

WRESTLING IS LATEST SPORT

SIXTEEN MEN NOW SIGNED UP WITH INSTRUCTOR SHOCKLEY

MATCHES COME IN MARCH

Showing of Oregon Mat Artists Is Problematical as Most of Them Have Had No Previous Experience at the Game.

WRESTLING IS

Wrestling is taking on a cloak of reality at the University this year since sixteen men have now signed up with instructor Shockley, who has this work in charge.

This sport was made a branch of conference athletics this year and as a result practically all the institutions in the conference are preparing to entertain men for the matches. The first match will be held at the Multnomah club in Portland, March 20 and 21.

The bouts will be held under the Amateur Athletic Association rules, catch-as-catch-can. There are eight weights for entries, which are: 180 or under, 115 or under, 125 or under, 135 or under, 145 or under, 158 or under and 175 or under. All over 175 pounds are in the heavy weight class of which Shockley has several. The 16 men are scattered out through the weights fairly equal and though very few of them have had any training or experience, Shockley thinks he has a good bunch to work with and expects to get results.

It is hard to tell what showing can be made with a squad of men that have never had any training and it will be several weeks yet before any of the men will begin to show up above the others, says the instructor. At present the squad is being well drilled in bridging and other elementary exercises which will develop the muscles needed especially for this work. A few of the more simple holds have been shown and the men are allowed to do considerable work on each other, which is good exercise and also gives them a chance to become familiar with the positions, the mat and what is expected of them. The daily workouts are completed with a brisk run around the indoor track for their wind.

Shockley has had considerable experience in this work as he has been at it for ten years, and wrestling is his specialty. Before coming here he had charge of this branch of athletics at Christian's Brothers College in Portland and was handling one of the prominent club's work in that city at the same time. He is a specialist in tumbling and swimming also, having had experience in both of these sports.

This is the first year of this work at Oregon and though it will take time to work up interest and ability in this sport the jovial gym instructor believes that Oregon has good material with which to start on.

The men who have thus far signed up for wrestling are: Wrightson, Martin, Barnett, Carl, Gorman, Whallen, Swoek, West, King, East-erwood, Cook, Hall, Livingston, Holden, Collier and Fujimaki.

It is possible that a number of inter-class meets will be held to bring out new material and to work up interest in this sport. The men will finally work out on an elimination plan, when it comes time to choose the men for the matches which will be held.

William Hayward, athletic director, returned this morning from Cottage Grove, where he lectured to a large audience last night. Bill carries his home-made movies along and is receiving requests steadily for lectures in many Oregon towns.

that a knowledge of this subject is necessary to every university woman. Lectures on this would be very useful.

Sororities Have Delegates.

The connection between Pan-Hellenic and the average university was also discussed, and the conference was waited on by the following Pan-Hellenic delegates: Mrs. MacElroy, Alpha Phi; Mrs. Learner, Pi Beta Phi; Mrs. Parmley, Delta Delta Delta; Mrs. Collins, Chi Omega, and Mrs. Naphis, Alpha Chi Omega. They asked for the co-operation of the deans, and it was agreed that this would be necessitated if the utmost efficiency in college work were to be attained.

"Well, that is about all," remarked Miss Guppy, "except that I visited at the Universities of Wisconsin, Chicago, Michigan and Minnesota and Northwestern University. And you may say for me that I am very glad to be back at Oregon, and am ready to go to work again."

ORATORICAL TRYOUTS TO BE HELD JANUARY 23

mental stage. But I believe they meet the new needs adequately for the present."

Schafer Wants More Changes.

Dr. Joseph Schafer believes that even more revolutionary changes should be made in the entrance requirements of the University of Oregon. "These new changes will not get us anywhere out of our tangle. Tradition that is hard to overcome is back of the old credit system. I believe that we should admit all men and women who can show a requisite minimum training to fit them for whatever work in the university they choose. The educational world is coming to this and it is my hope to have the University of Oregon in the forefront in this broader movement."

Y. W. TO HEAR ADDRESS ON MRS. E. R. SUNDERLAND

Monday Meeting Lecture to Be Given by Mrs. E. S. Parsons

Mrs. S. E. Parsons, of the English

Department, will address the Y. W. C. A. next Monday at 4 o'clock on Mrs. Eliza Reed Sunderland.

Mrs. Sunderland was the wife of a Unitarian leader who is now a missionary in the Orient. She was a great influence among the women at the University of Michigan at the time Mrs. Parsons attended there and was one of the women to give an address at the World's Parliament of Religions held at the time of the Chicago Exposition, which was one of the most scholarly addresses made.

Mrs. Parsons was a warm friend of Mrs. Sunderland's and is able to give much concerning her life and work.

DEFICIT FOR GLEE CLUB

TOUR WILL TOTAL $500.

Manager Walker Explains Causes. Later Trips Will Aid in Balancing Books

The graduate-manager's report of the recent trip of the glee club which was taken during the Christmas holidays shows a deficit of something between $500 and $600.

"The report has not been fully completed as yet," said Walker yesterday, "and the exact amount of the deficit it not known at this time. There are numerous expenses incurred all along the line of the trip and as I did not make it myself I have been unable to get hold of all these items of expense. My estimate at this time is between $500 and $600."

"This is an unusually large deficit for the club's annual trip and is some larger than I expected, though at no time did I expect the club to make any money. The distance we traveled was too far and the jumps too far between to permit any chance of making expenses. Also I was informed before the club left by several advance agents and road men that this is a particularly bad year for road shows. A couple of other circumstances which made it difficult for us to secure the best houses possible was the fact that at a number of the stops made we were preceded by the O. A. C. band by a couple of days. Also we were followed by a good road company which was putting on one of the popular plays of the modern type and for which I found that a good many people were waiting.

"Though we went into the hole to considerable extent on this trip the balance for the year is not quite as bad and amounts to at least $200 less. And by the end of the year if conditions are favorable I expect to pull out pretty even with the board by making another trip or two.

"The advertising of this trip was poorly handled and this also helped to make matters worse. The advertising for the next trip will be better handled."

Harvard varsity players will be asked to refrain from indulging in special newspaper writing next fall. Strangely enough Captain Brickley will have to stand by this edict himself. He cleaned up $50 a week last season writing for Boston papers. Captain Brickley and Hardwick have already been offered $100 a game for special articles.

MUSTACHES BUTT OF JOKE

A pyramid of wooden boxes four feet high appeared before the eyes of the assembled multitude. On the point was a bottle of hair tonic. On the second deck were pictures of the four most successful "mustaches." Allie Grout who was decked in a scarlet red, mustache Victor Burris wearing a more rustic colored goatee, Herman Oberteuffer with a few straggling pieces of a moustache and Hawley Bean with a stubble of red. Under each were written words of praise and sympathy.

Offenders Punished.
The fountain did not last long as the Seniors were some what shocked at seeing their brethren and honored president placed in ridicule. They at once tore the structure to pieces before the real significance could be observed by all.

So much of the spirit of the class of 1914 was aroused that at eleven o'clock, the senior men siezed Lombard and tied him to the senior bench, and painted a blue mustache on his physiogomy. "If you want to get any one get me," said Ben Dorriss. "I am the cause of all this." Whereupon the seniors took a vote and he was "got."

"Bush" Debar came single handed into the throng of seniors and attempted to help his classmen, while at least a dozen other husky juniors stood and laughed at the treatment their brothers Lombard and Dorriss were receiving.

UNFLATTERING OPINION OF COLLEGE STUDENTS

Professor Allen Says They Are Unable to Think Independently.

Among the varied opinions of the modern college student comes one from Prof. E. W. Allen, of the journalism department, which, in the main, accuses them of being unable to think independently.

This statement Professor Allen has emphasized in a series of short personal talks to his editorial class. The absence of any decided stand or continuous principle from their work precipitated the foregoing comment according to his own statement.

He thinks the same estimate applies to college students in general, and not alone to Oregon.

He was unable to assign any definite cause for this fault, but suggested as a probability that the young people of today do not have to exercise creative and imaginative powers as they used to. From childhood they have completed things shoved at them. Toys which a child once had to make are now presented finished and only have to be operated. The thought of thousands of other men presented in education and the student begins to accept things along beaten paths, never thinking to see something undiscovered by the roadside, and forming no convictions or which he would stand when in danger of personal ridicule or when asked to express his opinions.

A kindred fault comes in for his notice—that of ignorance of the best literature among the students. This he has often referred to, and has proven it by questioning his classes on general literature.

A plan to establish in Ann Arbor a stove factory and sales offices, for the purpose of employing student labor, was presented to the board of regents by L. D. Smith, owner of a Detroit company. Two local concerns have submitted plans to the working students' committee, with the same purpose in view. It is believed that these projects will prove highly beneficial to self-supporting students.
