"WE INVITE INSPECTION."

Because of its special significance at this time, the recent visit of the Portland Labor delegates to the University, is particularly appreciated.

These men came down so that they might see conditions for themselves and formulate a just opinion of the situation, in order to carry back an uncolored report to their organizations. They and the men they represent, for the most part, as they themselves say, have never had the opportunity of enjoying the benefits of higher education, and therefore are especially anxious to procure every possible advantage for the coming generation. But they wished first to determine absolutely whether or not the University of Oregon needs the funds appropriated by the last legislature and still withheld by the referendum, and whether the University is worthy of their support.

If all other organizations and individuals in doubt on this question, would make as honest and as fair an investigation as Portland organized labor has done, the University of Oregon would no longer have to fear lack of adequate means for maintenance that has been the cry of the University for years.

It is not fair to the state or to the state's institution of higher learning to decide such questions as will be presented to the voters of Oregon on November 4, without first having thoroughly investigated the claims made by the advocates or enemies of these measures. "We invite inspection." All that the University asks is a square deal.

WHY BERKELEY?

An exchange from the University of California, states that seventy-four men and women from the state of Oregon are attending classes at Berkeley and backs up the statement with the names and addresses of the Oregon students.

This is a large number to be going outside the state for undergraduate college work and the worst of it is that this represents only a part of those who are attending out of state institutions. And still, with the Halls of the University of Oregon overflowing with students, the people of the state are in no position to complain at this exodus of the younger generation who should be preparing through training and association to make their home in this state.

Lack of housing facilities for classes tells the whole story, and until this condition is remedied, the loss of some of the best and most capable men in the commonwealth to other universities and other states, may be yearly expected.

The work being done in Salem and in other communities throughout the state for the Alma Mater by its alumni, shows the true meaning of the phrase, Oregon Spirit. It is not merely the rah rah enthusiasm falsely fixed in the popular mind as peculiar to college undergraduates, but is something deeper and more lasting that makes itself felt not only in the University course, but in after life as well.

The Emerald wishes to explain for the benefit of a pseudo Japanese whose communication is contained in this issue, that it is not the intention of the present management to print future numbers in Greek.

RALPH MOORES, '12, SENDS GOOD CHEER FROM SALEM

Prominent Men Work to Carry Capital City for the University

The following letter received today from Ralph Moores at Salem, gives an account of the good fight being waged for the University appropriation in that city:

I believe we will carry Salem.

I am not basing this opinion on hope or "hunch," but on the opinion of Mr. George Rodgers, who has been leading the fight here.

To make good on that prediction we are working along the following lines:

1. Securing and publishing the names of Salem's most influential citizens as members of the Educational League pledged to support the University.

2. Giving wide-spread publicity to the resolutions passed unanimously by the Salem Commercial Club, endorsing the University.

3. Publishing in the local papers articles designed to educate the voters on the issues involved.

4. Circularizing the city. On November 1 we will mail a letter to every registered voter containing a letter and three pieces of educational literature.

We are not attempting, except in an incidental way, to cover Marion county, but are concentrating our efforts in Salem. With but a few exceptions, everyone we have seen is friendly, but there are many voters who cannot be reached personally. It is for these that we are putting out the circular letters.

We have to contend with the fact that this locality has on all previous occasions returned a vote heavily adverse to the "U," and that the voters' attention is apt to be monopolized by the local wet and dry fight which is developing the intensity characteristic of domestic broils.

In passing, I wish to recommend for the University's "summa cum" the work of Mr. Rodgers. Although under absolutely no obligation, he has given unstintingly of his time and money with a spirit which might be properly imitated by some of our faint hearted students and alumni. Good work is also being done by Graham P. Tabor, editor of the Capital Journal; R. J. Hendricks, of the Salem Statesman; Earl Kilpatrick, '09, principal of the local high school, and by others of the alumni.

As some profound person has said, "Every little bit helps," and each student and alumnus should realize his duty, and help in whatever way he can.

RALPH MOORES, '12.

Dean Peterson severely injured his arm while in Portland last weekend. The accident happened as he was attempting to crank his automobile.

Charles Koyl, General Secretary of the University Y. M. C. A., was a Portland visitor Sunday and Monday on business and pleasure.

74 OREGON STUDENTS ATTENDING BERKELEY

Portland Girl Is President of Club of Beaver State Folk

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 22.—(Special)—In the undergraduate school at Berkeley there are 74 Oregonians, most of them registered from Portland. There is an organization of the Oregon students called the Portland Club, of which Miss Mildred Clemmons, '15, of Portland, is president, and Harold Farmer, '14, treasurer. This organization is open to all Oregon students registered in the university.

Among the Oregon students many excel in student activities. Earl Crabbe, of Portland, for three successive years has lowered the Stanford-California two-mile record, covering the distance in better than 10 minutes on each occasion. Crabbe is a senior in the college of jurisprudence and holds membership in various societies, including Golden Bear, Winged Helmet, Bench and Bar, Congress, and the Big "C" Society, of which he recently was elected president. He is a member of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

The undergraduate students from Oregon are:

Editor of Emerald,

Dear Hanky,

It are growing popularity for Japanese students to prescribe letters to Journals, of yellow and other shades. My effort ensues.

With constant persualing at last I comprehend honorable policy of Emerald. All over paper, especial in society column are large numerals of words I contemplate are Greek, such as Beta Pi and Gamma Damma. By this I inaugurate that honorable Emerald have in its editorial mind to become official sheet of high-browers, and will soon publish entire paper in Greek. Are this not your inspiration or am I mistook? Hoping you are the same, I am
