

ORAGANA ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN IS STARTED

Manager Secures Portland Business. Work on Book Is Begun

Durnig Ben Dorris' stay in Portland during the Thanksgiving holidays, three hundred and twenty dollars worth of advertising was secured and as much more is expected after the first of the year. Advertising is very hard to solicit, as business is slow and merchants are doubtful about the Oregon as far as the advertising is concerned. Henry Trowbridge, Assistant Manager, secured several important ads while in Portland.

The size of the book has been definitely settled at eight by ten and a half inch pages. One hundred pound weight Warrens Lustre Enamel paper will probably be selected, this being fifty per cent heavier than the paper used last year. Editor Hendricks figures on about five hundred to five hundred and twenty pages, and intends to bind the book in green leather or in a combination of green leather over the hinge with the balance of the boards in art cloth.

The art department is taking steps to secure some exclusive designs by illustrators of national fame, such as Maxfield Parrish and James Montgomery Flagg, but this is not definitely settled as yet.

PROF. DUNN ADDRESSES CLASSICAL ASSOCIATION

Head of Latin Department Represents Oregon at Tacoma

Professor F. S. Dunn, head of the Latin department, spent Friday and Saturday of last week in Tacoma as the representative from the University of Oregon to the annual convention of the Classical Association of the Pacific Northwest, held in that city.

Professor Dunn appeared on the program, as the author of a paper on the humor of Varro. According to the Latin instructor, his contribution to the work of the association was based mainly on a few fragmentary quotations from the Roman satirist which have been unearthed, his principle works having been entirely lost.

This is the third of a series which Professor Dunn is working up under the general head of Roman Wit and Humor. The next session of the classical association will be held some time during Thanksgiving week, 1914, in Portland.

Corduroy skirts for girls and corduroy trousers for the men have been adopted as the distinctive dress of the University of Indiana.

The Sophomores at the Ohio State University recently won the annual inter-class football game.

HIGHER CURRICULA BOARD VISITS HERE

Investigates University Engineering Department in Particular

The State Board of Higher Curricula, composed of Dr. J. R. Wilson, Portland; Dr. C. J. Smith, Portland; A. G. Beals, Tillamook; O. P. Coshow, Roseburg, and J. E. Hodges, of Oregon City, were on the campus this afternoon and will be at the University tomorrow.

The Board is investigating the conditions of the professional engineering courses at the University and at the Agricultural College. They were in Corvallis yesterday where they made an extensive tour of the college.

While here they will be entertained by members of the faculty and at the Dormitory for dinner tomorrow.

The Oregon Engineering students have prepared a demonstration of the different technical apparatus of the Engineering Department for the benefit of the Board. The Board has investigated the course at the Agricultural College, and will do the same here, to decide whether or not unnecessary duplication of courses is present in the two state institutions. If such is found to be the case, engineering instruction will probably be confined to the Agricultural College, and the University made wholly an institution for the study of liberal arts.

This has been a much mooted question in the state for years, and one of the main considerations in the advocacy of consolidation of the two schools.

Under present conditions the removal of the Oregon Engineering department would take away from the University a considerable number of its leading students. This would especially be true in athletics; but nearly as much so in general leadership of student life and activity; and would probably narrow the outlook and general scope of knowledge of students graduating from either institution in the future.

LOTTERY MASQUE DANCE IS LATEST SENIOR PLAN

Purely Class Affair to Be Held Some Time After Christmas

The Senior class at their meeting Wednesday morning decided to have a mask lottery dance to be given at the Kappa Sigma house some time after the Christmas holidays.

Del Stannard was chosen as treasurer of the class owing to the absence of Claude Still this year. Wallace Benson was elected basketball manager. After the business meeting, Vernon Motschenbacher and Don Rice gave short talks on the importance of the seniors getting acquainted with all of the students and striving to bring back the Oregon spirit. Miss Julia Burgess, class advisor, gave a short talk on the establishing of a Senior class day.

Miss Florence Avery favored the class with a vocal solo.

Girls Organization Started at "U" Now Has Established High School Camps

The Oregon Trail movement is rapidly becoming a popular one in Oregon. With the head camp at the University under the supervision of Dr. Bertha Stuart and the Women's Athletic Association, various sub-camps are being formed throughout the state.

At Junction City a camp has recently been organized under the leadership of Miss Jane Knox and Miss Zella Soules, both graduates of the University. One has been started at Drain with Lillian Gardner at the head and one has also been started at Medford. Miss Lucia Campbell and Miss Ethel Scalefe are hoping to start a camp in the near future at Myrtle Point while Dr. Stuart leaves the latter part of the week to start the movement in other cities and perhaps to organize a camp at Troutdale.

MANY WOMEN TAKE GYM

Classes in Folk Dancing Are Most Popular.

Perhaps the busiest place on the campus at present is the Women's gymnasium. Instead of the usual Freshman class there are three classes in first year gymnastics. The Sophomore class has also grown so that it has had to be divided into two sections.

The dancing classes are perhaps the most crowded and altogether there are five classes in folk dancing.

Dr. Stuart and her assistants are wholly occupied with their present duties, and they are wondering where they are going to find the time to teach swimming to the girls when the new tank is completed.

A WIDE WORLD SUCCESS.

Possibly no such an international success in theatricals has the record of "The Girl in the Taxi" that will be seen at the Eugene theatre next Tuesday, December 9. Every city that has any prominence has welcomed and laughed at this rapid-fire comedy. It first came to life in Paris, where it still is a shining feature. The theatre-goers of Paris must have class well seasoned, and this comedy broke the records for long runs there. Since that time it has been translated in many languages. Particular old London with its quaint ways has it running yet at the Lyric theatre. Just put the date down in your hat, get your seats in the Taxi, and you like the other millions who have seen it, will rejoice for many moons.
