPAPERS PUBLISH STUDENT RESOLUTIONS

Editors of State Show Approval of University by Giving Publicity

Newspapers in all parts of the state are printing the resolutions upon the university issue passed by the students "district associations" recently. An examination of the exchanges in the Guard office and at the Department of Journalism yesterday showed very few papers that had failed to take notice of the action of the delegation from the home town. In many instances the editors wrote editorials approving of the active and intelligent interest the students were taking in public matters.

Where the resolutions appeared in the columns of a daily paper, care was taken to hunt up the issue of the same paper for the succeeding day. In practically every instance was found in the next day's paper a prominently displayed news article under some such head as this: "Biggest Day Yet for Registration," or "Registration Becomes Heavy."

In no instance observed did the activity of the students attract other than the most favorable comment.

HAZERS CAUSE OF TROUBLE

Two Sophomores Are Arrested and Student Council Forbids Practice.

The University of Missouri is having its trouble with hazers. Two sophomores were arrested for hazing freshmen and the student council has declared against indiscriminate hazing.

All Sophomores who have recovered from the affects of the inter-class melee the other day are urged to present themselves at the Dormitory on Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock for the purpose of holding a football meeting. Signal practice will follow the meeting.

Seventy thousand people were given free treatment at the Lane hospital of the Stanford Medical School in San Francisco last year. The patients were operated on by specialists for the benefit of the medical students.

Jessup Strang was suddenly called to his home in Salem yesterday afternoon on account of the serious illness of his mother.

"Obak's" Hot Dogs.

I haven't got a lonesome looking store with large rear room devoted to Mr. Hoyle's Games with a nice little kitty scratching the table.

I have a prominent place with cigarettes from the world over, but I find the consumer does not come from the world over to get them.

So I am going to sell hot dogs every evening.

DR. HODGE WON'T TURN OTHER CHEEK TO PESTS

Man's Foes in Insect World Deserve Hate, Not Love, Biologist Teaches.

"Love your friends but hate your enemies."

This does not sound much like a biblical injunction, even if its sponsor is Dr. Clifton Freemont Hodge, the widely known biologist of the University of Oregon. Dr. Hodge, moreover, is to teach this doctrine far and wide over the state. He is to carry it to the people who cannot attend the university of Oregon to hear it. He will lecture and teach in many an Oregon town during the next year, under the university's auspices.

Wait a moment, however, before you condemn Dr. Hodge as unorthodox. He does not mean human friends and human enemies but those of the insect world. He proposes to show Oregon the immediate benefits from knowledge and practice of elementary principles of everyday biology.

To make science the servant of Oregonians rather than something to regard in awe is the mission of Dr. Hodge. He says the "insect tax" costs the United States one and one half billion dollars annually. To propagate and encourage the common quail alone, he says, will save the American people one-third this waste. He will carry to every Oregon hamlet that desires it the story of the value of bird life to the farmer and the villager and the business man. Science to Dr. Hodge is simply teaching people to make their labor more productive.

To teach the farmer boy and the farmer girl to return to the farm after getting an education, is another of Dr. Hodge's plans. Farm life, he argues, can be made infinitely more attractive if science is enlisted.

The lectures are to be given mostly outside the university. Some will be at teachers' institutes. His first series of 15 lectures will deal with problems of education in various communities. He will make every effort to have the talks fit local conditions. The other main division under which his lectures will fall is the life of the community. In these lectures he proposes to teach the citizenry how to utilize the forces of nature to its own advantage—a sort of course in popular biology.

Towns or rural communities desiring lectures from Dr. Hodge should communicate with Extension Department, University of Oregon, Eugene. The lectures, of course, are without cost to the community. They are part of the state university's well-known plan to put instruction within everyone's reach, either at the university or away from it.

PROF. SWEETSER SPEAKS

"Christianity" Is Topic of Address Given Before Y. M. C. A.

Professor A. R. Sweetser, head of the University Biological department, spoke on Christianity at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Thursday night. Secretary Koyl says that Professor Sweetser's splendid address made the meeting one of the most successful of the year.

By a series of experiments with the X-ray and a photographic display he proved ingeniously his statement that "there is more in things than can easily be seen."

FEARS FLY, RAT, SQUIRREL

Dr. Clifton F. Hodge Will Urge Campaign Against Pests.

The lectures by Dr. Clifton Freemont Hodge at the state fair last week indicate some of the work this new man on the University of Oregon faculty will do throughout the state this year. Dr. Hodge spoke upon Oregon bird and game conservation and upon controlling the fly and rat pests.

In his extension labors among Oregon towns, Dr. Hodge will point out the constant danger of bubonic plague along the Pacific coast unless the rat and ground squirrel problems are effectively dealt with. A class of University of Oregon students will spend some time this year collecting material along this line. It will study also the fly problem, the game conservation problem and soils and production statistics.

Dr. Hodge during his first year's work here hopes to get a fairly accurate census of game birds and wild animals in Oregon. This work will be under the auspices of the university and of the state game commission.

EMERALD HAS TELEPHONE

Installed By Journalism Department. 655 Is New Number.

It is now possible to reach the Emerald by phone, as an instrument was installed today in the office of the paper in the Journalism department of McClure Hall. Last year this was strictly an Emerald affair, but this year, the University has taken over the financial load incurred.

Due to the fact that there was no phone connection during the summer it has been found necessary to change the number which is now 655.
