

GRADS WANT CAMPUS GAME

HOME CONFLICTS NEEDED TO DEVELOP SPIRIT SAYS MOORES

U. OF W. CONTEST EXCEPTION

Consensus of Opinion Is That Oregon-O. A. C. Annual Football Struggle Should Take Place in School Towns.

The Oregon Emerald, Eugene, Or.:
To the Editor—Do you folks there on the campus realize that the Oregon alumni in Portland are anxious to see at least some of the vital games of the football schedule returned to the Eugene field? In times past, for reasons which seemed apparent, it was thought that the Portland graduates wished that as many games as possible be played in their resident city but, if the sense of the latest official alumni meeting in Portland can be taken as a true criterion, a correction of that general impression is pertinent just at this time.

Alumni Discuss Matters.
On the Thursday evening preceding the recent Oregon-Washington game in Portland a good-sized representation of Oregon University graduates, including men as loyal as any that ever earned diplomas anywhere, gathered in a private assembly room at the University Club to see if they couldn't do some little bit to help Oregon conquer Washington and, rather incidentally, to discuss other matters pertaining to the institution that is dearest of all to them. To have heard several of the speeches that evening would have sent thrills through any one who has made as many as a half dozen semester hours at Oregon.

Oregon Spirit Would Be Better.
When the proposed restoration of the original, unadulterated Oregon Spirit was broached by the early pioneer graduates in their talks, argument after argument was advanced for the return of campus games. It was held that the reinstatement of home games with the Oregon Agricultural College, for instance, would do much to inspire the desired awakening of a famous spirit, that has but naturally lain somewhat latent during the threatening chill of one referendum cloud after another. Of late, as all know, the games with Washington have been played in Portland, as well as the annual Turkey day game with Multnomah, and the games with the Oregon Agricultural College have been played in Albany, which, in consequence, is coming to be known as the football capital of Oregon. Now, what chance does friend spirit have to assert and perpetuate itself on fields that are foreign to college tradition and environment? Of course, it is well to have one or two games in Portland each year. The writer believes that the Portland alumni strongly favor the staging of the Oregon-Washington game in Portland but, judging from the unanimous sentiment expressed at the recent alumni gathering, he feels certain that they do not favor playing any games at Albany. If the games are to be played off the local campus why not bring them to Portland? But, best of all, take the Oregon-Aggie game back to Eugene every other year.

At the University Club meeting Martin Hawkins expressed himself characteristically as follows: "From my own selfish standpoint I would like to have the University-Agricultural College game brought to Portland where I may see it without ex-

JOHNNY PARSONS TO LEAD 1914 FOOTBALL

Two Year All Northwest Half-Back Is Chosen Next Year's Captain

John F. Parsons was elected captain of the 1914 football team at a meeting of this year's letter men in the men's gymnasium yesterday afternoon.

Parsons is a Junior in the University, having played two years on the varsity as an all-Northwest halfback. Entering Oregon in the fall of 1911, after having gone through a hard siege of typhoid fever in Alaska during the summer, Parsons turned out for football but, under this handicap, was unable to come up to his past standard. The next season, however, he came back strong and has been in the limelight for the last two years. Johnny is considered the greatest ground gainer in the Northwest. He is particularly noted for his shifty open field running, having made a touchdown through the entire Washington line in the recent Oregon-Washington game.

Parsons received his preparatory football experience at Salem High School, Lincoln High School, Seattle, and Washington High School, Portland, playing star ball at all three institutions.

Parsons is 22 years old, weighs 160 pounds net and stands five feet nine inches. After the election yesterday afternoon, Chief Photographer Tuttle took a few pictures of the team in football armour.

SENIOR COMMITTEE MEETS WEDNESDAY EVE

Motschenbacher Hopes for a Good, Frank Discussion Tomorrow

The meeting of the representative Seniors chosen by Vernon Motschenbacher to discuss present student body needs, will be held in Prof. John Straub's class room tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock.

President Motschenbacher said this morning: "I want each one to come prepared for open, frank discussion, and ready to offer any suggestions that may occur to them. We want to make a good beginning for some definite action at this meeting as this can only be done after all sides have been heard and considered."

The members of the committee are as follows:

Dal King, Alfred Davies, Beulah Stebno, Raymond Warner, A. D. Collier, Marsh Goodwin, Bertha Dorris, Beatrice Littlefield, Del Stannard, Bob McCornack, Don Rice, Wallace Caulfield, Hawley Bean, Harold Quigley, Carl Fenton, Henry Fowler, Earl Hughes, Robert Bradshaw, William Cass, Flora Dunham, Ellice Shearer, Eleanor McClain, Aline Noren, Norma Dobie, May Norton, Rose Basler, Georgie Prather and Anne Toplar.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE PLAN MIX

Acquaintance Party Will Be Given in Gymnasium.

The Women's League is making extensive plans for a big mix to be given at the Men's Gymnasium Friday evening, December 5. This party will include every woman of the University and is to be given for the purpose of promoting acquaintance among the four classes.

Various entertaining features have been planned. The girls Glee Club will sing several numbers. A special feature will be the Eutaxian stunt, a pantomime on Lochinvar. Women chosen from class games will constitute all star teams for a basketball game. Partners for the evening will be secured by lottery in such a way as to enable everyone to meet everyone else. Light refreshments will be served.

WEIGHT WINS IN LAST GAME

MULTNOMAH HUSKIES BEAT OREGON 19-0 IN THANKS-GIVING GAME

FIELD IS A VAST SEA OF MUD

Parsons and Cornell Only Fail on Touchdowns by Slipping on Wet Surface. Club Depends on Line Plunges.

(By Raeman T. Fleming)
Weight is said not to count for much in football under the new rules, and that is true to a certain extent, but the combination of weight and a wet field was the cause of Oregon's defeat at the hands of the Multnomah team on Thanksgiving day.

The field was wet in the afternoon before the game started but in spite of this the team made a good showing in the first quarter and played Multnomah about an even game until the rain set in and made the soggy field slippery on the surface. Multnomah did not try any open play at all but rather massed their plays through the line with two men for interference. The Oregon men fought hard and gamely but the odds were too great against them. The heavy players of the Multnomah team wore them out and soon were able to make yardage almost at will; although they made only two or three long runs and these were negotiated by Keck, former O. A. C. star. He kept his feet in grand style considering the condition of the field.

Oregon was on the defense most of the time as they were forced to punt every time they gained possession of the ball. It looked as if Parsons would get away for a touchdown once, but he slipped and fell and was pounced on by two Multnomah men before he had time to regain his feet. Another time Cornell nearly got away for a run with a clear field but he fell over one of the men in the interference who had slipped and fallen.

Fenton's punting was consistently good and he outpunted Keck of the Multnomah team by a safe margin. The Multnomah team did not make as many points as they might have, had they been able to kick goals. They missed the first two, only succeeding in getting the ball over the bar after the last touchdown. The final score was 19 to 0.

OREGON SONG CONTEST POORLY SUPPORTED

Only Three Songs Submitted; and These From Members of Alumni

Only three contributions have been made, so far, in the Oregon Alma Mater song contest, which closes December 10th. These have all come from alumni, and no indications of response from the students has been shown. The songs are in the hands of Norma Dobie, Student Body Secretary, and, according to Student Body President Vernon Motschenbacher, only one is considered as meriting its adoption as an Oregon song, and that one is only a fair specimen.

"I would like to receive a hundred contributions from Oregon students. It is a matter of school loyalty, and the prizes are sufficient to warrant ready response. There is plenty of time yet, and I hope that by December 10th we will have a great number to choose from."

FIRST CLUB TRIP SUCCESS

MANAGER RICE DECLARES AUDIENCES APPRECIATIVE, THOUGH, SMALL

TRIP SERVES AS A TRYOUT

Inducements Offered for Future Visits. Stunts Well Received; Soloist Albert Gillette Applauded.

"Although not a financial success, the Glee Club's recent trip through Willamette valley towns was most satisfactory," said Don Rice, manager of the Club. "Inclement weather and the hastily prepared arrangements, thus not giving ample time to advertise were serious drawbacks. Another thing to be considered was that these were places unvisited by the Club in former itineraries, and I consider that we did well under the circumstances. The audiences were appreciative and gave us the assurance that we were wanted there. Bonuses of money were offered as an inducement to visit them again next year.

"The trip served also as a tryout," continued Rice. "With the experiences gained from these concerts the Club is in a better shape to face critical audiences in the larger towns of the state."

The next club concert will be given in Eugene, Friday night, December 12.

The club, on the trip last week, gave concerts in Independence, McMinnville, Silverton and Woodburn. Everywhere the men were cordially received, and made to feel that the people were thoroughly in sympathy with the University, and that future visits of the club would be welcomed.

In each town, several high school students asserted their intentions of attending the University next year, and spoke of school mates whose plans were the same.

Professor Ralph Lyman, though not thoroughly satisfied with the showing of the club on its first trip, thought the initial performances were good, and a satisfactory criterion for future corrections. Incidentally he said that the men constituted the most gentlemanly bunch he had ever traveled with, and that they showed a very commendable spirit throughout.

The Glee Club stunts, "Oldtime Vaudeville," by Shaver and Cowden; "Caught with the Goods," by Jerard and Batley, and the xylophone solo by Apperson, were flatteringly received in each instance. The solo work by Albert Gillette was especially applauded, and many flattering comments passed on the young singer's ability.

The club will make its tour of Eastern Oregon and Western Idaho during Xmas vacation.

"STRIFE" IS NEXT READING

Professor Reddie to Interpret Galsworthy's Play Tonight.

Professor A. F. Reddie will continue his series of readings with Galsworthy's well known play, "Strife," which he will read this evening in Deady. This play is the one selected by the Associated League for Study of the Drama for their next production which will be given some time in February.

The Eutaxian Literary Society is holding its weekly meeting at the Y. W. C. A. Bungalow tonight. A short program will be given, including a talk by Miss Watson and a reading by Beulah Stebno.

CLASS MEETINGS TAKE PLACE OF ASSEMBLY

Juniors Plan Mask Dance. Seniors Have Important Business to Discuss

Class meetings will be held tomorrow morning at the regular assembly hour. It has become the custom to have these meetings monthly. The Seniors, who will convene in Dr. Schmidt's room in Deady Hall, have several reports to hear and President Grout has issued a call for all Seniors to attend. Important business will be discussed.

The Juniors have planned a big masquerade dance to be held some time in March and this will be further discussed at their meeting in room 31, Deady Hall. The 1915 class also are strong basketball fans and are going to try and again capture the interclass pennant.

The Sophomores will devote most of their time tomorrow to discussing the "Hop" which the class gives December 13. Financial matters will also be taken up. The meeting is to be held in McClure Hall.

A special program will be given at the Freshman meeting in Villard. The following numbers are announced:

Solo, Zella Knox; Chalk Talk, Milton Stoddard; Ragtime selections, Sherman Pobst; Reading, Emma Wooten; Trio, Larry Mann, Clyde Phillips and Lee Rowell.

P. Campbell Crockett, '14, for three years star debater, returned to college yesterday. He will finish his course this year.

FROSH INVITED TO ATTEND KAPPA SIG. SMOKER DEC. 6

Program of Stunts Arranged for Affair Which Is Given Annually

Freedom, frivolity, Fatimas and frosh will predominate at the annual smoker to the men of the entering class to be given by the Kappa Sigma freshmen December 6. Every wearer of a green turban, without regard to race, color, or previous condition of servitude, is invited to be present at the Kappa Sig house, 11th and Alder streets, on that evening.

The usual program of stunts, boxing and wrestling bouts, and speeches has been provided, while the famous "barroom" will be running wide open. The management refuses to state whether or not the cabaret specialty which scored such a success last year will be repeated, but it promises several surprises. This is the only occasion on which the first-year men mingle, unrestrained by feminine influences.

MUSIC LOVERS ENJOY RECITAL LAST NIGHT

Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler Pleases With Poetic and Artistic Feeling

(By Nellie Murphy)

Eugene musicians were particularly fortunate in having heard Madame Fanny Bloomfield Zeisler at the Christian church Monday evening. Her crescendos and diminuendos were remarkable in fineness of detail and perfectness of pianissimo.

Madame Zeisler's work showed much intellect and refinement and was an inspiration to every lover of music.

Those who heard Madame Carreno can compare and note the difference in their style of playing. Carreno's playing being magnificent and full of warmth, while Zeisler's was marked by the poetic and artistic feeling.

Most beautiful were the interpretations of the Sonata op. 35, by Chopin and the chorus of Dancing Dervishes from the "Ruins of Athens," by Beethoven.

The Sophomores at the University of Nebraska have voted to wear class caps.

"O" MEN ON PAPER TEAM

CORNELL, PARSONS AND FENTON DEEMED BEST FOR THEIR POSITIONS

U. OF W. TAKES 3 PLACES

Fenton, Parsons, Sutton, Miller and Chrisman Are Unanimous Choice of Critics, Who Differ, However, as to Positions

The selection of All-Northwest football teams by expert followers of the game during the last few days, has resulted in the choice of three Oregon men for the paper eleven. Cornell, Fenton and Parsons are Coach Bezdek's men who have been honored in this manner. All three have been playing sensational football during the past season and are the logical choice for their position. This is Parsons' second year on the All-Northwest team.

The composite choice of the ten critics who have thus far chosen a team is as follows:

Ends—Johnson, Idaho, and Sutton, Washington.

Tackles—Chrisman, O. A. C., and Anderson, Washington.

Guards—Harter, Washington State, and Fenton, Oregon.

Center—G. Harter, Washington State.

Quarterback—Cornell, Oregon. Fullback—Miller, Washington. Halfbacks—Parsons, Oregon, and Lockhart, Idaho.

Fenton, Parsons, Sutton, Miller and Chrisman were the unanimous choice of all the critics. Miller, however receiving four votes for his regular halfback position and six for fullback.

Bradshaw received two votes and Holden one for their respective positions.

Those voting were: E. J. Stewart, coach O. A. C.; Archie Hahn, coach Whitman; J. G. Griffith, coach Idaho; Gilmour Dobie, coach Washington; John Bender, coach Washington State; George Varnell, Spokane Chronicle; "Offside," Spokane-Review; Stanley Borleske, Spokane official; R. A. Cronin, Portland Journal; Roscoe Fawcett.

Coach Hugo Bezdek is not in Eugene today but the Emerald expects to announce his selection Thursday.

The voting follows:
Ends—Sutton 10, Johnson 6, Bradshaw 2, Tyrer and Botts, 1 apiece.

Tackles—Chrisman 10, Anderson 7, May 3.

Guards—Fenton 10, J. Harter 4, Laythe 2, Holden, Groninger, May and Moore, 1 apiece.

Center—G. Harter 6, Prestley 4.

Quarter—Cornell 9, Smith 1.

Halfbacks—Parsons 10, Miller 4, Lockhart 4, Niles and May 1 apiece.

Fullback—Miller 6, Shiel 2, Niles 2.

M. A. C. GAME ADDS $665 TO "U" TREASURY

The graduate-manager's coffers are a little over $600 to the good as a result of the Multnomah-Oregon game, although this is far below the amount which would have been taken in had the day been more ideal for football.

The total receipts for the game were $2847. Multnomah received 25 per cent of the total gate receipts for the rent of the field and all outside this with the exception of the general expenses was divided equally between the two institutions. Oregon received $1015 as her share. Our expenses for the game amounted to about $350 which leaves a balance of $665.
