

NEW EXTENSION MONITOR IS OUT

OCTOBER NUMBER DEVOTED TO WRITE-UP OF UNIVERSITY ITSELF

COLLEGE GROWTH SHOWN

Articles by Dr. George Rebec, Dr. C. F. Hodge, Dean John Straub and President Campbell Fill Issue.

The Extension Monitor now has in the hands of the printer the copy for the October issue, which will be a University of Oregon number. The leading article is by Dr. George Rebec, and treats of present tendencies in education, pointing out pitfalls into which modern educational policy is in danger of leading the community.

Dr. Clifton F. Hodge, who recently came from Clark University to join the biological faculty, gives his "First Impressions of the University of Oregon." He praises the institution for its splendid spirit, which he considers an exemplification of "low living and high thinking." He expresses his delight with the beauty of the campus, but the buildings did not impress him as spacious.

Dr. Straub describes student life as he has known it in his thirty years as professor of Greek at Oregon.

President Campbell takes a look into the future, giving his ideal of what the institution will rapidly become when extricated from the harassments imposed upon it by certain outside influences.

The poem this month is by Mrs. Parsons. The Extension Division announcements show the tremendous growth in that department since the last annual announcements.

Changes are to be made in the typographical style, the new make-up to be designed by Mr. Beall, superintendent of the Guard Printing Co.

FORMER EDITOR OF EMERALD COMPLAINS

His Troubles. However, Seem to Lie in Maintaining Position as Head of Family

Portland, Oregon, Oct. 19.—(To the Editor of the Emerald)—Copy number three of the Emerald has just arrived, almost two weeks late, with a nice big union label. But for some mysterious reason it is addressed to my wife.

In the year 1908, T. R. Townsend, then editor, established the very laudable custom of sending the Emerald free to all past editors, which custom has ever since been followed, honored, and respected until this year. Is it your intention now to discontinue this custom, or do you consider my identity as a "home sole" to be merged upon marriage with that of my wife?

I assure you, we old broken down editors are very worthy dead heads, as you, yourself, will be only too ready to admit after you sweat a few months in the harness. We are also jealous of any encroachments on our customary perquisites, and the thought of punting up a whole dollar every year is indeed terrifying.

But just now it's not the dollar and it's not the custom that burns like a hot potato in my mouth. It's the crushing humiliation of having my wife treated as the head of the family.

Of course, when women are given the ballot, we naturally expected many encroachments on the traditional prerogatives of the hitherto superior sex. But you are going too far when you relegate us to the position of a mere appendage. You can mock at custom—I suppose conventionality is more popular now days anyhow. You can sting us for a dollar—that's all right, but by heck, we men are going to wear the pants!

DR. W. S. HALL GIVES FIVE TALKS

BUSY DAY PLANNED FOR FAMOUS LECTURER ON SEX HYGIENE

IS A WELL KNOWN AUTHOR

Pre-Medic Class, Men of University, Women of University, Y. M. C. A. and Men of Eugene to Be Addressed on Thursday.

Dr. Winfield S. Hall, author of the series of "Sex Hygiene" books and who lectures before the students Thursday on the subject of "Sex Hygiene," will arrive early Thursday morning and spend the entire day here lecturing and giving personal interviews. All those students who desire a personal interview with Dr. Hall are requested to make arrangements with the University Y. M. C. A. Secretary, Charles Koyl. Dr. Hall comes here under the auspices of the University Y. M. C. A. to give the second and third lectures of the "Know Thyself" series, the first of which was delivered last Thursday evening by Dr. Omar Gullion, of Eugene.

Dr. Hall's program for the day as arranged by the Y. M. C. A. will be well filled. From time of arrival to 10 o'clock he will give personal interviews. At 10 o'clock he will lecture before the pre-medics by invitation from Professor Bovard. Luncheon will be taken at the Phi Gamma Delta house, and at 1 o'clock he will lecture to the young men of the University in Villard Hall. From 2 to 3 o'clock personal interviews will again be given, and at 3 o'clock Dr. Hall will speak to the young ladies of the University in the Women's Gymnasium. Dinner will be taken at the Beta Theta Pi house, and at 7:15 his second lecture in Villard will be delivered to the men. At 8:15 he will deliver an address down town to the men of Eugene, under the auspices of the Social Hygiene Society.

MISS LEWIS PLANS SATURDAY DANCES

Varsity Dancing Instructor Will Give Semi-Public Affairs for the Students

Beginning next Saturday night, Oct. 25, informal student dances will be given every week, at the Shack, under the auspices of Miss Grace Burr Lewis.

"I want to make these assemblies," said Miss Lewis, "jolly, informal dances, without any of the objectionable features of the public dance. That is, there will be no ragging. They will be from 8 to 11 every Saturday night and I shall charge fifty cents a couple."

Besides the Saturday night assemblies, Miss Lewis will have special classes for teaching girls "the tango." I am sure when they once see it they will be very enthusiastic over it. It is an Argentine dance, and very beautiful and attractive," said Miss Lewis.

Then, there are to be classes in aesthetic dancing, for students and town people; classes for children, in the folk dances, and one evening a week is to be devoted to the business girls.

In addition to these, Miss Lewis announces that she will also have beginner's classes in social dancing, for both children and adults. The hours for these have not yet been definitely arranged.

E. P. Ford, '13, is visiting at the Kappa Sigma house for a few days.

William Burgard spent the past week-end in Portland.

Coach Banks at the Ohio University is developing a speedy football team this year.

SOCIETY

By Beatrice Lilly.

The dinner given in honor of the guests of Delta Gammas on Sunday, concluded the social activities connected with the installation of Delta Gamma which have so largely taken the attention of college society during the past week end. The tables were attractively decorated in bowls of pansies and there were place cards and favors of pansies at each plate. The guests were: Misses Helen Vampel, Amy Dunn, Edith Clarer, Louise Brace, Pearl Cady, Louise Boyd, Agnes Beach, Gladys Grier, Agnes Murdock, and Alta Hayward.

The Dexter Club at the Mary Spiller house, entertained informally on Saturday evening, with a dancing party for the Juniors and Seniors of the Men's Dormitory. Mrs. Bancroft was chaperone. The guests were Professor O'Donnell, Clarence Brotherton, Ray Williams, Stewart Lyons, William Murphy, W. K. Livingston, L. H. Purdy, A. P. Scholle, Laurence Dineen, Fred Hardesty, Herbert Ryan, Otto Heider and Dalzell King.

Allan Byron spent the week end in Salem.

Owen Blazier of Salem and Chas. Robinson of Portland spent the weekend at the Avava house this week.

Chi Omega entertained at dinner Sunday Boyce Fenton, Clark Burgard, Charles Reynolds and Don Rice.

BURGARD BREAKS HIS LEG

Junior From Portland Suffers Injury While Playing Golf.

Clark Burgard, a Junior from Portland, while playing golf Sunday had the misfortune of breaking his right leg just above the ankle.

With a friend Burgard had gone to the golf links early Sunday morning. While in the act of "putting" the ball he twisted his leg in some unaccountable manner, sustaining a break of the bone located at the back of the leg.

The injured student is at the Eugene hospital. The doctors say that it will be at least two weeks before he will be able to be out on crutches.

VARSITY GETS A NEW CHEF

The few who neglect to read this bit of news must surely be the loser as it is of vital importance to everyone, touching as it does that which most importantly concerns every and each one of us. Namely something to eat.

The Varsity Confectionery have secured the services of a chef, direct from the Hof Brau in Portland and are in a position to serve salads, sandwiches, oysters etc. to the most fastidious.

We invite you to call and give us a chance to demonstrate to you what a first class chef can do in the lunch line.

COLLEGE GIRLS

WILL ENJOY THE LARGE SHOWING OF NEW COATS AND SUITS THAT JUST ARRIVED

We haven't shown a prettier line this busy season. These were bought just a few weeks ago and represent the very latest in the season's styles and fabrics. There is some change from early-season Coats. The wide Raglan sleeve is much in evidence and they all hang loosely from the shoulders, over the hips and narrower at the bottom. They are beauties. You'll find selection easy. Prices to please.

Scene from "The Lure" at Eugene Theatre, Thursday, Oct. 23

It was inevitable that the widespread agitation concerning that terrible national evil, the White Slave Traffic, should have inspired a dramatist to write a vivid play on the subject. Newspapers and pulpits have resounded with the theme. And inevitable as was such a drama, the phenomenal success of "The Lure" was likewise as easily to be predicted. It is the drama of the day. It deals with the uppermost problem of the hour—one that concerns the young girls and the homes of the nation. As a secret service agent in the employ of the U. S. department of justice, George Scarborough learned by actual experience all the facts he has put in such thrillingly dramatic form in "The Lure" and it is no wonder it has been the dramatic sensation of the year. This drama of serious purpose will be seen here at the Eugene theatre Thursday, October 23.
